British Women Composers and Instrumental Chamber Music in the Early Twentieth Century Laura Seddon, 2016-04-15
This is the first full length study of British women's instrumental chamber music in the early twentieth century Laura Seddon argues that the Cobbett competitions instigated by Walter Willson Cobbett in 1905 and the formation of the Society of Women Musicians in 1911 contributed to the explosion of instrumental music written by women in this period and highlighted women's place in British musical society in the years leading up to and during the First World War Seddon investigates the relationship between Cobbett the Society of Women Musicians and women composers themselves The book's six case studies of Adela Maddison 1866-1929 Ethel Smyth 1858-1944 Morfydd Owen 1891-1918 Ethel Barns 1880-1948 Alice Verne Bredt 1868-1958 and Susan Spain Dunk 1880-1962 offer valuable insight into the women's musical education and compositional careers Seddon's discussion of their chamber works for differing instrumental combinations includes an exploration of formal procedures an issue much discussed by contemporary sources The individual composers' reactions to the debate instigated by the Society of Women Musicians on the future of women's music is considered in relation to their lives careers and the chamber music itself As the composers in this study were not a cohesive group creatively or ideologically the book draws on primary sources as well as the writings of contemporary commentators to assess the legacy of the chamber works produced

McVeigh,2024 Traversing London s musical culture this book boldly illuminates the emergence of Edwardian London as a beacon of musical innovation The dawning of a new century saw London emerge as a hub in a fast developing global music industry mirroring Britain s pivotal position between the continent the Americas and the British Empire It was a period of expansion experiment and entrepreneurial energy Rather than conservative and inward looking London was invigorated by new ideas from pioneering musical comedy and revue to the modernist departures of Debussy and Stravinsky Meanwhile Elgar Holst Vaughan Williams and a host of ambitious younger composers sought to reposition British music in a rapidly evolving soundscape Music was central to society at every level Just as opulent theatres proliferated in the West End concert life was revitalised by new symphony orchestras by the Queen s Hall promenade concerts and by Sunday concerts at the vast Albert Hall Through innumerable band and gramophone concerts in the parks music from Wagner to Irving Berlin became available as never before The book envisions a burgeoning urban culture through a series of snapshots daily musical life in all its messy diversity While tackling themes of cosmopolitanism and nationalism high and low brows centres and peripheries it evokes contemporary voices and characterful individuals to illuminate the period Challenging issues include the barriers faced by women and people of colour and attitudes inhibiting the new generation of British composers not to mention embedded imperialist ideologies reflecting London's precarious position at the centre of Empire Engagingly written Simon McVeigh's groundbreaking book reveals the exhilarating transformation of music in Edwardian London which laid the foundations for the century to come Proceedings of the Royal Musical Association Royal Musical Association, 1922
