Friends, Guests, and Colleagues Kenneth E. Folsom, 1968 V.K. Wellington Koo and the Emergence of Modern China Stephen G. Craft, 2021-09-15 Chinese diplomat V K Wellington Koo 1888 1985 was involved in virtually every foreign and domestic crisis in twentieth century China After earning a Ph D from Columbia University Koo entered government service in 1912 intent on revising the unequal treaty system imposed on China in the nineteenth century believing that breaking the shackles of imperialism would bring China into the family of nations His pursuit of this nationalistic agenda was immediately interrupted by Chinese civil war and Japanese imperialism during World War I In the 1930s Koo attempted to use international law to force western powers to honor their treaty obligations to punish Japanese expansion Koo also participated in creating the League of Nations and later the United Nations in the hope that collective security would become reality Government, Imperialism and Nationalism in China Chihyun Chang, 2013-08-06 The Chinese Maritime Customs Service which was led by British staff is often seen as one of the key agents of Western imperialism in China the customs revenue being one of the major sources of Chinese government income but a source much of which was pledged to Western banks as the collateral for and interests payments on massive loans This book however based on extensive original research considers the lower level staff of the Chinese Maritime Customs Service and shows how the Chinese government struggling to master Western expertise in many areas pursued a deliberate policy of encouraging lower level staff to learn from their Western superiors with a view to eventually supplanting them a policy which was successfully carried out The book thereby demonstrates that Chinese engagement with Western imperialists was in fact an essential part of Chinese national state building and that what looked like a key branch of Chinese government delegated to foreigners was in fact very much under Chinese government control Chinese Business Groups in Hong Kong and Political Change in South China 1900-1925 S. Chung, 1998-04-27 Politics can be a profitable business as can be found in Republican era Canton amidst a politically fragmented China Competing merchant groups in Hong Kong sought to finance the regional Canton government in return for financial concessions This patronage system made commercial endeavours dependent on politics and embedded business in politics Reform in China Noriko Kamachi, 2020-03-17 This work describes the career of Huang Tsun hsien a late Ch ing diplomat bureaucrat and political thinker who was one of the f i r s t modern Chinese i n t e l l e c t u a l s t h a t s e r i o u s l y recommended Meiji Japan as a model of modernization for China His study on Japanese history became the blueprint for the Hundred Days Reform in 1898 Reproducing Women Yi-Li Wu,2010-08-11 This innovative book uses the lens of cultural history to examine the development of medicine in Qing dynasty China Focusing on the specialty of medicine for women fuke Yi Li Wu explores the material and ideological issues associated with childbearing in the late imperial period She draws on a rich array of medical writings that circulated in seventeenth to nineteenth century China to analyze the points of convergence and contention that shaped people s views of women s reproductive diseases These points of contention touched on fundamental issues How different were women s bodies from men s What drugs were best for promoting conception and preventing miscarriage Was childbirth inherently dangerous And who was best qualified to judge Wu shows that late imperial medicine approached these questions with a new positive perspective Entangled Itineraries Pamela H. Smith,2019-05-22 Trade flowed across Eurasia around the Indian Ocean and over the Mediterranean for millennia but in the early modern period larger parts of the globe became connected through these established trade routes Knowledge embodied in various people materials texts objects and practices also moved and came together along these routes in hubs of exchange where different social and cultural groups intersected and interacted Entangled Itineraries traces this movement of knowledge across the Eurasian continent from the early years of the Common Era to the nineteenth century following local goods techniques tools and writings as they traveled and transformed into new material and intellectual objects and ways of knowing Focusing on nonlinear trajectories of knowledge in motion this volume follows itineraries that weaved in and out of busy crowded cosmopolitan cities in China in the trade hubs of Kucha and Malacca and in centers of Arabic scholarship such as Rey and Baghdad which resonated in Bursa Assam and even as far as southern France Contributors explore the many ways in which materials practices and knowledge systems were transformed and codified as they converged swelled at times disappeared and often reemerged anew Commerce and Capitalism in Chinese Societies Gary G. Hamilton,2006-05-24 Consisting of sixteen articles which together provide historical comparative and theoretically informed perspectives on the spread of Chinese capitalism this collection emphasizes the difference between Western and Chinese forms of capitalism Gender and Sexuality in Modern Chinese History Susan L. Mann,2011-09-19 Gender and sexuality have been neglected topics in the history of Chinese civilization despite the fact that there is a massive amount of historical evidence on the subject China s late imperial government was arguably more concerned about gender and sexuality among its subjects than any other pre modern state How did these and other late imperial legacies shape twentieth century notions of gender and sexuality in modern China Susan Mann answers this by focusing on state policy ideas about the physical body and notions of sexuality and difference in China s recent history from medicine to the theater to the gay bars from law to art and sports More broadly the book shows how changes in attitudes toward sex and gender in China during the twentieth century have cast a new light on the process of becoming modern while simultaneously challenging the

universalizing assumptions of Western modernity

Career Patterns in the Ch'ing Dynasty Raymond Chu, William Saywell, 2020-08-06 The office of governor general tsung tu was the highest provincial post throughout the Ch ing dynasty As such it was a vital link in the control of a vast empire by a very small and alien ruling elite This is primarily a biographical and statistical analysis of the incumbents of that office By analyzing the biographical data of those who held the position of governor general much may be learned about the nature of the office itself However the main objective of the study is to provide information on career patterns that is the variety of different posts held from the first official appointment to that of governor general of an important cross section of successful Ch ing bureaucrats By plotting and analyzing the different patterns their official careers took we should be able to determine what kind of men reached the top of China s provincial and national administration during the final centuries of China s imperial history the qualifications that were required the factors which prompted rapid promotion or sudden disgrace We should also be able to determine the extent to which these and other factors varied markedly among Manchu Mongol Chinese Bannerman and Han incumbents and whether changes throughout the dynasty can be detected in policies concerning the office or in the career patterns of its personnel If such detection is possible this study may lend support to the view that late imperial China was not static but a society undergoing significant changes xi

Overt and Covert Treasures Clara Wing-chung Ho, 2012-08-20 This is the first published volume on a variety of sources for Chinese women's history. It is an attempt to explore overt and covert information on Chinese women in a vast quantity of textual and nontextual conventional and unconventional source materials. Some chapters reread well-known texts or previously marginalized texts and brainstorm new ways to use and interpret these sources; others explore new sources or previously overlooked or underused materials. This book is a valuable product witnessing the concerted effort of twenty-some scholars located in different parts of the world.

Remaking the Chinese City Joseph W. Esherick, 2000-01-01

In China today skyscrapers tower over ancient temples; freeways deliver lines of cars and tour buses to imperial palaces; cinema houses compete with old theaters featuring Peking Opera. The disparity evidenced in the contemporary Chinese cityscape can be traced to the early decades of the twentieth century when government elites sought to transform cities into a new world that would be at once modern and distinctly Chinese. Remaking the Chinese City aims to capture the full diversity of recent Chinese urbanism by examining the modernist transformations of China's cities in the first half of the twentieth century. Collecting in one place some of the most interesting and exciting new work on Chinese urban history, this volume presents thirteen essays discussing ten Chinese cities: the commercial and industrial center of Shanghai; the old capital Beijing; the southern coastal city of Canton; the interior's Chengdu; the tourist city of Hangzhou; the utopian New Capital built in Manchuria during the Japanese occupation; the treaty port of Tianjin; the Nationalists' capital in Nanjing; and temporary wartime capitals of Wuhan and Chongqing. Unlike past treatments of early twentieth-century China, which characterize the period as one of failure and decay, the contributors to this volume describe an exciting world in constant and fundamental change. During this time, the Chinese city was remade to accommodate parks and police-paved roads and public spaces. Rickshaws, trolleys, and buses allowed the growth of new downtowns. Department stores, theaters, newspapers, and modern advertising nourished a new urban identity. Sanitary regulations and traffic laws were enforced, and modern media and transport permitted unprecedented freedoms. Yet despite their fondness for things Western and modern, early urban planners envisioned cities that would lead the Chinese nation and preserve Chinese tradition. The very desire for modernity led to the construction of a visible and accessible national past and the imagining of a distinctive national future. In their investigation of the national capitals of the period, the essays show how cities were reshaped to represent and serve the nation. To promote tourism, traditions were invented and recycled for the pleasure and edification of new middle-class and foreign consumers of culture. Abundantly illustrated with maps and photographs, Remaking the Chinese City presents the best and most current scholarship on modern Chinese cities. Its thoroughness and detailed scholarship will appeal to the specialist, while its clarity and scope will engage the general reader.

Contributors: Michael Tsin on Canton; Ruth Rogaski and Brett Sheehan on Tianjin; David Buck on Changchun; Kristin Stapleton on Chengdu; Liping Wang on Hangzhou; Madeleine Dong on Beijing; Charles Musgrove on Nanjing; Stephen MacKinnon on Wuhan; Lee MacIsaac on Chongqing; and Jeffrey Wasserstrom and David Strand with concluding essays.

The Chinese Corporatist State Jennifer Hsu, Reza Hasmath, 2013

This book looks at how NGOs

social organizations business associations trade unions and religious associations interact with the state and explore how social actors have negotiated the influence of the state at both national and local levels and examines how a corporatist understanding of state society relations can be reformulated as old and new social stakeholders play a greater role in managing contemporary social issues In turn the book goes on to chart the differences in how the state behaves locally and centrally and finally discusses the future direction of the corporatist state
