Castration Desire Robinson Murphy, 2023-12-14 Theorizes an alternative form of masculinity in global literature that is less egocentric and more sustainable both in terms of gendered and environmental power dynamics Contemporary novelists and filmmakers like Kazuo Ishiguro Japanese British Emma Donoghue Irish Canadian Michael Ondaatje Sri Lankan Canadian Bong Joon ho South Korean and J M Coetzee South African Australian are emblematic of a transnational phenomenon that Robinson Murphy calls castration desire That is these artists present privileged characters who nonetheless pursue their own diminishment In promulgating through their characters a less egocentric mode of thinking and acting these artists offer a blueprint for engendering a more other oriented global relationality Murphy proposes that in addition to being an ethical prerogative castration desire's less is more model of relationality would make life livable where veritable suicide is our species otherwise potential fate Castration desire thus offers an antidote to rapacious extractivism with the ambition of instilling a sustainable model for thinking and acting on an imminently eco apocalyptic earth In providing a fresh optic through which to read a diversity of text types Castration Desire helps define where literary criticism is now and where it is headed Castration Desire additionally extends and develops a zeitgeist currently unfolding in critical theory It brings Leo Bersani's concept psychic utopia together with Judith Butler's radical egalitarianism but transports their shared critique of phallic individualization into the environmental humanities In doing so this book builds a new framework for how gender studies intersects with environmental studies

DIY on the Lower East Side Andrew Strombeck, 2020-08-01 The severe financial austerity imposed on New York City during the 1975 fiscal crisis resulted in a city falling apart Broken windows crumbling walls and piles of bricks were everywhere While for many this physical decay was a sign that the postwar welfare state had failed for others it represented a site of risky opportunity that could stimulate novel forms of creativity and community In this book Andrew Strombeck explores the legacy of this crisis for the city's literature and art focusing on one neighborhood where changes were acutely felt the Lower East Side In what became a paradigmatic example of gentrification the Lower East Side's population shifted from working class people to Wall Street traders and ad agents This transformation occurred in part because of high profile local artists such as Jean Michel Basquiat Keith Haring Jeff Koons and Kiki Smith but Strombeck argues that neighborhood writers also played a role Drawing on archival research and original author interviews he examines the innovative work of Kathy Acker David Wojnarowicz Miguel Piñero Sylvère Lotringer Lynne Tillman and others and concludes that these writers still have much to teach us about changes in the nature of work and the emergence of a do it yourself ethos DIY on the Lower East Side shows how place and politics shaped literature and how New York City policies adopted at the time continue to shape our world
