Education Policy And Social Class The Selected Works Of Stephen Ball:

Education Policy and Social Class Stephen J. Ball, 2006 This book brings together in one place Stephen Ball's key writings Drawing on over 20 years work Professor Ball has selected his most seminal work from education policy and sociology to his work on education and social class

Transforming education policy Philip A. Woods, 2011-07-06 Education is in a state of continual change and schools ever more diverse People want more participation and meaning in their lives organisations want more creativity and flexibility Building on these trends this timely book argues that a new paradigm is emerging in education sowing the seeds of a self organising system that values holistic democracy It is an essential read for anyone academics policy makers practitioners students parents school sponsors and partners who is interested in how education can broaden its horizons

Teachers at the Table Annalee G. Good, 2018-10-25 Teachers at the Table is based on the simple premise that policy matters in education and teachers matter to policy Policy reflects and shapes society's beliefs about schools teachers children learning and society as well as the power structures embedded in our communities and decision making processes If policy is a public response to perceived social problems it matters who is at the table when the problems are defined the agendas set and the policy itself designed Although teachers may be central to the implementation of education policy they are marginal to the design of it especially around issues of teaching and learning In short teachers are not at the table This is important because the lack of teacher voice in educational policymaking disconnects the goals and design of education policy from the actual lived challenges of implementing it This book draws on a qualitative case study with both practicing and pre service teachers involved in a policy advocacy professional development program Findings from the study illustrate norms and routines the nature of teachers work hierarchy of authority and professional status that act as barriers to teacher involvement in policy creation The book then follows with clear examples of teacher pushback against these same norms and details the conditions under which teachers can interact in authentic ways with decision making structures in schools and policy Teachers at the Table is a unique examination into these dynamics informing the critical efforts of teacher leaders to participate in educational policy creation and helps us to understand and more importantly act upon the structures around teachers to better support their involvement in policymaking with the ultimate goal of producing better educational policy that is more relevant and responsive to the youth educators families and communities it serves

Education, Work and Social Change in Britain's Former Coalfield Communities Robin Simmons, Kat Simpson, 2022-10-17 This edited book presents a range of chapters written by new and established authors drawing on a range of different perspectives and traditions to critically analyse education work and social change in the former coalfields Historically coal was one of Britain's major industries employing over a million men at its peak But mining was more than an occupation it was a way of life for those living and working in coalfield communities Work leisure family relations and other dimensions of social life were centred upon the coal industry and its related institutions such as trade unions working men's clubs and welfare institutes These communities have however undergone significant social and economic change over time not least in terms of the pain and suffering associated with the Great Strike of 1984 85 the successive waves of pit closures which took place thereafter and the eventual demise of the coal industry The book will be of interest to academics drawing on sociology social policy history geography and other subject disciplines

Education and the Culture of Consumption David Hartley, 2012 For nearly 200 years the organisational form of the school has changed little Bureaucracy has been its enduring form The school has prepared the worker for the factory of mass production It has created the mass consumer to be content with accepting what is on offer not what is wanted However a revised educational code appears to be emerging This code centres upon the concept of personalisation which operates at two levels first as a new mode of public service delivery and second as a new grammar for the school with new flexibilities of structure and pedagogical process Personalisation has its intellectual roots in marketing theory not in educational theory and is the facilitator of education for consumption It allows for the market to suffuse even more the fabric of education albeit under the democratic sounding call of freedom of choice Education and the Culture of Consumption raises many questions about personalisation which policy makers seem prone to avoid Why now are we concerned about personalisation What are its theoretical foundations What are its pedagogical curricular and organisational consequences What are the consequences for social justification of personalisation Does personalisation diminish the socialising function of the school or does it simply mean that the only thing we share is that we have the right to personalised service All this leads the author to consider an important question for education does personalisation mark a new regulatory code for education one which corresponds with both the new work order of production and with the makeover prone tendencies of consumers The book will be of great interest to postgraduate students and academics studying in the fields of education policy and the social foundations of education and will also be relevant to students studying public policy especially health care and social care and public management

Knowledge and Identity Gabrielle Ivinson, Brian Davies, John Fitz, 2010-11-23 What in the digital era is knowledge Who has knowledge and whose knowledge has value Postmodernism has introduced a relativist flavour into educational research such that big questions about the purposes of education have tended to be eclipsed by minutiae Changes in economic and financial markets induce a sense that we are also experiencing an intellectual credit crunch Societies can no longer afford to think about the role of education merely in relation to national markets and national citizenry There is growing recognition that once again we need big thinking using big theoretical ideas in working on local problems of employability sustainability and citizenship Drawing on aspects of Bernstein's work that have attracted an international following for many years the international contributors to this book raise questions about knowledge production and subjectivity in times dominated by market forces privatisation and new forms of state regulation The book is divided into three sections Part one extends Bernstein's sociology of knowledge by revitalizing fundamental questions such as what is knowledge how is it produced and what are its functions within education and society in late modernity It demonstrates that big theory like big science provides immense resources for thinking ourselves out of crisis because in contradistinction to micro theory we are able to contemplate global transformations in ways which otherwise would remain unthinkable Part two considers the new hybrid forms of knowledge that are emerging in the gap opened up between economic markets and academic institutions across a range of countries Bernstein said in the 1970s that schools cannot compensate for society but we might now ask can universities compensate for the economy Part three adds new conceptual tools to the understanding of subjectivity within Bernstein s sociology of knowledge and elaborates conceptual developments about pedagogic regulation consciousness and embodiment This book will appeal to sociologists educationists and higher educators internationally and to students on sociology of education curriculum and policy studies courses

International Higher Education Hubs in the Global Education Industry Marvin Erfurth, 2022 Education hubs are a recent phenomenon in higher education systems of predominantly Asian countries to innovate local systems through the expertise of foreign actors particularly from English speaking countries To understand some of the phenomenon s implications on international higher education this empirical study compares attempts to create education hubs in Singapore and the United Arab Emirates First the book explores the analytical potential of current approaches to study the phenomenon and second it investigates how education hubs change policy and governance in the higher education systems of Singapore and the United Arab Emirates The book sheds light on how education hubs lead to the involvement of Global Education Industry actors in local systems and how the phenomenon creates new dynamics for policy making and research Marvin Erfurth ist Wissenschaftlicher Mitarbeiter an der Westf lischen Wilhelms Universit t M nster Arbeitsschwerpunkte Internationale und Vergleichende Erziehungswissenschaft Internationale Bildungspolitik Hochschulforschung Bildungsökonomie

Kazamias, 2009-08-22 A big project like this Handbook means that you incur debts and not only to your authors and your publisher As editors we along with our colleague Elaine Unterhalter who edited the section on postcolonialism would like to thank most warmly those authors who delivered on time and who did not fuss but just got on and did a r rate job We would also like to thank all authors who did deliver which was almost everyone we asked We know that some of our authors worked in very dif cult private circumstances as they were nishing their chapters and we hope the publication of the Volumes will later be for them a happy reminder of dif culties and disasters overcome The only sad theme is that some very close colleagues with whom we were wo ing and for whom we had the greatest respect and liking became very ill and died while the volumes were being prepared We decided to ask for copyright permissions to publish something of theirs These permissions were graciously given by two major journals and with the agreement also of our publishers Springer Rolland Paulston and Terry McLaughlin have examples of their writing in this Handbook

Theory and Educational Research Jean Anyon, 2008-08-18 Throughout U S history education policies practices and politics have been described and tested to yield empirical data often with little attempt to place findings in a larger theoretical infrastructure that could provide them with increased explanatory critical or even liberatory power This collection fills that void by taking the point of view that neither research nor theory alone is adequate to the task of social explanation Instead Jean Anyon and her collaborators argue that they imbricate and instantiate one another forming and informing each other as the inquiry process unfolds
