External Assistance and Policies for Growth in Africa Mrs.Claire Liuksila,1995-12-15 This booklet is a collection of papers presented at a seminar on policies for growth in Africa held in Paris in February 1995 and sponsored by the Ministry of Finance of Japan The seminar focused on four broad themes how to enable the private sector to play a lead role in the growth process in Africa how to boost domestic savings and help the financial sector to contribute to the mobilization and efficient use of resources how to facilitate foreign aid and make it more effective and what are the essential elements of sound debt management practices      Deepening Structural Reform in Africa Ms.Laura Wallace,1997-05-13 As Africa looks for ways to deepen and accelerate the economic reform process what lessons can East Asia offer this book edited by Laura Wallace records the proceedings of a seminar that involved a dynamic exchange of experiences by policy makers and senior government officials from Africa and East Asia and senior staff of international organizations The seminar addressed themes such as the sequencing and pacing of structural reforms the need for a broad political and social acceptance of change and reform and the need for transparency and accountability in economic management      Leading Issues in Black Political Economy Thomas D. Boston,2018-01-16 Leading Issues in Black Political Economy brings together the foremost experts on issues ranging from employment training and education of African Americans It also emphasizes macro economic concerns of business development with special emphasis on long term trends of black owned businesses The work emphasizes welfare considerations in an anti welfare epoch and the role of affirmative action now that it is under attack Attention is given to the role of race in the continuing disparity of income distribution in American society The highlights of Leading Issues include An Employment and Business Strategy for the Next Century A Comment by Thomas D Boston Long Term Trends and Prospects for Black owned Business by Andrew F Brimmer Is the U S Small Business Administration a Racist Institution by Timothy Bates Worker Re Training and Labor Market Outcomes A New Focus for Labor Research by James B Stewart Race Cognitive Skills Psychological Capital and Wages by Arthur H Goldsmith William Darity Jr and Jonathan R Veum and Reparations and Public Policy by Richard F America The overall findings suggest that empirical wage equation specifications do matter The role of psychological capital is critical in the marketplace Race is indeed an important determinant of wages especially when the influence of both cognitive skills and psychological capital are included in the wage equation This volume will be of crucial interest to economists political scientists sociologists and policy analysts studying African American life Thomas D Boston is editor of the Review of Black Political Economy and professor of economics at the Georgia Institute of Technology He is the co editor with Catherine L Ross of The Inner City Urban Poverty and Economic Development in the Next Century also available from Transaction      Macroeconomic Challenges of Scaling Up Aid to Africa Yongzheng Yang,Mr.Robert Powell,Mr.Sanjeev Gupta,2006-03-20 Over the next decade African countries are expected to be the largest beneficiaries of increased donor aid which is intended to improve their prospects for achieving the Millennium Development Goals This handbook will help these countries assess the macroeconomic implications of increased aid and respond to the associated policy challenges. The handbook is directed at policymakers practicing economists in African countries and the staffs of international financial institutions and donor agencies who participate in preparing medium term strategies for African countries including in the context of poverty reduction strategy papers. It provides five main guidelines for developing scaling up scenarios to help countries identify important policy issues involved in using higher aid flows effectively to absorb as much aid as possible to boost growth in the short to medium term to promote good governance and reduce corruption to prepare an exit strategy should aid levels decrease and to regularly reassess the policy mix.

Population Growth and Policies in Sub-Saharan Africa, 1986. For sub-Saharan Africa the need for reductions in population growth rates is a critical component in achieving greater economic development and higher standards of living. Correspondingly the present report focuses on the economic consequences of rapid population growth in Africa and on policies and programs to reduce it. The report basically has three themes. The first theme centers on the deep concern that rapid population growth in Africa is slowing development and sharply reducing the possibility of raising living standards. The second theme revolves around the recent evidence of the change in ideas and behavior regarding fertility. With more and more governments expressing concern over the issue the idea of family planning is gaining acceptance. Finally the last theme concerns the involvement of Governments in the development of population policy and programmes. If progress in population policy is to be rapid and programs are to expand steadily some strategic reorientation of the direction and nature of government involvement is needed. Slowing population growth in the next few decades as part of broader development strategies can help to relieve poverty and raise living standards for Africa's people.

The Oxford Handbook of Africa and Economics Célestin Monga, Justin Yifu Lin, 2015-07-02. A popular myth about the travails of Africa holds that the continent's long history of poor economic performance reflects the inability of its leaders and policymakers to fulfill the long list of preconditions to be met before sustained growth can be achieved. These conditions are said to vary from the necessary quantity and quality of physical and human capital to the appropriate institutions and business environments. While intellectually charming and often elegantly formulated that conventional wisdom is actually contradicted by historical evidence and common sense. It also suggests a form of intellectual mimicry that posits a unique path to prosperity for all countries regardless of their level of development and economic structure. In fact the argument underlining that reasoning is tautological and the policy prescriptions derived from it are fatally teleological. Low income countries are by definition those where such ingredients are missing. None of today's high income countries started its growth process with the required and complete list of growth ingredients. Unless one truly believes that the continent of Africa and most developing countries are ruled predominantly if not exclusively by plutocrats with a high propensity for sadomasochism the conventional view must be re-examined, debated and questioned. This volume the second of the Oxford Handbook of Africa and Economics reassesses the economic policies and practices observed across the continent since independence It offers a collection of analyses by some of the leading economists and development thinkers of our time and reflects a wide range of perspectives and viewpoints Africa's emergence as a potential economic powerhouse in the years and decades ahead amply justifies the scope and ambition of the book

Development Policies of Central and Eastern European States Ondřej Horký-Hlucháň, Simon Lightfoot, 2013-09-13 The states from Central and Eastern Europe that joined the EU in 2004 and 2007 provide a fascinating series of case studies for scholars interested in politics IR and development studies The interest comes from the fact that never before had so many recipients of EU aid joined the Union and taken on the commitment to become aid donors The journey from recipients of aid to aid donors is interesting because not only does it tell us about development policy in CEE states this policy area gives us an insight into governmental structures in CEE states foreign policy priorities public opinion the role of NGOs civil society and how well CEE states have taken on board the EU acquis the EU's rule book The book also explores whether the development cooperation programmes of the majority of CEEs reflect the so called transition experience of moving from authoritarianism and socialism to democracy and modern liberalism It also explores the extent to which these donors are aligned with the approaches of the DAC donors Finally by extending the scrutiny to the bottom up development activities of non state actors and public opinion the book will analyse the dynamics of the solidarity of the former East with the global South This book was published as a special issue of Perspectives on European Politics and Society

The analysis of this paper indicates that the unsatisfactory overall economic performance of sub-Saharan African countries during 1986-93 was due to inappropriate policies pursued by a number of countries. The countries that have pursued broadly appropriate adjustment policies have performed much better, achieving positive per capita GDP growth. The analysis is supported with an econometric investigation of the effects of macroeconomic policies, structural reforms, and exogenous factors on economic performance. The results indicate that progress in achieving macroeconomic stability and implementing structural reforms have been conducive to better growth, savings, and private investment.

Assessment of Poverty Reduction Strategies in Sub-Saharan Africa, 2009 Provides a comparative analysis of the approaches and strategies adopted in the respective Poverty Reduction Strategy Papers. PRSP Includes information on workshops held on the issue.      The Oxford Companion to the Economics of Africa Ernest Aryeetey, 2012-01-19 This compendium of entries provides thematic and country perspectives to create a picture of the concerns of modern economics in Africa with contributions from more than 100 leading economic analysts of Africa.

The Moral Economy of EU Association with Africa Mark Langan, 2015-08-27 Africa's association with the European Union has long been hailed as a progressive model of North-South relations. European officials in particular have represented the Africa-EU partnership as a pro-poor enterprise in which trade interests are married to development prerogatives. Applying a moral economy perspective, this book examines the tangible impact of Africa-Europe trade and development co-operation on citizens in developing countries. In so doing, it challenges liberal accounts of Europe's normative power to enable benevolent change in the Global South and illuminates how EU discourse acts to legitimise unequal trade ties that have regressive consequences for the poor. Drawing upon the author's own fieldwork, it assesses the difference between norms and the actual impact of EU concessions in relation to budget support aid for trade, private sector development, PSD, decent work. It concludes by considering the value of a moral economy approach in the assessment of free trade structures more widely. This text will be of key interest to scholars and students of Africanist IPE, European studies, and more broadly international political economy, international development, and international relations.
