Adams, 2020-07-23 This book sets out to describe the multi dimensional nature and function of rhetorical questions in the Old Testament Biblical scholars have previously analyzed the use of rhetorical questions in both Testaments but consistently describe their function in persuasive terms While this understanding is appropriate in a number of instances many rhetorical questions do not operate this way and Jim W Adams focuses in particular on rhetoric expressing the self involvement of both the speaker and hearer Among linguistic philosophers speech act theory has illuminated the fact that uttering a sentence does not merely convey information it may also involve the performing of an action The concept of communicative action provides additional tools to the exegetical process as it points the interpreter beyond the assumption that the use of language is merely for descriptive purposes Language can also have performative and self involving dimensions In relation to speech act theory linguistic specialists continue to research the nature of rhetorical questions

Pragmatic Markers in Oral Narrative Montserrat González, 2004 This book presents the multifunctional nature of pragmatic discourse markers in English and Catalan oral narratives from the point of view of text linguistics and contrastive analysis It is argued that English and Catalan markers are distributed and operate differently at four different levels in the varied discourse structures of the text i e at the ideational the rhetorical the sequential and the inferential levels The results confirm the distinctions in functional systemic levels and indicate that the nature of the two languages has a direct influence on the presence and nature of markers in the texts The study is built up on a corpus of English and Catalan elicited narratives of native speakers adopting the sociolinguistic Labovian framework adapted to the situation of educated adults The study results in a better understanding of the contribution of pragmatic markers to the organization and the interpretation of oral texts bringing insights from relevance and cognitive approaches to text structure and moving from descriptive to theoretical levels of analysis and discussion respective structural and discourse systems of the two languages The study also illuminates important issues such as the subjectivity of language language as a representational system and a vehicle of communication the interface between form and function and the role of context in discourse comprehension      Stance in Talk Ruey-Jiuan Regina Wu,2004-06-22

Guided by the methodology of conversation analysis CA this book explores how participants in Mandarin conversation display stance in the unfolding development of action and interaction and in particular how this is accomplished through the use of two Mandarin final particles Through a close examination of the sequential environments of these two particles and the interactional work accomplished by their use the research presented in this book seeks to demonstrate how a participant oriented action based micro approach to data can help us gain analytic leverage in understanding the functions and meanings of these particles an area which has long posed a challenge to Chinese linguists On the other hand in utilizing a CA based framework applied to Mandarin this study also seeks to contribute to conversation analytic research by revealing previously uninvestigated language specific phenomena while at the same time showing how talk in interaction in a non western language i e Mandarin can also display the same striking systematicity and orderliness as observed in many western languages As one of the pioneering CA studies of Mandarin this book will be of interest to researchers in Chinese linguistics and conversation analysis as well as those in fields which touch upon the relationships between languages and cultures
