Friedrich Wilhelm Der Grobe Kurfurst Der Sieger Von Fehrbellin:

Sibling Relations and the Transformations of European Kinship, 1300-1900 Christopher H. Johnson,David Warren Sabean,2011-03-01 Recently considerable interest has developed about the degree to which anthropological approaches to kinship can be used for the study of the long term development of European history From the late middle ages to the dawn of the twentieth century kinship rather than declining as is often assumed was twice reconfigured in dramatic ways and became increasingly significant as a force in historical change with remarkable similarities across European society Applying interdisciplinary approaches from social and cultural history and literature and focusing on sibling relationships this volume takes up the challenge of examining the systemic and structural development of kinship over the long term by looking at the close inner familial dynamics of ruling families the Hohenzollerns cultural leaders the Mendelssohns business and professional classes and political figures the Gladstones in France Italy Germany and England It offers insight into the current issues in kinship studies and draws from a wide range of personal documents letters autobiographies testaments memoirs as well as genealogies and works of art Jean-Baptiste Tavernier Harish Kapur,2013-06-19 This book is a biographical and illustrated account of the life of Jean Baptiste Tavernier a French national who traveled extensively for almost forty years of his lifetravels that took him to most of the European countries to the Ottoman Empire to Persia to Southeast Asia and to India This writer cannot think of any other personality at any time in history who wandered around for so long and for so far Tavernier has a number of achievements to his creditachievements of having written extensively on the areas he traveled the people he met and the diverse activities he pursued His memoirs became a blockbuster in the seventeenth century outshining any other publication of the timeeven of those who were known to be heavy with ideas
