American Women Writers, 1900-1945 Laurie Champion, 2000-09-30 Women writers have been traditionally excluded from literary canons and not until recently have scholars begun to rediscover or discover for the first time neglected women writers and their works. This reference includes alphabetically arranged entries on 58 American women authors who wrote between 1900 and 1945. Each entry is written by an expert contributor and discusses a particular author's biography, her major works and themes, and the critical response to her writings. The entries close with extensive primary and secondary bibliographies, and the volume concludes with a list of works for further reading. The period surveyed by this reference is rich and diverse. Modernism and the Harlem Renaissance, two major artistic movements, occurred between 1900 and 1945, and the entries included here demonstrate the significant contributions women made to these movements. The volume as a whole strives to reflect the diversity of American culture and includes entries for African American, Native American, Mexican American, and Chinese American women. It includes well-known writers such as Willa Cather and Eudora Welty along with more neglected ones such as Anita Scott Coleman and Sui Sin Far.

Spoiling the Stories Tamar Merin, 2016-11-15 In Spoiling the Stories, Tamar Merin presents the as yet untold story of the rise of prose by Israeli women while further exploring and expanding the gendered models of literary influence in modern Hebrew literature. The theoretical idea upon which this book is based is that of intersexual dialogue, a term that refers to the various literary strategies employed by Israeli female fiction writers expressing their voice within a male-dominated and still inherently Oedipal literary tradition. Spoiling the Stories focuses on intersexual dialogue as it evolved in the first three decades after the establishment of the state of Israel in the works of Yehudit Hendel, Amalia Kahana-Carmon, and Rachel Eytan. According to Merin, these three women writers were the most important in the history of modern Hebrew literature; each was a significant participant in the poetic development of her time.

Memorial Boxes and Guarded Interiors Gary Totten, 2007-05-06 American writer Edith Wharton (1862-1937) once wrote in Harper's that she wanted to penetrate the carefully guarded interiors of her past memories and fashion them into a little memorial like the boxes formed of exotic shells which sailors used to fabricate between voyages. For Totten, English North Dakota State U, this statement is a striking reminder of the connections between material objects and cultural meanings in Wharton's life and work. He presents 11 essays that explore these connections in a variety of ways. Topics include critical linkages of Wharton to materiality as a means to keep her outside the canonical resistance to commodification in The House of Mirth, the creation of the disposable object, and Wharton
