Martin Luther King Jr., Heroism, and African American Literature Trudier Harris, 2014-11-15 Defiance of the law uses of indirection moral lapses and bad habits are as much a part of the folk transmitted biography of King as they are a part of writers' depictions of him in literary texts Harris first demonstrates that during the Black Arts Movement of the 1960s when writers such as Nikki Giovanni Sonia Sanchez and LeRoi Jones Amiri Baraka were rising stars in African American poetry King's philosophy of nonviolence was out of step with prevailing notions of militancy Black Power and their literature reflected that division In the quieter times of the 1970s and 1980s and into the twenty first century however treatments of King and his philosophy in African American literature changed Writers who initially rejected him and nonviolence became ardent admirers and boosters particularly in the years following his assassination By the 1980s many writers skeptical about King had reevaluated him and began to address him as a fallen hero Like One of the Family Alice Childress, 2017-01-24 Recommended by Entertainment Weekly The hilarious uncompromising novel about African American domestic workers from a trailblazer in Black women's literature and now featuring a foreword by Roxane Gay First published in Paul Robeson's newspaper Freedom and composed of a series of conversations between Mildred a black domestic and her friend Marge Like One of the Family is a wry incisive portrait of working women in Harlem in the 1950s Rippling with satire and humor Mildred's outspoken accounts vividly capture her white employers' complacency and condescension and their startled reactions to a maid who speaks her mind and refuses to exchange dignity for pay Upon publication the book sparked a critique of working conditions laying the groundwork for the contemporary domestic worker movement Although she was critically praised Childress's uncompromising politics and unflinching depictions of racism classism and sexism relegated her to the fringe of American literature Like One of the Family has been long overlooked but this new edition featuring a foreword by best selling author Roxane Gay will introduce Childress to a new generation Feminism, the Left, and Postwar Literary Culture Kathlene McDonald, 2012-07-02 This book traces the development of a Left feminist consciousness as women became more actively involved in the American Left during and immediately following World War II McDonald argues that women writers on the Left drew on the rhetoric of antifascism to critique the cultural and ideological aspects of women's oppression In Left journals during World War II women writers outlined the dangers of fascist control for women and argued that the fight against fascism must also be about ending women's oppression After World War II women writers continued to use this antifascist framework to call attention to the ways in which the emerging domestic ideology in the United States bore a frightening resemblance to the fascist repression of women in Nazi Germany This critique of American domestic ideology emphasized the ways in which black and working class women were particularly affected and extended to an examination of women's roles in personal and romantic relationships Underlying this critique was the belief that representations of women in American culture were part of the problem To counter these dominant cultural images women writers on the Left depicted female activists in contemporary antifascist and anticolonial struggles or turned to the past for historical role models in the labor abolitionist and antisuffrage movements This depiction of women as models of agency and liberation challenged some of the conventions about femininity in the postwar era The book provides a historical overview of women writers who anticipated issues about women's oppression and the intersections of gender race and class that would become central tenants of feminist literary criticism and black feminist criticism in the 1970s and 1980s It closely considers works by writers both well known and obscure including Lorraine Hansberry Alice Childress Martha Dodd Sanora Babb and Beth McHenry

Fields Watered with Blood Margaret Walker, 2014-06-01 Representing an international gathering of scholars Fields Watered with Blood constitutes the first critical assessment of the full scope of Margaret Walker's literary career As they discuss Walker's work including the landmark poetry collection For My People and the novel Jubilee the contributors reveal the complex interplay of concerns and themes in Walker's writing folklore and prophecy place and space history and politics gender and race In addition the contributors remark on how Walker's emphases on spirituality and on dignity in her daily life make themselves felt in her writings and show how Walker's accomplishments as a scholar teacher activist mother and family elder influenced what and how she wrote A brief biography an interview with literary critic Claudia Tate a chronology of major events in Walker's life and a selected bibliography round out this collection which will do much to further our understanding of the writer whom poet Nikki Giovanni once called the most famous person nobody knows Feminist Studies/Critical Studies Teresa De Lauretis, 2016-07-27 The essays in this collection represent very recent developments in feminist research and writing in the areas of history scientific discourse literary criticism and cultural theory

Afro-American Life, History and Culture, 1985 Amazons in America Keira V. Williams, 2019-03-06 With this remarkable study historian Keira V Williams shows how fictional matriarchies produced for specific audiences in successive eras and across multiple media constitute prescriptive solution oriented thought experiments directed at contemporary social issues In the process Amazons in America uncovers a rich tradition of matriarchal popular culture in the United States Beginning with late nineteenth century anthropological studies which theorized a universal prehistoric matriarchy Williams explores how representations of women centered societies reveal changing ideas of gender and power over the course of the twentieth century and into the present day She examines a deep archive of cultural artifacts both familiar and obscure including L Frank Baum's The Wizard of Oz series Progressive era fiction like Charlotte Perkins Gilman's utopian novel Herland the original 1940s Wonder Woman comics midcentury films featuring nuclear families and feminist science fiction novels from the 1970s that invented prehistoric and futuristic matriarchal societies While such texts have at times served as sites of feminist theory Williams unpacks their cyclical nature and in doing so pinpoints some of the premises that have historically hindered gender equality in the United States Williams also delves into popular works from the twenty first century such as Tyler Perry s Madea franchise and DC Comics Warner Bros globally successful film Wonder Woman which attest to the ongoing presence of matriarchal ideas and their capacity for combating patriarchy and white nationalism with visions of rebellion and liberation Amazons in America provides an indispensable critique of how anxieties and fantasies about women in power are culturally expressed ultimately informing a broader discussion about how to nurture a stable equitable society

André N. Williams, 2013-01-02 One of the most extensive studies of class in nineteenth century African American literature to date Dividing Lines unveils how black fiction writers represented the uneasy relationship between class differences racial solidarity and the quest for civil rights in black communities By portraying complex highly stratified communities with a growing black middle class these authors dispelled notions that black Americans were uniformly poor or uncivilized The book argues that the signs of class anxiety are embedded in postbellum fiction from the verbal stammer or prim speech of class conscious characters to fissures in the fiction's form Andre N Williams delves into the familiar and lesser known works of Frances E W Harper Pauline Hopkins Charles W Chesnutt Sutton Griggs and Paul Laurence Dunbar showing how these texts mediate class through discussions of labor moral respectability ancestry spatial boundaries and skin complexion Dividing Lines also draws on reader responses from book reviews editorials and letters to show how the class anxiety expressed in African American fiction directly sparked reader concerns over the status of black Americans in the U S social order Weaving literary history with compelling textual analyses this study yields new insights about the intersection of race and class in black novels and short stories from the 1880s to 1900s
