Footprint Hong Kong

Gilad James, PhD

Footprint Hong Kong:

Introduction to Hong Kong Gilad James, PhD, 2009-03 Hong Kong is a special administrative region of the People's Republic of China. It is situated on the southeastern coast of China and has a population of over 7 million people. Hong Kong is made up of a main island and a series of smaller islands and is known for its impressive skyline and bustling port. The official languages of Hong Kong are Chinese and English, and the region is known for its vibrant culture and cuisine. Hong Kong has a rich history that encompasses both Chinese and British influences. In 1842, the region was handed over to Great Britain by China in the Treaty of Nanking. Hong Kong remained under British rule until 1997 when it was returned to China under the principle of one country, two systems. Today, Hong Kong has a highly developed economy that is centered on international trade and finance. The region also boasts a highly efficient public transportation system that includes buses, trains, trams, and ferries. With a unique blend of Eastern and Western cultures and a strong economic landscape, Hong Kong is truly a global city.

The Ecological Footprint Andrea Collins, Andrew Flynn, 2015-05-29 The ecological footprint is one of the most prominent tools used to measure environmental sustainability, and its rise in academic and policy debates since the early 1990s has been remarkable. Drawing upon research and examples from around the world, Footprint Emma Levine, 2004

Designing High-Density Cities Edward Ng, 2010 Compact living is sustainable living. High-density cities can support closer amenities, encourage reduced trip lengths, and the use of public transport, and therefore reduce transport energy costs and carbon emissions. High-density planning also helps to control the spread of urban suburbs into open lands, improves efficiency in urban infrastructure and services, and results in environmental improvements that support higher quality of life in cities. Encouraging even requiring higher density urban development is a major policy and a central principle of growth management programmes used by planners around the world. However, such density creates design challenges and problems. A collection of experts in each of the related architectural and planning areas examines these environmental and social issues and argues that high-density cities are a sustainable solution. It will be essential reading for anyone with an interest in sustainable urban development.

Sustainable Tourism: Tourism Paradigms Salih SARIKAMIS, 2022-12-30 In today's world, sustainability has become a fundamental concern in all industries, and tourism is no exception. As tourists flock to destinations around the world, it is crucial that we consider the environmental, social, and economic impacts of tourism on these places. Collapsing Gracefully: Making a Built Environment that is Fit for the Future Emilio Garcia,Brenda Vale,Robert Vale,2021-07-24 This innovative book investigates the concept of collapse in terms of our built environment exploring the future transition of modern cities towards scenarios very different from the current promises of progress and development This is not a book about the end of the world and hopeless apocalyptic scenarios It is about understanding change in how and where we live Collapse is inevitable but in the built environment collapse could imply a manageable situation an opportunity for change or a devastating reality Collapsing gracefully means that there might be better ways to coexist with collapse if we learn more about it and commit to rebuild our civilisations in ways that avoid its worst effects This book uses a wide range of practical examples to study critical changes in the built environment to contextualise and visualise what collapse looks like to see if it is possible to buffer its effects in places already collapsing and to propose ways to develop greater resilience The book challenges all agents and institutions in modern cities their designers and planners as well as their residents and users to think differently about built environment so as to ease our coexistence with collapse and not contribute to its causes
