Tongue of Water, Teeth of Stones Jonathan Hufstader, 2021-12-14 In a 1984 lecture on poetry and political violence Seamus Heaney remarked that the idea of poetry was itself that higher ideal to which the poets had unconsciously turned in order to survive the demeaning conditions Jonathan Hufstader examines the work of Heaney and his contemporaries to discover how poems combining conscious technique with unconscious impulse work as aesthetic forms and as strategies for emotional survival In his powerful study Hufstader shows how a number of contemporary Northern Irish poets including Seamus Heaney Derek Mahon Michael Longley Paul Muldoon Tom Paulin Ciar n Carson and Medbh McGuckian explore the resources of language and poetic form in their various responses to cultural conflict and political violence Focusing on both style and social contexts Hufstader explores the tension between solidarity and art between the poet's need to belong and to rebel He believes that an understanding of the power of lyric points towards an understanding of the source of social violence and of its cessation

Contemporary Irish Women Poets Alexander G. Gonzalez, 1999-09-30 So many male critics have attacked Ireland's contemporary women poets whether through hostile reviews outright silence or condescending praise that the impression has been created that very few men appreciate these women's poetry Gonzalez has produced the first book ever to appear in Irish studies in which men make it a point to praise literature written by Irish women Included are two essays studying the structure of Eavan Boland's poetry sequences some close readings of Medbh McGuckian's most challenging poems and the first formal scholarly pieces ever devoted exclusively to Paula Meehan Rita Ann Higgins and Mary O'Malley Additional chapters treat the works of Eilean Ni Chuilleanain and Nuala Ni Dhomhnaill Women poets have made substantial contributions to Irish literature particularly in the last few decades However so many male critics have attacked Ireland's women poets whether through hostile reviews outright silence or condescending praise that the impression has been created that very few men appreciate these women's poetry With some notable exceptions most academic appraisals by men have been less than enthusiastic Many women also point to the treatment these poets receive in various anthologies which typically include only token portions of literature written by women In his book Gonzalez has responded to these slights by offering a forum to a significant number of men to express their highest praise for Ireland's women poets Until now no book has ever appeared in Irish studies in which men make it a point to praise literature written by Irish women In this book Gonzalez includes two essays on each of Ireland's best known women poets Eavan Boland Eilean Ni Chuilleanain Nuala Ni Dhomhnaill and Medbh McGuckian Three other essays are the first formal scholarly pieces entirely dedicated to Paula Meehan Rita Ann Higgins or Mary O'Malley In his pioneering effort Gonzalez helps establish the place of these contemporary women poets in the Irish literary canon corrects the popular misconception that male critics are unresponsive to their works and encourages further exploration of Irish women poets by male scholars and critics

The

Cambridge Guide to Women's Writing in English Lorna Sage, 1999-09-30 This Guide aims to consolidate and epitomise the re-reading of women's writing that has gone on in the last twenty five years. This is an opportunity for stock-taking, a timely project when so much writing has been rediscovered, reclaimed and republished. There are entries on writers, on individual texts and on general terms, genres and movements, all printed in a single alphabetical sequence. The earliest written documents in medieval English, the visionary writings of Julian of Norwich and Margery Kempe, are covered in an historical and geographical sweep that takes us up to the present day. The book reflects the spread of literacy, the history of colonisation and the development of post-colonial cultures using and changing the English language. The entries are written by contributors from all the countries covered. The result is a work of reference with a unique feeling for the vitality, wealth and diversity of women's writing.

Sunny Side Plucked Rita Ann Higgins, 1996 Rita Ann Higgins has reinvigorated poetry in Ireland in the past decade. She published her first collection only ten years ago. Five books, three plays and many awards later, she became Writer in Residence at University College in her home city of Galway.
