A Cold Colonialism Tina Adcock, 2025-06-01 Exploration has long been pivotal to southern engagements with northern Canada but it is most often associated with the nineteenth century or earlier A Cold Colonialism offers the first extended examination of twentieth century exploration in the Canadian North Modern exploration helped southerners establish and maintain distinctive kinds of colonial and settler colonial power over northern Indigenous homelands Who explored the North between 1918 and 1965 What forms did exploration take What did it mean to explorers and others affected by it Tina Adcock focuses on four representative explorers with richly documented careers mining engineer George Douglas surveyor Guy Blanchet ethnologist Vilhjalmur Stefansson and filmmaker Richard Finnie Despite limited experience in and knowledge of the Canadian North these explorers helped southern militaries industries and governments exert control over northern peoples and their lands Each also claimed belonging in and authority over the North in ways that still resonate among southern settlers in Canada today *The Friendly Arctic. Alliance and Conflict Ernest S. Burch, 2005-01-01 Alliance and Conflict combines a richly descriptive study of intersocietal relations in early nineteenth century Northwest Alaska with a bold theoretical treatise on the structure of the world system as it might have been in ancient times Ernest S Burch Jr illuminates one aspect of the traditional lives of the Iñupiaq Eskimos in unparalleled detail and depth Basing his account on observations made by early Western explorers interviews with Native historians and archeological research Burch describes the social boundaries and geographic borders formerly existing in Northwest Alaska and the various kinds of transactions that took place across them These ranged from violence of the most brutal sort at one extreme to relations of peace and friendship at the other Burch argues that the international system he describes approximated in many respects the type of system existing all over the world before the development of agriculture Based on that assumption he presents a series of hypotheses about what the world system may have been like when it consisted entirely of hunter gatherer societies and about how it became more centralized with the evolution of chiefdoms Accounts of specific people places and events add an immediate experiential dimension to the work complementing its theoretical apparatus and sweeping narrative scope Provocative and comprehensive Alliance and Conflict is a definitive look at the greater world of Native peoples of Northwest Alaska

Howkins, 2015-11-20 The environmental histories of the Arctic and Antarctica are characterised by contrast and contradiction These are places that have witnessed some of the worst environmental degradation in recent history But they are also the locations of some of the most farsighted measures of environmental protection They are places where people have sought to conquer nature through exploration and economic development but in many ways they remain wild and untamed They are the coldest places on Earth yet have come to occupy an important role in the science and politics of global warming Despite being located at opposite ends of the planet and being significantly different in many ways Adrian Howkins argues that the environmental histories of the Arctic and Antarctica share much in common and have often been closely connected This book also argues that the Polar Regions are strongly linked to the rest of the world both through physical processes and through intellectual and political themes As places of inherent contradiction the Polar Regions have much to contribute to the way we think about environmental history and the environment more generally Books of 1921-1925 Chicago Public Library, 1927

Regionalization of the World Pierre Beckouche, Yann Richard, 2024-05-29 On the world map macro regions or global regions have gradually emerged with varying degrees of success and following different trajectories The authors of this book attempt to determine whether within the context of globalization these macro regions have become an additional level in the spatial deployment of numerous actors and whether they have come to stand between the national and global levels This question has arisen because the increasing scales of trade environmental problems migration routes energy distribution the construction of major infrastructures etc transcend national boundaries and are leading states to implement macro regional cooperation The authors ask whether these large regional groupings are becoming genuine territories and are the fruit of in depth regional integration economic institutional legal normative political cultural and in terms of identity If so these global regions would therefore become referents that make sense and take root in social representations      The Statesman's Year-Book M.
