The Legal Legacy of the Reformation

John Duddington, 2024-11-25 The growing interest in the relationship between religion and law is in the case of Christianity often viewed in monolithic terms Moreover the debate is often seen in terms of the relationship of Christianity to the state along with discussions about for example religious freedom Christianity is often seen as responding to claims made on it by the state and by the growth of secularism This book takes a different approach First it makes the claim that Christianity has something of value to say about various pressing issues which are of direct relevance to contemporary society Amongst these are the place of human rights and that of individual claims of conscience Second it does not regard Christianity as a monolithic whole but takes as its starting point the sundering of Christendom at the Reformation which it claims led in many cases to divergent patterns of thought between Catholics and Protestants about law and its place in society However as this book shows in many cases Catholic and Protestant thinking on areas such as natural law is not as divergent as it is often thought Five hundred years after the Reformation the work presents a reflection on the roots of Catholic and Protestant thinking on law and its place in society It will be of interest to canon lawyers as well as academics and students of law and religion

Education Law and Policy in an Urban Society

Piet Akkermans, Jan De Groof, Hilde Penneman, 1999-05-27 Just how fascinating the discussion between the disciplines of education law and education policy can be was apparent at the Annual Congress of the European Education Law and Policy Association ELA in

Rotterdam in December 1997 Although on this occasion the option was for an education policy subject a multidisciplinary approach is always to be preferred Policy makers interrogate lawyers lawyers question scientists from other fields of study and lines of practice It was at the same time a further illustration of how inspiring and productive in the context of the European Union at any rate comparative analyses can be for national and international education and social policy The theme of the 1997 Congress and consequently of this Yearbook was urban education policy and its legal form as the touchstone of the modern interpretation of individual and social rights This collection of thought provoking essays and country reports thus centres on the question what challenges for education do urban associations represent Rethinking Law and Religion

Russell Sandberg, 2024-06-05 This incisive book delineates the development of Law and Religion as a sub discipline critically reflecting on the author's own role in constructing the field It develops a subversive social systems theory in order to take both law and religion seriously and to challenge them equally Negotiating Adult-Child Relationships in Early

Childhood Research Deborah Albon, Rachel Rosen, 2013-08-15 Negotiating Adult Child Relationships in Early Childhood Research presents a substantive critique of technicist and neoliberal approaches to ethics through an exploration of the complicated and often messy situations faced in negotiating relationships in research with children Despite growing acknowledgement of their centrality relationships between adult researchers and very young participants have been neglected and under theorised and in response this book offers a comprehensive conceptualisation of adult child research relationships through examination of questions including How do power and inequity impact on adult child research relationships What does it mean for relationships when researchers intervene in the field How do bodies matter in research relationships What does an emphasis on relationships with young children mean for the research process Drawing on data from their own research the authors contend that relationships are part of a wider web of social relations and space time configurations They propose and develop a relational ethics of answerability and social justice inspired by the work of Bakhtin and in addition explore the way material bodies come to matter the ambiguity of consent in educator research and the risks and possibilities of research relationships Chapters include innovative formulations of reciprocity sensing practices and political ethical responsibility This book contributes to current debates about research with young children offering an incisive and thorough exploration of the importance of relationships to the research process Relevant for international audiences this book is essential reading for early childhood students and educators researchers and lecturers with an interest in research with children Primary Core National Curriculum David Coulby, Stephen Ward, 1996-01-01 This
