From Early Child Development To Human Development Investing In Our Childrens Future:

From Early Child Development to Human Development Mary E. Young, 2002-01-01 The World Bank convened a global conference in April 2000 to address the benefits and challenges of investing in early childhood development The fact is that 125 million primary school age children are not in school another 150 million children drop out of primary school before they complete four years of education and almost one half of the children in the least developed countries of the world do not have access to primary education With the publication of this volume which contains the conference proceedings the World Bank hopes to encourage a broader investment by countries companies organisations and private sector institutions in early child development The book is in five sections the benefits of investing in the young measuring the early opportunity gap evaluating the effectiveness of early childhood programmes the private sectors influence on the public sector investing in the future action and policy

From Early Child Development to Human Development Mary Eming Young, 2013 Investing in every child at an early age is an investment in human and economic development for all Children born in poverty are far more likely to grow undeveloped in both body and mind Science tells us that early child development ECD is critical and marks a child for life and young children who are well nurtured do better in school and develop the skills to compete in a global economy It is in this context that the Bank hosted a conference to review the state of knowledge on brain development the link between ECD and human development the standards of care to improve children s educational outcomes the qualitative and quantitative measures of effective programs and elements of quality in ECD programs This book contains the proceedings of the Conference on Investing in our Children s Future which brought together leading experts academicians and practitioners from nongovernmental organizations civil society governments and international organizations The conference featured the benefits of investing in young children and measuring ECD standards of care to ensure a fair start for all based on case studies It further evaluated the effectiveness of ECD programs with presentations focused on the role of private initiatives in influencing public policy Conclusions include the pursuit of a continued evaluation on the effectiveness of ECD programs and a deliberately planned global coalition to fund ECD initiatives

Family, Self, and Human Development Across Cultures Cigdem Kagitcibasi, 2007-03-09 Reflecting author gdem Kagitasi s influential work over the last two decades this new edition examines human development the self and the family in a cultural context It challenges the existing assumptions in mainstream western psychology about the nature of individuals The author proposes a new model the Autonomous Related Self which

Early Childhood Education and Development in Poor Villages of Indonesia Amer Hasan, Marilou Hyson, Mae Chu Chang, 2013-07-18 Indonesia has begun to emerge into middle income status yet persistent poverty and stark inequalities continue to affect young children s development This book tells the story of Indonesia s efforts to change the trajectory of development for poor children Many countries have similar aims but several aspects of what is reported here are especially valuable and perhaps unique The study offers data on all aspects of health and development in a sample of rural young children collected with internationally validated measures as well as household information about parenting practices including feeding patterns parent questionnaires and data on the prevalence and distribution of ECED services The data reported in this book is based on a sample of more than 6 000 Indonesian children living in 310 poor villages including two age cohorts aged 1 and 4 years old when data were first collected on their development in 2009 From the start the project aimed not only to support service provision but also to support the development of national standards build national and district capacity and encourage the establishment of a system of ECED quality assurance efforts that are still in process Few such analyses have been done with such a large sample and with multiple measures These design features allow a high level of confidence in the results that are reported The lessons from this book will help to inform not only this project s further implementation but ECED initiatives in Indonesia and around the world Thus the results presented in this book are of significance for researchers policy makers and practitioners within and beyond Indonesia The experiences and research results discussed here are especially relevant for Researchers in early childhood development and program evaluation Policymakers within and beyond Indonesia Providers of early childhood services Professional development providers and Advocates for quality early childhood services

Early Child Development from Measurement to Action Mary E. Young, Linda M. Richardson, 2007 Prosperity in the world today depends on societies nurturing of young children Quality care stimulation health and nutrition during ages 0 5 has a decisive and long lasting impact on a person s development ability to learn and capacity to regulate emotions Cognitive and noncognitive social and emotional skills set early in life determine later success New research in neurobiology and the behavioral and social sciences is converging to enhance this understanding of early child development Recently researchers noted epigenetic effects in brain development that is the interaction of environment early experiences with genetics to shape brain structure and function that with proper nurturing would enable people to have competence to create prosperous sustainable tolerant nonviolent and democratic communities The World Bank recently hosted a symposium on the priority of early child development for economic growth and equity The participants urged application of population based tools and measures to assess the outcomes of children s early years and children s readiness for school This approach which shifts the focus from measures of disease dysfunction and mortality is already yielding essential data for designing intervention programs identifying children at risk and leveraging policy and investment to improve the possibilities for all children globally

World Development Report 2006 World Bank, 2005-09-28 The World Development Report 2006 Equity and Opportunity presents a social development strategy organized around the themes of social inclusion cohesion and accountability It examines equality of opportunities a potentially important factor affecting both the workings of the investment environment and the empowerment of the poor by building on and extending existing accountability frameworks presented in the 2005 Report The Report is divided into three parts Part I describes patterns of inequality in a range of variables both at the national and global level incomes educational achievements health indicators power and influence Part II highlights reasons why some levels of inequality in the variables presented in Part I may be too high whether for intrinsic reasons or because they harm the attainment of competing values such as the level of goods and services in the economy Part III discusses policies that affect the relationship between equity and the development process at a national and global level This section includes policies that could help reduce the levels of some intermediate inequalities and focuses on circumstances in which these policies form the basis for more rapid overall development and faster poverty reduction Now in its twenty eighth edition the World Development Report offers practical insights for policymakers business developers economic advisers researchers and professionals in the media and in non governmental organizations It is also an essential supplement to economic and development courses in both academic and professional settings
