interviews with four hundred college students from different types of institutions across the United States They also analyze three sets of national survey data the National Study of Youth and Religion College Students Beliefs and Values and their own Gallup conducted survey of 2 500 college students Their research identifies important social educational and cultural influences that shape students quests and the answers they find Arguing against a utilitarian view of education Glanzer Hill and Johnson conclude that colleges and universities can and should cultivate and aid students in their journeys and they offer suggestions for doing so SDEA Journal South Dakota Education Association,1929 International Human Rights and International Education Thomas Buergenthal, Judith Torney-Purta,1976
