From Conflict to Cooperation Amy Lehman Bobb, 1997 From conflict to collaboration in natural resource management Röttinger, L., Janáen, A., Knupp, C., Griestop, L., Natural resource management is closely linked to conflict management prevention and resolution Managing natural resources involves reconciling diverging interests that often lead to conflict which can undermine management institutions and lead to exploitation environmental destruction and deteriorating livelihoods If conflicts turn violent they can rip apart the entire fabric of society Thus managing conflicts in a peaceful manner is decisive not only for successful and sustainable resource management but for societal stability in general Despite this connection the knowledge and experience gained in the fields of conflict transformation and peacebuilding in the last decades are often not used by natural resource managers One reason is that this knowledge has not been translated into user friendly resources that can be easily understood by practitioners without prior experience in these fields This handbook and toolkit helps fill this gap providing an orientation to the issues and a suite of practical exercises and tools to support participatory processes

Conflict and Cooperation in Divided Cities Jarosław Jańczak, 2009 The world today is marked by simultaneous conflicts and cooperation between cultures regions international organizations states national and ethnic groups political parties and other actors Conflict is considered as unfruitful and undesired whereby cooperation is perceived as advantageous and desirable yet frequently difficult and time consuming to initiate and strengthen The analysis of the transition from conflict to cooperation is hence an invaluable source of experience that comes in useful in many cases Both conflict and cooperation are usually concentrated in particular locations where they are most intensive and observable and where they are the most interesting to study These locations involve divided partitioned or cleavaged cities These divisions are embodied by state borders lines of demarcation as well as by fences and walls but also by informal rules and invisible lines Fragmentations within towns reflect national ethnical religious linguistic and other differences Cases of conflict and cooperation can refer to history concern the towns where conflict prevails where both these forms of interaction occur or where collaboration dominates The aim of this publication is to analyze the processes of conflict and cooperation using cities as examples The authors analyze case studies showing different forms and phases of conflict and cooperation concentrating in urban space They also represent different academic disciplines and approaches resulting in an interdisciplinary approach to conflict and cooperation in border studies This book thus contains analyses of Belfast Berlin Brussels Ceuta and Melilla Copenhagen Malmo Gorizia Nova Gorica Helsinki Jerusalem Kosovo Mitrovica Luxembourg Narva Ivangorod Nicosia Opole Sarajevo Slubice Frankfurt Oder Szczecin Tornio Haparanda and Valga Valka

Environmental Protection and Transitions from Conflict to Peace Carsten Stahn, Jennifer S. Easterday, Jens Iverson, 2017 This book examines the protection of the environment in post conflict societies with regard both to the maintenance of natural ecosystems and to the function of environmental protection in the peace building process addressing the strengths and weaknesses of different bodies of law

Ordering Violence Paul Staniland, 2021-12-15 In Ordering Violence Paul Staniland advances a broad approach to armed politics bringing together governments insurgents militias and armed political parties in a shared framework to argue that governments perception of the ideological threats posed by armed groups drive their responses and interactions Staniland combines a unique new dataset of state group armed orders in India Pakistan Burma Myanmar and Sri Lanka with detailed case studies from the region to explore when and how this model of threat perception provides insight into patterns of repression collusion and mutual neglect across nearly seven decades Instead of straightforwardly responding to the material or organizational power of armed groups Staniland finds regimes assess how a group s politics align with their own ideological projects Explaining for example why governments often use extreme repression against weak groups even while working with or tolerating more powerful armed actors Ordering Violence provides a comprehensive overview of South Asia s complex armed politics embedded within an analytical framework that can also speak broadly beyond the subcontinent

From Conflict to Peacebuilding Richard A. Matthew, Oli Brown, United Nations Environment Programme, David Jensen, 2009 Today s changing security landscape requires a radical shift in the way the international community engages in conflict management This report by the United Nations Environment Programme aims to review the latest knowledge and field experience on the linkages between environment conflict and peacebuilding and to discuss the ways in which these issues can be addressed and integrated in a more coherent and systematic way by the UN Member States and other stakeholders involved in peacebuilding interventions and conflict prevention      Transboundary Water Politics in the Developing World Naho Mirumachi, 2015-03-05 This book examines the political economy that governs the management of international transboundary river basins in the developing world These shared rivers are the setting for irrigation hydropower and flood management projects as well as water transfer schemes Often these projects attempt to engineer the river basin with deep political socio economic and environmental implications The politics of transboundary river basin management sheds light on the challenges concerning sustainable development water allocation and utilization between sovereign states Advancing conceptual thinking beyond simplistic analyses of river basins in conflict or cooperation the author proposes a new analytical framework The Transboundary Waters Interaction NexuS TWINS examines the coexistence of conflict and cooperation in riparian interaction This framework highlights the importance of power relations between basin states that determine negotiation processes and institutions of water resources management The analysis illustrates the way river basin management is framed by powerful elite decision makers combined with geopolitical factors and geographical imaginations In addition the book explains how national development strategies and water resources demands have a significant role in shaping the intensities of conflict and cooperation at the international level The book draws on detailed case studies from the Ganges River basin in South Asia the Orange Senqu River basin in Southern Africa and the Mekong River basin in Southeast Asia providing key insights on equity and power asymmetry applicable to other basins in the developing world      Prisoner's Dilemma Anatol Rapoport, Albert M.
