Yugoslavia Francine Friedman, 1993-05 This reference work catalogues all English language books and journal articles about the former Yugoslavia It contains over 9000 entries arranged by subject and is fully indexed The bibliographic citations are arranged under broad subject headings geography history and so on The major subject headings are further broken down into easy to follow headings and sub headings Against the Grain Anthony Marcus Lien, 2002 Although the art song was a favorite genre for American composers at the turn of the twentieth century its favor declined rapidly and significantly during and after the 1910s and for the rest of the first half of the century the genre held a marginalized place in the output of the most significant American composers Concomitant with this decline in song composition song publication also declined considerably after 1920 and a significant percentage of the songs published thereafter were authored by composers who specialized in songs and shorter works expressly intended for the domestic song market and written in a conservative musical idiom which appealed to mass audiences In contrast to these earlier declines the number of song concerts in New York City and Chicago increased steadily until about 1930 even as the percentage of song concerts to other concerts held steady After 1930 however the number and percentage of song concerts in these two cities declined as well The emergence of modernism on the musical landscape in the United States after 1915 was largely responsible for the decline in song publication and composition Among other things musical modernism valorized dissonance melodic fragmentation and objectivity these characteristics ran counter to the largely Romantic orientation of the art song with its long spun lyricism and subjectivity As a revision of current thought this study broadens the accepted corpus of modernist composers to include neo Romantics such as Samuel Barber whose music retained an essentially Romantic character but was frequently imbued with modernistic elements This study also shows that composers in certain stylistic professional and demographic categories wrote songs in significantly greater numbers than others For example in looking at the total song output of over 100 American and transplanted composers there was a direct correlation between musical style and song production the more progressive a composer's musical style the fewer songs he authored In addition to the impact of modernism on the art song these declines were also exacerbated by the art song's close association with other song types which lowered the art song's
