Frustration Sarah Harrison,2023-02-03 At a time of widespread disillusion citizens keep telling us how frustrated they feel with their democracies However whilst scholars and commentators alike have heard that complain millions of times we may not have taken it as seriously as we should The author takes the concept of democratic frustration literally and puts it under an unprecedented analytical and empirical microscope She applies insights from the psychology and political science literatures and uses a mixture of panel studies surveys interviews and experiments to understand its sources nature dimensions and consequences The book sheds unprecedented light on pathologies of democratic frustration in the US UK Australia and South Africa with a double focus on the general population and on young people Doing so it reveals new thought provoking insights on the true nature of contemporary democratic crises and not least on how citizens actual desire for democracy uniquely shapes their dissatisfaction Film, Lacan and the Subject of Religion Steve Nolan,2009-09-23

In their study of religion and film religious film analysts have tended to privilege religion Uniquely this study treats the two disciplines as genuine equals by regarding both liturgy and film as representational media Steve Nolan argues that in each case subjects identify with a represented other which joins them into a narrative where they become participants in an ideological reality Finding many current approaches to religious film analysis lacking Film Lacan and the Subject of Religion explores the film theory other writers ignore particularly that mix of psychoanalysis Marxism and semiotics often termed Screen theory that attempts to understand how cinematic representation shapes spectator identity Using translations and commentary on Lacan not originally available to Screen theorists Nolan returns to Lacan's contribution to psychoanalytic film theory and offers a sustained application to religious practice examining several priest films and real life case study to expose the way liturgical representation shapes religious identity Film Lacan and the Subject of Religion proposes an interpretive strategy by which religious film analysts can develop the kind of analysis that engages with and critiques both cultural and religious practice
