Leading the eLearning Transformation of Higher Education Gary E. Miller, Kathleen S. Ives, 2023-07-03 Published in Association with eLearning has entered the mainstream of higher education as an agent of strategic change This transformation requires eLearning leaders to develop the skills to innovate successfully at a time of heightened competition and rapid technological change In this environment eLearning leaders must act within their institutions as much more than technology managers and assume the prime role of helping their institutions understand the opportunities that eLearning presents for faculty for students and for client organizations in the community They need to prepare to participate in policy development around these opportunities They must understand the

multiple dimensions of practice in the field operations administration and working within the complex culture of a higher education institution while also functioning as scholars of the field who can bring the best ideas from other institutions to help shape policy around eLearning The second edition builds on the success of the first edition and presents both the collective expertise of veterans who have pioneered the field for 20 years and of a rising generation of eLearning leaders that are transforming online programs at their own institutions to address these challenges This edition has been updated and expanded to reflect the increasing complexity of the field with seven new chapters and the revision of eight chapters that appeared in the first edition New and updated topics include The evolving role of the chief online learning officer Issues of diversity as more women and minorities enter leadership roles in the field The increasing role of learning analytics and data based decisions The potential tensions involved in cohort based versus individualized instruction The increasing need for faculty professional development The affordances of cloud computing adaptive learning artificial intelligence the internet of things and mobile learning to the field The open educational resources movement and the implications for institutional policy and practice The challenges of an increasingly complex competitive environment Accessibility There are few comparable positions in higher education than that of eLearning leaders who work across multiple academic and support units and whose work fundamentally affects the institution as a whole This volume is written for them The Complete Home Learning Sourcebook Rebecca Rupp, 1998 Lists all the resources needed to create a balanced curriculum for homeschooling from preschool to high school level Web-based Instruction Badrul Huda Khan, 1997 A cutting edge collection of 59 essays solicited from Web based instructors offering a variety of perspectives notions and experiences in the practice of virtual teaching The compendium introduces the evolution and status of distance learning critical issues in Web based learning environments such as the similarities and differences between Web based and traditional classrooms specific discussions on designing learning activities and electronic textbooks an evaluation of delivery systems for instruction and case studies of Web based courses from kindergarten and beyond to the instruction of literature astronomy and foreign languages Includes illustrations Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR The Internet Science, Research, and Technology Yellow Pages Rick Stout, Morgan Davis, 1996 A directory which provides Internet resources related to the various fields in science and technology Information and Communication Technology in Technical and Vocational Education and Training for Sustainable and Equal Opportunity Reem Khamis Hamdan, Allam Hamdan, Bahaaeddin Alareeni, Rim El Khoury, 2024-03-07 This book provides an in depth analysis of current development concerning ICTs with reference to vocational education and training It presents the best and innovative ICT based solutions implemented in education and explores controversial topics such as challenges and opportunities Information and communication technologies ICTs have dramatically changed the way we learn and work They have created new opportunities along with new challenges putting profound and urgent implications on vocational education and training VET Nowadays we must think broadly and make the right choices about VET using innovation and digitalization to boost the quality of vocational education and training enable the upskilling and reskilling of adults and enhance the employability of learners The potential and the impact of ICTs in vocational education and training have yet to be fully exploited leading to an emerging direction of research This book helps readers to understand the idea of business education and education governance in a digital age It is of interest to practitioners administrators researchers teachers teacher educators and students

My Unsentimental Education Debra Monroe, 2015-10-01 A woman reflects on her working class roots her unsuitable exes and her accidental road to happiness in a memoir of many delights Atlanta Journal Constitution A misfit in Spooner Wisconsin with its farms bars and strip joints Debra Monroe leaves to earn a degree then another and another and builds a career if only because her plans to be a midwestern housewife continually get scuttled Fearless but naive she vaults over class barriers but never quite leaves her past behind When it comes to men she's still blue collar Negotiating the world of dating Monroe pays careful attention to what love and sex mean to a woman ambivalent about her newfound status as liberated Both the story of her steady rise into the professional class and a parallel history of unsuitable exes this memoir reminds us how accidental even a good life can be If Joan Didion advises us to keep on nodding terms with the people we used to be Monroe takes this advice a step further and nods at the people she might have become but didn't Funny poignant wise My Unsentimental Education explores the confusion that ensues when a working class girl ends up far from where she began Trying to be a Midwestern housewife in the tradition of her mother and grandmothers and an early feminist at the same time makes for comic incongruity Wisconsin State Journal Monroe's candid memoir reads like a country ballad a down and out woman working gritty jobs gets entangled with Mr Completely Laughably Wrong But her unexpected story is far from a cliché Kirkus Reviews
