The Atlantic Monthly , 1859 Atlantic Monthly , 1859 "This Is My Doctrine": The Development of Mormon Theology Charles R. Harrell, 2011-08-05 The principal doctrines defining Mormonism today often bear little resemblance to those it started out with in the early 1830s This book shows that these doctrines did not originate in a vacuum but were rather prompted and informed by the religious culture from which Mormonism arose Early Mormons like their early Christian and even earlier Israelite predecessors brought with them their own varied culturally conditioned theological presuppositions a process of convergence and only later acquired a more distinctive theological outlook a process of differentiation In this first of its kind comprehensive treatment of the development of Mormon theology Charles Harrell traces the history of Latter day Saint doctrines from the times of the Old Testament to the present He describes how Mormonism has carried on the tradition of the biblical authors early Christians and later Protestants in reinterpreting scripture to accommodate new theological ideas while attempting to uphold the integrity and authority of the scriptures In the process he probes three questions How did Mormon doctrines develop What are the scriptural underpinnings of these doctrines And what do critical scholars make of these same scriptures In this enlightening study Harrell systematically peels back the doctrinal accretions of time to provide a fresh new look at Mormon theology This This Is My Doctrine will provide those already versed in Mormonism's theological tradition with a new and richer perspective of Mormon theology Those unacquainted with Mormonism will gain an appreciation for how Mormon theology fits into the larger Jewish and Christian theological traditions The Perils of Human Exceptionalism Dennis L. Durst, 2022-07-18 Over the course of the nineteenth century transatlantic intellectuals slowly revised theological anthropology or the doctrine of humanity seen in light of the divine Gradually elite discourse deposed humanity from its lofty estate and centering it within a naturalistic account wherein likeness to animal fauna became the central evaluative lens Durst argues that theological anthropologies across the disciplines increasingly shifted focus away from classic confessional themes such as the soul and the image of God and toward the methods of natural theology and intuitionism This occurred in the form of challenges to theology in biology phrenology transcendentalism anti theology Christian socialism intuitionism and religious experience The human soul and human sinfulness also found a revised articulation in terms increasingly shaped by the cultural authority of science An ascendant subjective approach to human nature emerged whereby religious experiences not theological claims to truth assumed prominence as the central measures of religious life
