Hearst's Magazine, the World To-day ,1911 The Emergence of Oligopoly Alfred S. Eichner,2019-08-01 Originally published in 1969 In describing the emergence of oligopoly Professor Eichner has written a history of the American sugar refining industry one based in part on records of the United States Department of Justice Sugar refining was one of the first major industries to be consolidated and its expertise was in many ways typical of the development of other industries Eichner's focus is on the changing pattern of industrial organization This study is based on a unique four stage model of the process by which the industrial structure of the American economy has evolved The first part of the book traces the early history of the sugar refining industry and argues that the classical model of a competitive industry is inherently unstable once large fixed investments are required The more closely sugar refining approximated this model the more unstable the model became in practice This instability led in 1887 to the formation of the sugar trust The author contends that the trust was formed not to exploit economies of scale but with the intent of achieving control over prices In the second part of the book Eichner describes the political and legal reaction that transformed monopoly into oligopoly This sequence of events is best understood in terms of a learning curve in which the response of businessmen over time was related to the changing institutional environment in which they were forced to operate Imperial San Francisco, With a New Preface Gray Brechin,2006-10-03 First published in 1999 this celebrated history of San Francisco traces the exploitation of both local and distant regions by prominent families the Hearsts de Youngs Spreckelses and others who gained power through mining ranching water and energy transportation real estate weapons and the mass media The story uncovered by Gray Brechin is one of greed and ambition on an epic scale Brechin arrives at a new way of understanding urban history as he traces the connections between environment economy and technology and discovers links that led ultimately to the creation of the atomic bomb and the nuclear arms race In a new preface Brechin considers the vulnerability of cities in the post 9 11 twenty first century The World's Work Walter Hines Page,Arthur W. Page,1906 A history of our time Hearst's Magazine-World Today ,1909 The American Magazine ,1906 The Nation at War James Augustin Brown Scherer,1918
