Educated Executive:

Heidegger and Executive Education Toby Thompson, 2017-09-13 Global corporations and the senior executives who oversee them have been subject to great criticism in recent times not only do such corporations hold extreme concentrations of wealth but they continue to sanction staggering pay inequalities between the haves and the have nots At the same time university based business schools are conducting programmes of executive education seemingly customised to sanction these same inequalities Heidegger and Executive Education is a piece of critical philosophy that has been written from within the business school in order to examine how this sheltered process of educating in role corporate executives operates Thompson claims that executive education is based on a very simple premise that an executive executes an order and that executive education is an amelioration of that process Thompson argues that the easiest way to conceive of executive education is to treat order and execution as cognates as a single conceptual entity Thus he asks if educating executives in line with the order execution cognate involves swapping the boardroom for the classroom and in keeping with the critical tag shouldn't executive education be about questioning not only the execution but also the dominant order The author uses time as the philosophical method by which one can undo the order execution cognate question the sanctity of the cognate and thereby halt the seemingly inexorable temporal sequence from order through to those orders becoming executed This book uses Martin Heidegger's exotic philosophy of time in order to mount a philosophical challenge to the temporal sequentiality of executive education It will therefore be of great interest to academics researchers and postgraduates who are interested in Heidegger the philosophy of education and executive education It should also be essential reading for those involved in training developing and educating corporate executives

Organizational Innovation Howard B. Kaplan, Marshall Scott Poole, 2012-12-06 Innovation in the private and public sectors has been the subject of a great deal of study since it is central to the economic growth and effective governance of most organizations Determining the changes needed in an organization is less difficult than determining how to make the changes work This volume is the result of a three year study that investigated the factors associated with the implementation of program changes in a nonprofit community welfare agency The results of the research showed that a greater understanding of the implementation process was needed both by the workers and administrators In addition factors other than need were determined to influence what action is taken to implement the recommendations This book takes the results of the study and demonstrates how implementation can be successful in an organization This work includes factors such as administration behavior and perception its effect on board members mobility orientation job satisfaction and the prediction of program change and will be of interest to management in both the private and non profit sector as well as students of organizational sociology and psychology
