The authors present a holistic approach to responsive literacy instruction to support all students' academic and social-emotional growth now and in the years to come. Fundamental areas of learning recovery are addressed: developing schoolwide action plans, partnering with families and communities, building collaborative literacy leadership, assessing for differentiated instruction, planning targeted interventions, and implementing supplemental learning programs. Getting Your Child Ready for Kindergarten Kristen J. Amundson, 2013-04-25 Kindergarten is no longer just a time when children play and sit in a circle. Today's kindergarten students are exposed to a much more academic curriculum. So what should children know and be able to do so they'll be ready for the modern kindergarten classroom? This publication shares with parents everything they'll need to know to help their child be successful from Day One. Based on the latest research, this booklet also includes a section on how communities can make kindergarten more ready for today's children.

Sharing Books and Stories to Promote Language and Literacy Anne van Kleeck, 2006-11 The role of parent-child and teacher-child shared story-telling and storybook reading is a key vehicle for supporting children's development of emergent literacy and early language skills. This highly usable and practical book brings the advantages of sharing books and stories to educational and clinical settings, effectively demonstrating how it may be used to support print knowledge, phonological awareness, vocabulary, inferential language abilities, grammatical and narrative skills. With contributions from notable scholars who actively conduct research in the areas of education, developmental psychology, speech language pathology, reading, and early literacy, this unique resource synthesizes and applies current theory and research on uses of sharing books and stories in educational and intervention contexts.
