Thoughts on the Gospel: St. Matthew J. C. Ryle, 2019-02-28 In sending forth the first volume of a new expository work upon the Gospels I feel it necessary in order to prevent misapprehension to offer some explanation of the character and design of the work Commentaries and Expositions of Scripture are so numerous in the present day that I feel it necessary to say something as to the class of readers whom I have specially had in view in putting forth these Expository Thoughts In the first place I indulge the hope that the work may be found suitable for use at family prayers The supply of works adapted for this purpose has never yet been equal to the demand In the next place I cannot help hoping that the work may prove an aid to those who visit the sick and the poor The number of persons who visit hospitals sick rooms and cottages with an earnest desire to do spiritual good is now very great There is reason to believe that proper books for reading on such occasions are much wanted Last but not least I trust that the work may not be found unprofitable for private reading as a companion to the Gospels There are not a few whose callings and engagements make it impossible for them to read large commentaries and expositions of God s Word I have thought that such may find it helpful to their memories to have a few leading points set before their minds in connection with what they read I now send forth the volume with an earnest prayer that it may tend to the promotion of pure and undefiled religion help to extend the knowledge of Christ and be a humble instrument in aid of the glorious work of converting and edifying immortal souls CrossReach Publications
