Experiencing Environment and Place through Children's Literature Amy Cutter-Mackenzie, Phillip Payne, Alan Reid, 2014-06-11 Recent scholarship on children s literature displays a wide variety of interests in classic and contemporary children's books While environmental and ecological concerns have led to an interest in ecocriticism as yet there is little on the significance of the ecological imagination and experience to both the authors and readers young and old of these texts This edited collection brings together a set of original international research based chapters to explore the role of children's literature in learning about environments and places with a focus on how children's literature may inform and enrich our imagination experiences and responses to environmental challenges and injustice Contributions from Australia Canada USA and UK explore the diverse ways in which children's literature can provide what are arguably some of the first and possibly most formative engagements that some children might have with nature Chapters examine classic and new storybooks mythic tales and image based and or written texts read at home in school and in the field Contributors focus on exploring how children's literature mediates and informs our imagination and understandings of diverse environments and places and how it might open our eyes and lives to other presences understandings and priorities through stories their telling and re telling and their analysis This book was originally published as a special issue of Environmental Education Research

Curriculum and Environmental Education Alan Reid, 2019-11-14 This collection traces the development and findings of curriculum studies of environmental education since the mid 1970s Based on a virtual special issue of the Journal of Curriculum Studies the volume identifies a series of curriculum challenges for and from environmental education These include key questions in curriculum politics planning and implementation including which educative experiences should a curriculum foster and why what the scope of a worthwhile curriculum should be and how it should be decided organised and reworked why distinctive curricula are provided to different groups of students and how curriculum should best be enacted and evaluated The editor and contributors call for renewed attention to the possibilities for future directions in research in light of previously published work and innovations in scholarship They also offer critical commentary on curriculum critique and crisis in environmental education through new material and previous studies from the journal by addressing three key themes perspectives on curriculum and environment education accounting for curriculum in environmental education and changes in curriculum for environmental education
