Pedgley,2013-10-24 To meet the needs and desires of end users design teams must select materials in a manner that thoughtfully balances functional and expressive product concerns For functional concerns materials information and selection tools of a technical nature intended for use by engineers are somewhat reluctantly adopted For expressive concerns designers usually rely on personal or company experiences since no commercially available material selection tools exist This chapter elaborates on the need to provide design teams and industrial designers specifically with improved materials selection tools within the general remit of designing for product experience Central to the argumentation is the proposition of what may be termed user centered materials selection for which four prototypical materials selection tools are presented The chapter concludes that industrial designers should be encouraged to activate a personal material inspiration journey for their projects prior to adopting any procedural material selection process typical of engineering Subject Guide to Books poverty and racial injustice are ongoing sources of traumatic stress that affect the physical emotional and cognitive development and well being of millions of children each year Growing attention is therefore directed toward the study of child trauma and incorporation of trauma sensitive practices within schools Currently such practices focus on social and emotional learning for all children with some in school therapeutic approaches and outside referrals for serious trauma There is inadequate attention to racial injustice as an adverse childhood experience ACE confronting Black males among other youth of color Although there are guidelines for trauma sensitive approaches few are culturally responsive And it is now critical that educators consider the traumatic impacts of a dual pandemic covid 19 and racism on children and their education This timely book thus serves to inform and inspire transformative healing and empowerment among traumatized children and youth in pandemic post pandemic school and after school settings The reader will learn about trauma through actual experiences Researchers and practitioners present approaches to healing that can be adapted to local situations and settings The book consists of four parts Youth Voices on Traumatic Experience Trauma focused Research Culturally Responsive and Trauma Sensitive Practices and Where do we go from Here Suggestions for Next Steps Each part contains a set of themed chapters and closes with a youth authored poetic expression The book is especially designed for those working in urban education However anyone whose work is related to traumatized children and youth will find the book informative
