Health in Aging Russell A. Ward, 1987 Health in Aging State University of New York at Albany. Department of Sociology, 1986 Handbook of Gerontological Services Abraham Monk, 1990-06-29 Social Work The Cambridge Handbook of Age and Ageing Malcolm L. Johnson, Vern L. Bengtson, Peter G. Coleman, Thomas B. L. Kirkwood, 2005-12-01 The Cambridge Handbook of Age and Ageing first published in 2005 is a guide to the body of knowledge theory policy and practice relevant to age researchers and gerontologists around the world It contains almost 80 original chapters commissioned and written by the world's leading gerontologists from 16 countries and 5 continents The broad focus of the book is on the behavioural and social sciences but it also includes important contributions from the biological and medical sciences It provides comprehensive accessible and authoritative accounts of all the key topics in the field ranging from theories of ageing to demography physical aspects of ageing mental processes and ageing nursing and health care for older people the social context of ageing cross cultural perspectives relationships quality of life gender and financial and policy provision This handbook will be a must have resource for all researchers students and professionals with an interest in age and ageing Annual Review of Gerontology and Geriatrics M. Powell Lawton, George L. Maddox, 2013-12-01

Demography of Aging National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population, 1994-02-01 As the United States and the rest of the world face the unprecedented challenge of aging populations this volume draws together for the first time state of the art work from the emerging field of the demography of aging The nine chapters written by experts from a variety of disciplines highlight data sources and research approaches results and proposed strategies on a topic with major policy implications for labor forces economic well being health care and the need for social and family supports Social Work Practice With Older Adults Jill M. Chonody, Barbra Teater, 2017-12 This book presents a contemporary framework based on the World Health Organization's active aging policy that allows students to focus on client strengths and resources when working with the elderly Covering micro mezzo and macro practice domains the text examines all aspects of working with aging populations from assessment through termination Annual Review of Gerontology and Geriatrics, Volume 13, 1993, 1993-10-22 During the past few decades the dramatic social changes with regard to our aging population and changes in the family unit have made both demographic and socioeconomic consequences as well as an effect on matters of social policy The prestigious editors George L. Maddox and M. Powell Lawton have assembled an impressive group of expert contributors whose chapters address topics from the latest theory and research findings to the changing balance of work and families as well as patterns of kinship Handbook of Communication and Aging Research Jon F. Nussbaum, Justine Coupland, 2004-04-12 This second edition of the Handbook of Communication and Aging Research captures the ever changing and expanding domain of aging research Since it was first recognized that there is more to social aging than demography gerontology has needed a communication perspective Like the first edition this handbook sets out to demonstrate that aging is not only an individual process but an interactive one The study of communication can lead to an understanding of what it means to grow old We may age physiologically and chronologically but our social aging how we behave as social actors toward others and even how we align ourselves with or come to understand the signs of difference or change as we age are phenomena achieved primarily through communication experiences Synthesizing the vast amount of research that has been published on communication and aging in numerous international outlets over the last three decades the book s contributors include scholars from North America and the United Kingdom who are active researchers in the perspectives covered in their particular chapter Many of the chapters work to deny earlier images of aging as involving normative decrement to provide a picture of aging as a process of development involving positive choices and providing new opportunities A recurring theme in many chapters is that of the heterogeneity of the group of people who are variously categorized as older aged elderly or over 65 The contributors review the literature analytically in a way that reveals not only current theoretical and methodological approaches to communication and aging research but also sets the future agenda This handbook will be of great interest to scholars and researchers in gerontology developmental psychology and communication and in this updated edition will continue to play a key role in the study of communication and aging

The Ties of Later Life Jon Hendricks, 2019-05-23 Helps you recognise the continuity that runs across the generations from grandparents to grandchildren This work provides a clear perspective on the actual experiences of the lives of our family and friends

Caregiving Systems Steven H. Zarit, Leonard I. Pearlin, K. Warner Schaie, 2019-02-21 Caregiving has emerged as a critical issue in the second half of the life cycle With the growth of the older population there have been dramatic increases in the number of people needing care and assistance The responsibility for care typically falls on families at a time when they have limited resources to meet these needs At a societal level the need for care for growing numbers of disabled elders poses a major challenge for how to organize supportive services in an efficient and responsive system Bringing together multiple perspectives on caregiving the authors explore informal and formal family caregiving and the pivotal issue of how these systems interface and interact An overview of this variation is provided by examining family caregiving from three perspectives the effects of culture on helping patterns and family responsibility how different disabilities affect patterns of family care and longitudinal perspectives on the impact that caregiving has on family members

Serving the Elderly Paul Kim, 2017-07-12 Broadly speaking there are two kinds of professional practice skills relevant to the burgeoning field of gerontological human service clinical modalities and macro strategies This book identifies seven essential approaches to clinical gerontology including five of the most important macro skills that all professionals in the field will need to acquire and it presents each of them in a single collection intended to serve as a basic text and reference work for academic and in service training Each contributor to this volume speaks with recognized expertise on his her preferred subject while mindful of the larger purpose of the collection as a whole In a concluding chapter Dr Kim draws on his own long and successful experience in obtaining financial support for his programs and provides a wealth of useful information on the preparation of grant proposals and the conduct of other fundraising activities Serving the Elderly is adaptable to the uses of a wide variety of geriatric health care providers from students and trainees in social work clinical psychology and other care giving professions to already established practitioners who are branching out in gerontology

Social Care of the Elderly Marjorie H. Cantor, Mark Brennan, PhD, 2000-02-29 A welcome addition to the literature in this important area of work that builds on the empirical studies which have illuminated our understanding of the requirements of effective service provision The final section is in a real sense a call for action for all of us in the field and for public officials and opinion makers to respond to the need for Social Care now and in the new millenium from the foreword by Rose Dobrof DSW Brookdale Professor of Gerontology Hunter College and James R Dumpson PhD Chairman of Policy Center for Aging New York Community Trust Based on two groundbreaking studies of older people in an urban setting this important book focuses on access to social services for different ethnicities Cantor and Brennan review different models and provide the theoretical base for the book in Part I They describe ways in which the complementary roles of informal and formal systems change as a function of the health status of older people In Part II they illustrate the ways in which ethnicity class and culture affect the roles of the formal and informal systems by focusing on specific case studies of African American Latino and Jewish elderly

Age and the Reach of Sociological Imagination

Dale Dannefer, 2021-08-09 The dominant narratives of both science and popular culture typically define aging and human development as self contained individual matters failing to recognize the degree to which they are shaped by experiential and contextual contingencies Our understandings of age are thereby boxed in and constricted by assumptions of normality and naturalness that limit our capacities to explore possible alternative experiences of development and aging and the conditions both individual and social that might foster such experiences Combining foundational principles of critical social science with recent breakthroughs in research across disciplines ranging from biology to economics this book offers a scientifically and humanly expanded landscape for apprehending the life course Rejecting familiar but false dichotomies such as nature vs nurture and structure vs agency it clarifies the organismic fundamentals that make the actual content of experience so centrally important in age and development and it also explores why attention to these fundamentals has been so resisted in studies of individuals and individual change and in policy and practice as well In presenting the basic principles and reviewing the current state of knowledge Dale Dannefer introduces multi levelled social processes that shape human development and aging over the life course and age as a cultural phenomenon organizing his approach around three key frontiers of inquiry that each invite a vigorous exercise of sociological imagination the Social Structural Frontier the Biosocial Frontier and the Critical Reflexive Frontier
