A View to a Death in the Morning Matt Cartmill, 1996-10-01 What brought the ape out of the trees and so the man out of the ape was a taste for blood This is how the story went when a few fossils found in Africa in the 1920s seemed to point to hunting as the first human activity among our simian forebears the force behind our upright posture skill with tools domestic arrangements and warlike ways Why on such slim evidence did the theory take hold In this engrossing book Matt Cartmill searches out the origins and the strange allure of the myth of Man the Hunter An exhilarating foray into cultural history A View to a Death in the Morning shows us how hunting has figured in the western imagination from the myth of Artemis to the tale of Bambi and how its evolving image has reflected our own view of ourselves A leading biological anthropologist Cartmill brings remarkable wit and wisdom to his story Beginning with the killer ape theory in its post World War II version he takes us back through literature and history to other versions of the hunting hypothesis Earlier accounts of Man the Hunter drafted in the Renaissance reveal a growing uneasiness with humanity's supposed dominion over nature By delving further into the history of hunting from its promotion as a maker of men and builder of character to its image as an aristocratic pastime charged with ritual and eroticism Cartmill shows us how the hunter has always stood between the human domain and the wild his status changing with cultural conceptions of that boundary Cartmill's inquiry leads us through classical antiquity and Christian tradition medieval history Renaissance thought and the Romantic movement to the most recent controversies over wilderness management and animal rights Modern ideas about human dominion find their expression in everything from scientific theories and philosophical assertions to Disney movies and sporting magazines Cartmill's survey of these sources offers fascinating insight into the significance of hunting as a mythic metaphor in recent times particularly after the savagery of the world wars reawakened grievous doubts about man's place in nature A masterpiece of humanistic science A View to a Death in the Morning is also a thoughtful meditation on what it means to be human to stand uncertainly between the wilderness of beast and prey and the peaceable kingdom This richly illustrated book will captivate readers on every side of the dilemma from the most avid hunters to their most vehement opponents to those who simply wonder about the import of hunting in human nature

Becoming Christian David G. Horrell, 2013-07-04 The first letter of Peter remains a relatively neglected corner of the New Testament the number of monographs devoted to it is tiny compared with those on the Gospels and Pauline letters Yet it is a text so this book argues that offers much insight into crucial processes in the development of Christian identity In particular 1 Peter illustrates with particular clarity the complex ways in which Christian identity was forged from Jewish traditions and negotiated in the generally hostile Roman empire As such studies of this particular letter illuminate central themes in the making of Christianity in the earliest centuries Becoming Christian is a collection of essays that treat various facets of the first letter of Peter in its social and historical setting in some cases using new social scientific and postcolonial methods to shed light on the ways in which the letter contributes to the making of Christian identity At the heart of the book are chapters 5-7 which examine the contribution of 1 Peter to the construction of Christian identity the persecution and suffering of Christians in Asia Minor the significance of the name Christian and the response of the letter to the hostility encountered by Christians in society There are no recent books which bring together such a wealth of information and analysis of this crucial early Christian text Becoming Christian has developed out of Horrell's ongoing research for the International Critical Commentary on 1 Peter Together these essays will offer a series of significant and original engagements with this letter and a resource for studies of 1 Peter for some time to come The Zondervan 2007 Pastor's Annual T. Lair, 1996 Placing a focus on the spiritual needs of death and dying the theme of this book is that the focus of counselling with people who are dying should be on the psychospiritual aspects of death and dying It is based on two assumptions that death and anxiety not pain are the most critical issues for the dying and that the time of dying is an opportunity for growth and transformation The author believes that it is imperative for counselling professionals to realize that at this time understanding and caring are primary Death's Summer Coat Brandy Schillace, 2016-01-15 Death is something we all confront it touches our families our homes our hearts And yet we have grown used to denying its existence treating it as an enemy to be beaten back with medical advances We are living at a unique point in human history People are living longer than ever yet the longer we live the more taboo and alien our mortality becomes Yet we and our loved ones still remain mortal People today still struggle with this fact as we have done throughout our entire history What led us to this point What drove us to sanitize death and make it foreign and unfamiliar Schillace shows how talking about death and the rituals associated with it can help provide answers It also brings us closer together conversation and community are just as important for living as for dying Some of the stories are strikingly unfamiliar others are far more familiar than you might suppose But all reveal much about the present and about ourselves Hope Jack Kuhatschek, 2003-07-02 This eight session LifeGuide Bible Study Jack Kuhatschek leads you to explore both sides of hope You ll confront doubts and fears and you ll anticipate the great joy that awaits you in Jesus Christ Oxford Textbook of Palliative Care for Children Ann Goldman, Richard Hain, Stephen Liben, 2012-05-24 The first edition of this book was the first authoritative systematic and comprehensive text to define the increasingly important and evolving specialty of paediatric palliative care It explores both the clinical aspects and the multidimensional and holistic nature of care for the dying child based on the knowledge that all human experience has a physical emotional psychological and spiritual impact The book covers ways of providing support in all of these areas both for the child families and carers recognising the importance of teamwork and taking an evidence based approach The Oxford Textbook of Palliative Care for Children is about the care of children for whom cure of their underlying disease is not possible It encompasses the physical management of symptoms such as pain and nausea as well as social issues such as accessing appropriate education emotional issues such as techniques for communication and spiritual issues such as feelings of guilt and isolation The book suggests that if we are to maintain the quality of life for a child it is essential to recognise all these dimensions and try to address them This can only be done by recognising the skills of a wide range of professionals and working together in ways that are not always intuitive to any one discipline It explores the multidimensional and holistic nature of care for the dying child Those working in paediatric palliative care recognise that all human experience has emotional psychological and spiritual impact as well as physical and this book offers the essential information needed for those involved in paediatric care to find ways of providing support in all of these areas Comprehensive in scope exhaustive in detail and definitive in authority this second edition has been thoroughly updated to cover new practices current epidemiological data and the evolving models that support the delivery of palliative medicine to children Paediatric palliative care is now developing in countries with differing health care systems and being adapted to suit individual illnesses and the varying resources and geography in different parts of the world This book is an essential resource for anyone who works with children worldwide Excavating Q John S.
