Dismantling Educational Inequality Pedro R. Portes, 2005 This long awaited solution oriented book helps readers understand how inequality is organized in our public educational system A four component developmental model provides a policy oriented framework that takes into account how children are socialized in and out of schools Given an educational system that produces unequal opportunities for student learning closing the gap requires thinking out of a box and the current conglomeration of social and economic policies A multi level strategy that aims for all to be educated at grade level through a coordinated national strategy is presented to eliminate educational inequality This is a must read controversial book that offers educators and policy makers a fundamental understanding of how the achievement gap can be eliminated at the population level

Handbook of Pediatric Psychology in School Settings Ronald T. Brown, 2003-09-12 In recent years the escalating costs of health care have caused managed care programs to shift the delivery of pediatric psychological services away from specialized medical centers and into primary care and school settings One result has been a radical expansion of school psychology into issues of clinical intervention health promotion and the assessment of psychotropic medications School psychologists are now expected to either deliver or more likely to provide consultation regarding a wide variety of pediatric psychological services Because this is a recent phenomenon very few school based psychologists or allied health practitioners school counselors and social workers have received training in pediatric psychology The mission of this book is to provide them with a comprehensive and authoritative guide to their newly acquired responsibilities in such areas as psychotherapy psychopharmacology health promotion and prevention of disease This book is appropriate for anyone concerned with issues of pediatric psychology in school settings school psychologists pediatric psychologists clinical child psychologists as well as pediatricians and child psychiatrists

A Practical Guide to Service Learning Felicia L. Wilczenski, Susan M. Coomey, 2007-06-03 School is so boring I hate it Why do I have to learn this stuff I ll never use it What does this class have to do with anything As school psychologists and school counselors how often do you hear this Chances are many of the students referred to you do not have any cognitive impairment or emotional disability They are bored and disengaged from school Some students may be struggling with personal and career identity issues Others come to you when interpersonal concerns or emotional distress interfere with their ability to learn Still others have learning disabilities cognitive impairment or psychological disorders that hinder their academic progress In this era of standards based instruction and No Child Left Behind the bottom line for schools is students academic performance The intense pressure on teachers to close the achievement gap and to produce students who achieve academically also pressures you to find effective interventions to promote school success Ultimately the goal of your work is to enable academic learning to take place for both regular and special education students The challenge is enormous

Advances in Education Research ,1999 Gender and Education Barbara J. Bank, 2007-09-30 In this two volume set educators explore the intersection of gender and education Their entries deal with educational theories research curricula practices personnel and policies but also with variations in the gendering of education across historical and cultural contexts The various contributors discuss gender as a social construction The latest research on boys and masculinities as well as girls and feminism is included The entries in this work cover the breadth of topics related to gender and education They provide reference information on the history and condition of gender and education from elementary to high school Entries cover such topics as alternative schools historically black colleges and universities in the United States military colleges and academies private and public single sex and co educational schools literacy mathematics achievement women s centers teacher interactions with girls and boys affirmative action in U S higher education sororities and fraternities educator sexual misconduct expectations of teachers for boys and girls heterosexism and homophobia bullying harassment and violence among students salaries of male and female educators school choice and gender equity disabled students and gender equity Title IX and school sports black feminism womanism and queer theory Strengths-Based School Counseling JohnP. Galassi,2017-07-05 Despite calls for a more preventive and developmental mode of functioning school counseling has tended to be driven by a reactive and sometimes crisis orientation Like social workers and school counseling and clinical psychologists school counselors typically function to alleviate deficits often in a small percentage of the students they serve Although this orientation has served school counselors well in many instances it is not empowering it does not serve all students and it does not replace those deficits with the type of positive characteristics and abilities that schools are attempting to develop This is the first book to provide a comprehensive look at the theory research and intervention strategies that comprise a strengths based developmental approach to school counseling In keeping with ASCA recommendations the Strengths Based School Counseling SBSC framework discusses academic personal social and career development outcomes for all students at the elementary middle and secondary school levels Other key features include integrative framework SBSC builds upon contemporary research from a variety of areas school counseling developmental psychology school psychology education positive psychology resiliency and social work evidence based interventions detailed examples of successful evidence based interventions and environments are presented at the elementary middle and high school levels for each major developmental area academic personal social and career identified in ASCA s National Model readability and pedagogy beautifully written the text includes lists of key points tables of student strengths illustrative examples and student exercises The Problem of College Readiness William G. Tierney,Julia C. Duncanson,2015-03-30 Though more students are entering college many drop out especially those who are low income and or of color To address this problem educational stakeholders have focused on the concept of college readiness or the preparation a student needs to succeed in college However what it means to be college ready and how to help more students become ready are questions without clear answers By way of historical and contemporary analyses this book uses California as a case study to demonstrate how the state has endeavored to make postsecondary opportunity accessible for all students The contributors also explore the challenges that remain and address what states and schools can do to improve college readiness and completion Troubling Intersections of Race and Sexuality Kevin K. Kumashiro,2001-06-26 In recent years researchers have considerably expanded our understanding of the experiences of students of color and of students who are gay lesbian bisexual transgendered and questioning ie Queer They have provided us with rich resources for addressing racism and heterosexism however few have examined the unique experiences of students who are both queer and of color and few have examined the heterosexist or white centered nature of anti racist or anti heterosexist education respectively What of the students and educators who live and teach at the intersection of race and sexuality By combining autobiographical accounts with qualitative and quantitative research on queer students of different racial backgrounds these essays not only trouble the ways we think about the intersections of race and sexuality they also offer theoretical insights and educational strategies to educators committed to bringing about change
