International Handbook of Educational Leadership and Administration Kenneth A. Leithwood, Judith Chapman, P. Corson, P. Hallinger, Ann Hart, 2012-12-06 EDITORS This introduction to the International Handbook of Educational Leadership and Administration describes some of the motivation for developing the book and several assumptions on which is based much of the work represented in its 31 chapters A synopsis of the contents of those chapters is also provided SOME KEY ASSUMPTIONS It is sometimes suggested that the search for an adequate understanding of leadership is doomed to fail After all there is little evidence of agreement about the concept in spite of prodigious efforts dating back hundreds if not thousands of years Such a view is captured for example in Bennis observation that Of all the hazy and confounding areas in social psychology leadership theory undoubtedly contends for top nomination Probably more has been written and less is known about leadership than any other topic in the behavioural sciences 1959 page 259 We do not find this state of affairs discouraging nor entirely accurate and of course it did not prevent Bennis from proceeding either One reason for our desire to continue in the face of such discouraging words is that a great deal of leadership research aspires to develop a general theory a theory which applies to all or most domains of organized human activity This aspiration inevitably produces decontextualized and therefore abstract categories of practice Howard Gardner s 1995 depiction of leadership as story telling is a case in point

Bridging Educational Leadership, Curriculum Theory and Didaktik Michael Uljens, Rose M. Ylimaki, 2017-10-04 This book is open access under a CC BY 4.0 license This volume argues for the need of a common ground that bridges leadership studies curriculum theory and Didaktik It proposes a non-affirmative education theory and its core concepts along with discursive institutionalism as an analytical tool to bridge these fields It concludes with implications of its coherent theoretical framing for future empirical research Recent neoliberal policies and transnational governance practices point toward new tensions in nation state education These challenges affect governance leadership and curriculum involving changes in aims and values that demand coherence Yet the traditionally disparate fields of educational leadership curriculum theory and Didaktik have developed separately both in terms of approaches to theory and theorizing in USA Europe and Asia and in the ways in which these theoretical traditions have informed empirical studies over time An additional aspect is that modern education theory was developed in relation to nation state education which in the meantime has become more complicated due to issues of globalism This volume examines the current state of affairs and addresses the issues involved In doing so it opens up a space for a renewed and thoughtful dialogue to rethink and re-theorize these traditions with non affirmative education theory moving beyond social reproduction and social transformation perspectives
