From A Seaside Town:

From a Seaside Town Norman Levine, 1970 Joseph Grand the hero of From a Seaside Town is a travel writer struggling to eke out an existence in an English seaside town. He introduces us to the small circle of relatives and companions who figure in his life. As he explores the sequence of events that led him to his present state of limbo, it becomes apparent that his crisis is not merely financial but also a crisis of personal identity. A Canadian Jew, Grand has spent a lifetime seeking to submerge his past. Now, as a consequence, he discovers that he belongs nowhere. By turns comic and moving, this beautifully observed and beautifully written novel is a striking example of Norman Levine's artistry. From a Seaside Town has quietly become a classic. It is a book which simply will not go away.

Coastal Towns Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: ODPM: Housing, Planning, Local Government and the Regions Committee, 2006-04-18 Coastal Towns Session 2005/06 Vol 2 Written Evidence, Coastal towns Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Communities and Local Government Committee, 2007-11-21 The Government's first response Cm 7126 ISBN 97801017712620 to the Committee's report on coastal towns 2nd report session 2006/07 HCP 351 ISBN 9780215032843 was not well received by the Committee. Other members of Parliament and organisations such as the British Resorts and Destinations Association. It was felt that the response failed to recognise the necessity for specific measures to support coastal communities. The Committee requested a more considered response from the new Secretary of State. The further response is published as appendix 3. The Government now accepts a number of the Committee's recommendations, especially the need for further research on the challenges facing these communities and the disproportionately high rise in the number of people claiming sickness and disability benefit. The Committee welcomes the Government's intention to establish a cross-departmental working group on issues affecting coastal towns and its commitment to establish a coastal areas network supported by Government and the regional development agencies.

Coastal Towns in Transition Raymond James Green, 2009-12-13 Many coastal areas around the world are experiencing dramatic landscape changes as a result of increased tourism development and the sea change phenomenon: the migration of affluent urbanites to small coastal towns seeking beautiful natural surroundings. In response to these changes, local residents in these places often complain that the distinctive character of their towns and/or individual neighborhoods is being lost or degraded. Coastal Towns in Transition looks at how changes due to unsympathetic development of the built environment and modification of the natural landscape are perceived to negatively impact on the character of small coastal towns. The book explores the concept of town character and associated notions of sense of place, genius loci and place identity as conceptualised by local residents in several coastal town communities along Australia's Great Ocean Road. Findings of a four-year study involving over 1800 respondents from these communities are used to explore theoretical and methodological issues associated with the assessment of place character in the context of coastal towns that are experiencing rapid environmental change. This book will be of interest to planners and environmental designers as well as scholars in both landscape studies and social science and planning fields who are interested in the sustainable development of coastal areas The case studies and associated planning and design strategies together with the bibliography of selected relevant literature will provide an invaluable reference for these scholars
