Reid, 1993-02-23 Can films about black characters produced by white filmmakers be considered black films In answering this question Mark Reid reassesses black film history carefully distinguishing between films controlled by blacks and films that utilize black talent but are controlled by whites Previous black film criticism has buried the true black film industry Reid says by concentrating on films that are about but not by blacks Reid's discussion of black independent films defined as films that focus on the black community and that are written directed produced and distributed by blacks ranges from the earliest black involvement at the turn of the century up through the civil rights movement of the Sixties and the recent resurgence of feminism in black cultural production His critical assessment of work by some black filmmakers such as Spike Lee notes how these films avoid dramatizations of sexism homophobia and classism within the black community In the area of black commercial film controlled by whites Reid considers three genres African American comedy black family film and black action film He points out that even when these films use black writers and directors a black perspective rarely surfaces Reid's innovative critical approach which transcends the black image language of earlier studies and at the same time redefines black film makes an important contribution to film history Certain to attract film scholars this work will also appeal to anyone interested in African American and Women's Studies The Technique of Film and Video Editing Ken Dancyger, 2007

In The Philosophy of Spike Lee editor Mark T Conard and an impressive list of contributors delve into the rich philosophy behind this filmmaker's extensive work. Not only do they analyze the major themes of race and discrimination that permeate Lee's productions but also examine other philosophical ideas that are found in his films ideas such as the nature of time transcendence moral motivation self constitution and justice. The authors specialize in a variety of academic disciplines that range from African American Studies to literary and cultural criticism and Philosophy.

Doing Criticism James Chandler, 2022-03-29 Not only an accessible hands on guide to writing criticism across the literary arts the dramatic arts and the narrative screen arts but also a book that makes a case for how and why criticism matters today. Doing Criticism Across Literary and Screen Arts is a practical guide to engaging actively and productively with a critical object whether a film a novel or a play. Going beyond the study of lyric poetry and literature to include motion picture and dramatic arts this unique text provides specific advice on how to best write criticism while offering concrete illustrations of what it looks like on the page. Divided into two parts the book first presents an up to date account of the state of criticism in both Anglo American and Continental contexts describing both the longstanding mission and the changing functions of criticism over the centuries and discussing critical issues that bridge the literary and screen arts in the contemporary world. The second part of the book features a variety of case studies of criticism across media including works by canonical authors such as Jane Austen Charles Dickens and W B Yeats films such as Coppola's The Conversation and Hitchcock's Vertigo screen adaptations of Mary Shelley's Frankenstein and Ishiguro's The Remains of the Day and a concluding chapter on several of Spike Lee's film joints that brings several of the book's central concepts to bear on work of a single film auteur. Helping students of literature and cinema write well about what they find in their reading and viewing Doing Criticism Across Literary and Screen Arts Discusses how the bridging of the literary arts and screen arts can help criticism flourish in the present day. Illustrates how the doing of criticism is in practice a particular kind of writing. Considers how to generalize the consequences of criticism beyond personal growth and gratification. Addresses the ways the practice of criticism matters to the practice of the critical object. Suggests that doing without criticism is not only unwise but also perhaps impossible. Features case studies organized under the rubrics of conversation adaptation genre authorship and seriality. Doing Criticism Across Literary and Screen Arts is an ideal text for students in introductory courses in criticism literary studies and film studies as well as general readers with interest in the subject.
