Food Politics:

Food Politics Marion Nestle, 2013-05-14 We all witness in advertising and on supermarket shelves the fierce competition for our food dollars In this engrossing expos Marion Nestle goes behind the scenes to reveal how the competition really works and how it affects our health The abundance of food in the United States enough calories to meet the needs of every man woman and child twice over has a downside Our over efficient food industry must do everything possible to persuade people to eat more more food more often and in larger portions no matter what it does to waistlines or well being Like manufacturing cigarettes or building weapons making food is big business Food companies in 2000 generated nearly 900 billion in sales They have stakeholders to please shareholders to satisfy and government regulations to deal with It is nevertheless shocking to learn precisely how food companies lobby officials co opt experts and expand sales by marketing to children members of minority groups and people in developing countries We learn that the food industry plays politics as well as or better than other industries not least because so much of its activity takes place outside the public view Editor of the 1988 Surgeon General s Report on Nutrition and Health Nestle is uniquely qualified to lead us through the maze of food industry interests and influences She vividly illustrates food politics in action watered down government dietary advice schools pushing soft drinks diet supplements promoted as if they were First Amendment rights When it comes to the mass production and consumption of food strategic decisions are driven by economics not science not common sense and certainly not health No wonder most of us are thoroughly confused about what to eat to stay healthy An accessible and balanced account Food Politics will forever change the way we respond to food industry marketing practices By explaining how much the food industry influences government nutrition policies and how cleverly it links its interests to those of nutrition experts this path breaking book helps us understand more clearly than ever before what we eat and why

Food Politics Robert Paarlberg, 2010-04-07 The politics of food is changing fast In rich countries obesity is now a more serious problem than hunger Consumers once satisfied with cheap and convenient food now want food that is also safe nutritious fresh and grown by local farmers using fewer chemicals Heavily subsidized and underregulated commercial farmers are facing stronger push back from environmentalists and consumer activists and food companies are under the microscope Meanwhile agricultural success in Asia has spurred income growth and dietary enrichment but agricultural failure in Africa has left one third of all citizens undernourished and the international markets that link these diverse regions together are subject to sudden disruption Food Politics What Everyone Needs to Know carefully examines and explains the most important issues on today s global food landscape including international food prices famines chronic hunger the Malthusian race between food production and population growth international food aid green revolution farming obesity farm subsidies and trade agriculture and the environment agribusiness supermarkets food safety fast food slow food organic food local food and genetically engineered food Politics in each of these areas has become polarized over the past decade by conflicting claims and accusations from advocates on all sides Paarlberg's book maps this contested terrain challenging myths and critiquing more than a few of today's fashionable beliefs about farming and food For those ready to have their thinking about food politics informed and also challenged this is the book to read What Everyone Needs to Know is a registered trademark of Oxford University Press

Pet Food Politics Marion Nestle, 2008-09-15 Marion Nestle acclaimed author of Food Politics now tells the gripping story of how in early 2007 a few telephone calls about sick cats set off the largest recall of consumer products in U.S. history and an international crisis over the safety of imported goods ranging from food to toothpaste tires and toys Nestle follows the trail of tainted pet food ingredients back to their source in China and along the supply chain to their introduction into feed for pigs chickens and fish in the United States Canada and other countries throughout the world What begins as a problem merely for cats and dogs soon becomes an issue of tremendous concern to everyone Nestle uncovers unexpected connections among the food supplies for pets farm animals and people and identifies glaring gaps in the global oversight of food safety

Eat Drink Vote Marion Nestle, 2013-09-03 Bestselling author of What to eat with illustrations from the vaults of the Cartoonist Group

Food Politics Marion Nestle, 2013-05-14 We all witness in advertising and on supermarket shelves the fierce competition for our food dollars In this title the author reveals how the competition really works and how it affects our health It illustrates food politics in action watered down government dietary advice diet supplements promoted as if they were First Amendment rights

Embodied Food Politics Michael S. Carolan, 2016-04-29 While the phenomenon of embodied knowledge is becoming integrated into the social sciences critical geography and feminist research agendas it continues to be largely ignored by agro food scholars This book helps fill this void by inserting into the food literature living feeling sensing bodies and will be of interest to food scholars as well as those more generally interested in the phenomenon known as embodied realism This book is about the materializations of food politics materializations in this case referring to our embodied sensuous and physical connectivities to food production and consumption It is through these materializations argues Carolan that we know food and the food system more generally others and ourselves

Food Politics Robert L. Paarlberg, 2023 Covering the many important changes in food markets and food politics that have shaped both global and local farming and eating over the past decade this compact and authoritative primer lays out everything you need to know to understand today's global food landscape The politics of food is changing fast In rich countries obesity is now a more serious problem than hunger Consumers once satisfied with cheap and convenient food now want food that is also safe nutritious fresh and grown by local farmers using fewer chemicals Heavily subsidized and underregulated commercial farmers are facing stronger push back from environmentalists and consumer activists and food companies are under the microscope Where does power lie in this increasingly complex global food system Moreover what is the future of food politics both in the United States and beyond The third edition of Food Politics What Everyone Needs to Know R has been thoroughly updated to reflect the latest developments and research on today's global food landscape including the realities of food markets farm production methods food manufacturing and dietary health challenges New material covers the rise of China in world food markets and global food politics the unabated and increasing risks to farming from climate change the impact COVID 19 had on incomes and hunger the equally shocking impact from the war in Ukraine on food prices and trade and surprising scientific and technical breakthroughs such as the genome editing of crops CRISPR and the marketing of cell cultured animal free meats As well each chapter has been updated with new data on population growth hunger and food security trade conflicts humanitarian aid carbon farming regenerative agriculture holistic grazing animal welfare genetically engineered food and more Discussing the politics and policies that continue to shape our contemporary food system Robert Paarlberg challenges myths and critiques more than a few of today s fashionable beliefs about farming and food For those ready to have their thinking about food politics informed but also challenged this is the book to read

Global Activism in Food Politics A. Mann, 2014-05-01 Who should provide food and through what relationships Whose livelihoods should be protected For over 20 years the peasant farmers of La Via Campesina have been engaged in the fight against injustice hunger and poverty under the banner of food sovereignty the right of peoples to healthy and culturally appropriate food produced through ecologically sound and sustainable methods and their right to define their own food and agriculture systems They campaign for healthy sustainable alternatives to an industrial food system controlled by agribusiness companies and the architects of unfair trade agreements This book draws on grounded case studies of agrarian movements in the Americas and Europe as exemplars of a power shift as local opposition scales up to global action in an effort to wrest control of our food away from transnational corporations and back to communities

School Food Politics Sarah A. Robert, Marcus B. Weaver-Hightower, 2011 This book has received the AESA American Educational Studies Association Critics Choice Award 2012 The essays in School Food Politics explore the intersections of food and politics on all six of the inhabited continents of the world Including electoral fights over universally free school meals in Korea nutritional reforms to school dinners in England and canteens in Australia teachers and doctors work on school feeding in Argentina and more the volume provides key illustrations of the many contexts that have witnessed intense struggles defining which children will eat why what and how they are served and who will pay for and prepare the food Contributors include reformers writing from their own perspectives from the farm to school program in Burlington Vermont to efforts to apply principles of critical pedagogy in cooking programs for urban teens to animal rights curriculum Later chapters shift their focus to possibilities and hope for a different future for school food one that is friendlier to students lunch ladies society other creatures and the planet

Party Food Rebecca Harris, 2021-01-01 Voting with your fork is a common mantra for those concerned with food politics However real voting requires one to choose between Democrats and Republicans and most food voters do not know the partisan history of food politics Party Food is written for farmers and foodies who want to understand the political history of food policy Harris is a political scientist who is also a commercial farmer Her expertise in both fields offers fresh professional insight into the lay of the land in American food politics In Party Food Harris unpacks the political foundations of contemporary farm policy and expertly explains the team sport of partisan politics as it plays out in the food politics landscape In Party Food she introduces the Democratic and Republican Heroes and Villains of food politics and offers an accessible insight into each political party's policy menu and team play in Presidential and Congressional politics In this way Party Food offers foodies and farmers a food politics primer on Democrats Republicans and fills an important gap in the food politics discussion

Soda Politics Marion Nestle, 2015-09-07 Sodas are astonishing products Little more than flavored sugar water these drinks cost practically nothing to produce or buy yet have turned their makers principally Coca Cola and PepsiCo into a multibillion dollar industry with global recognition distribution and political power Billed as refreshing tasty crisp and the real thing sodas also happen to be so well established to contribute to poor dental hygiene higher calorie intake obesity and type 2 diabetes that the first line of defense against any of these conditions is to simply stop drinking them Habitually drinking large volumes of soda not only harms individual health but also burdens societies with runaway healthcare costs So how did products containing absurdly inexpensive ingredients become multibillion dollar industries and international brand icons while also having a devastating impact on public health In Soda Politics the 2016 James Beard Award for Writing Coca Cola and PepsiCo spend billions of dollars each year to promote their sale to children minorities and low income populations in developing as well as industrialized nations And once they have stimulated that demand they leave no stone unturned to protect profits That includes lobbying to prevent any measures that would discourage soda sales strategically donating money to health organizations and researchers who can make the science about sodas appear confusing and engaging in Corporate Social Responsibility CSR activities to create goodwill and silence critics Soda Politics follows the money trail wherever it leads revealing how hard Big Soda works to sell as much of their products as possible to an increasingly obese world But Soda Politics does more than just diagnose a problem it encourages readers to help find solutions From Berkeley to Mexico City and beyond advocates are successfully countering the relentless marketing promotion and political protection of sugary drinks And their actions are having an impact for all of the hardball and softball tactics the soft drink industry employs to maintain the status quo soda consumption has been flat or falling for years Health advocacy campaigns are now the single greatest threat to soda companies profits Soda Politics provides readers with the tools they need to keep up pressure on Big Soda in order to build healthier and more sustainable food systems

Eating Anxiety Chad Lavin, 2013-04-07 Debates about obesity are really about the meaning of responsibility The trend toward local foods reflects the changing nature of space due to new communication technologies Vegetarian theory capitalizes on biotechnology's challenge to the meaning of species And food politics as this book makes powerfully clear is actually about the political anxieties surrounding globalization In Eating Anxiety Chad Lavin argues that our culture's obsession with diet obesity meat and local foods enacts ideological and biopolitical responses to perceived threats to both individual and national sovereignty Using the occasion of eating to examine assumptions about identity objectivity and sovereignty that underwrite so much political order Lavin explains how food functions to help structure popular and philosophical understandings of the world and the place of humans within it He introduces the concept of digestive subjectivity and shows how this offers valuable resources for rethinking cherished political ideals surrounding knowledge democracy and power Exploring discourses of food politics Eating Anxiety links the concerns of food especially issues of sustainability public health and inequality to the evolution of the world order and the possibilities for democratic rule It forces us to question the significance of consumerist politics and simultaneously the relationship between politics and ethics public and private Food

Transgressions Michael K. Goodman, Colin Sage, 2016-04-22 Reconnecting so called alternative food geographies back to the mainstream food system especially in light of the discursive and material transgressions currently happening between alternative and conventional food networks this volume critically interrogates and evaluates what stands for food politics in these spaces of transgression now and in the near future and addresses questions such as What constitutes alternative food politics specifically and food politics more generally when organic and other quality foods have become mainstreamed What has been the contribution so far of an alternative food movement and its potential to leverage further progressive change and or make further inroads into conventional systems What are the empirical and theoretical bases for understanding the established and growing transgressions between conventional and alternative food networks Offering a better understanding of the evolving position of the corporate food system vis a vis alternative food networks this book considers the prospects for economic social cultural and material transformations led by an increasingly powerful and legitimated alternative food network The New Food Activism Alison Alkon, Julie Guthman, 2017-06-27 The New Food Activism explores how food activism can be pushed toward deeper and more complex engagement with social racial and economic justice and toward advocating for broader and more transformational shifts in the food system Topics examined include struggles against pesticides and GMOs efforts to improve workers pay and conditions throughout the food system and ways to push food activism beyond its typical reliance on individualism consumerism and private property The authors challenge and advance existing discourse on consumer trends food movements and the intersection of food with racial and economic inequalities

The Oxford Handbook of Food History Jeffrey M. Pilcher, 2012-10-16 Food matters not only as a subject of study in its own right but also as a medium for conveying critical messages about capitalism the environment and social inequality to diverse audiences Recent scholarship on the subject draws from both a pathbreaking body of secondary literature and an inexhaustible wealth of primary sources from ancient Chinese philosophical tracts to McDonald s menus contributing new perspectives to the historical study of food culture and society and challenging the limits of history itself The Oxford Handbook of Food History places existing works in historiographical context crossing disciplinary chronological and geographic boundaries while also suggesting new routes for future research The twenty seven essays in this book are organized into five sections historiography disciplinary approaches production circulation and consumption of food The first two sections examine the foundations of food history not only in relation to key developments in the discipline of history itself such as the French Annales school and the cultural turn but also in anthropology sociology geography pedagogy and the emerging Critical Nutrition Studies The following three sections sketch various trajectories of food as it travels from farm to table factory to eatery nature to society Each section balances material cultural and intellectual concerns whether juxtaposing questions of agriculture and the environment with the notion of cookbooks as historical documents early human migrations with modern culinary tourism or religious customs with social activism In its vast interdisciplinary scope this handbook brings students and scholars an authoritative guide to a field with fresh insights into one of the most fundamental human concerns

Alternative Food Politics Michelle Phillipov, Katherine Kirkwood, 2018-12-07 Media interest in food has intensified in recent years leading to a contemporary food landscape where alternative food practices are increasingly visible Concerns that were once exclusively the domain of activist movements motivated by environmental animal rights health and anti corporate agendas are now central to primetime television cooking shows mobile apps and social media This book is the first to explore the impact of popular media and culture on contemporary food politics Through examination of a range of media and cultural texts including news digital media advertising and food labelling it brings together leading and emerging scholars in food studies media and communications sociology law policy studies business and geography The book explores the practices of alternative food movements the marketing techniques of conventional and alternative food producers and the relationships between food industries media and the public Covering topics ranging from agtech start ups and social justice projects to new ways of mediating food waste celebrity and ethical foods Alternative Food Politics reveals the importance of media as a driver of food system transformation This is a pivotal time for media and food industries and this book is essential reading for scholars and students seeking to better understand the futures possibilities and limits of food politics today

Foodies Josee Johnston, Shyon Baumann, 2009-12-04 This important new cultural analysis tells two stories about food The first depicts good food as democratic Foodies frequent hole in the wall ethnic eateries appreciate the pie found in working class truck stops and reject the snobbery of fancy French restaurants with formal table service The second story describes how food operates as a source of status and distinction for economic and cultural elites indirectly maintaining and reproducing social inequality While the first storyline insists that anybody can be a foodie the second asks foodies to look in the mirror and think about their relative social and economic privilege By simultaneously considering both of these stories and studying how they operate in tension a delicious sociology of food becomes available perfect for teaching a broad range of cultural sociology courses

The A-Z Encyclopedia of Food Controversies and the Law Elizabeth M. Williams, Stephanie Jane Carter, 2010-12-22 This two volume set is a broad compendium of the law policies and legal influences that affect the food on our plates today As food increasingly impacts our health and our wallets we need to understand the enormous effect of law both U S law and international regulations on the safety and availability of the food we eat The A Z Encyclopedia of Food Controversies and the Law was compiled to help readers do just that The most comprehensive work covering food and law the encyclopedia surveys laws related to organics obesity and fair trade It tackles the intersection of law and religious belief for example with kosher and halal foods as well as controversies over labeling practices and consumer protection in general And it looks at the relationship of class to food exposing poor urban areas that possess few sources of fresh food so that residents are forced to rely on convenience stores and fast food for nutrition As background the set also presents a basic history of food related law to show us how we got where we are Digital Food TV Michelle Phillipov,2022-11-01 This book explores the new theoretical and political questions raised by food TV s digital transformation Bringing together analyses of food media texts and platform infrastructures from streaming and catch up TV to YouTube and Facebook food videos it shows how new textual conventions algorithmic practices and market logics have redrawn the boundaries of food TV and altered the cultural place of food and food media in a digital era With case studies of new and rerun television and emerging online genres Digital Food TV considers what food television means at the current moment a time when on screen digital content is rapidly proliferating and televisual platforms and technologies are undergoing significant change This book will appeal to students and scholars of food studies television studies and digital media studies Upsetting Food Jeffrey Haydu,2021-05-28 Compares U S food reform campaigns through historical social movements each driven by capitalism but shaped by activism
