D. Creach,1996-10-01 The Choice of Yahweh as Refuge makes a unique and creative contribution to an emerging direction in Psalms study the shape and shaping of the Psalter Building especially on the work of Gerald Wilson James Mays Klaus Seybold and Gerald Sheppard Creach provides an abundance of helpful data and advances the discussion significantly with his judicious interpretation of the root hsh to seek refuge and related Hebrew roots He shows that the arrangement of Psalms 2 89 reflects an editorial interest in which ideas expressed by the hsh field are a foil for complaints of being cast off by Yahweh and that ideas expressed by the hsh field are also among the primary motifs in Psalms 90 106 similar to the MT He reveals his biases as he struggles with the difficult and obscure sections of his source text He exhibits an anti Syrian and anti Samaritan bias as well as interest in Gentiles eschatology and messianism Moving Beyond Symbol and Myth Anne Moore,2009 For hundreds of years scholars have debated the meaning of Jesus central theological term the kingdom of God Most of the argument has focused on its assumed eschatological connotations and Jesus adherence or deviation from these ideas Within the North American context the debate is dominated by the work of Norman Perrin whose classification of the kingdom of God as a myth evoking symbol remains one of the fundamental assumptions of scholarship According to Perrin Jesus understanding of the kingdom of God is founded upon the myth of God acting as king on behalf of Israel as described in the Hebrew Bible Moving Beyond Symbol and Myth challenges Perrin s classification and advocates the reclassification of the kingdom of God as metaphor Drawing upon insights from the cognitive theory of metaphor this study examines all the occurrences of the God is king metaphor within the literary context of the Hebrew Bible Based on this review it is proposed that the God is king metaphor functions as a true metaphor with a range of expressions and meanings It is employed within a variety of texts and conveys images of God as the covenantal sovereign of Israel God as the eternal suzerain of the world and God as the king of the disadvantaged The interaction of the semantic fields of divinity and human kingship evoke a range of metaphoric expressions that are utilized throughout the history of the Hebrew Bible in response to differing socio historical contexts and within a range of rhetorical strategies It is this diversity inherent in the God is king metaphor that is the foundation for the diversified expressions of the kingdom of God associated with the historical Jesus and early Christianity Helsinki Perspectives on the Translation Technique of the Septuagint International Organization for Septuagint and Cognate Studies,2001 Hebrew Wordplay and Septuagint Translation Technique in the Fourth Book of the Psalter Elizabeth H. P. Backfish,2019-07-25 This volume examines numerous Hebrew wordplays not identified and discussed in previous research and the technique of the Septuagint translators by offering another criterion of evaluation essentially their concern about the style of translating Hebrew into Greek Elizabeth Backfish s study analyzes seventy four wordplays employed by the Hebrew poets of Psalms 90 106 and how the Septuagint renders Hebrew wordplay in Greek Backfish estimates that the Septuagint translators were able to render 31% of the Hebrew semantic and phonetic wordplays twenty four total most of which required some sort of transformation or change to the text in order to function in Greek After providing a thorough summary of research methods on wordplay definitions and research methodology Backfish summarizes all examples of wordplay within the Fourth Psalter and concludes with examples of the wordplay s replication similar rendition or textual variation in the Septuagint Emphasising the creativity and ingenuity of the Septuagint translators work in passages that commentators often too quickly identify as the results of scribal error or a variant Vorlage from the Masoretic text Backfish shows how the aptitude and flexibility displayed in the translation technique also contributes to conversations in modern translation studies XVII Congress of the International Organization for

The Influence of Post-Biblical Hebrew and Aramaic on the Translator of Septuagint Isaiah Seulgi L. Byun, 2017-01-12 For many years scholars have noted that post biblical Hebrew and Aramaic may have influenced some of the renderings in the ancient Greek versions of the Hebrew Bible but examination of this has usually been done only in passing with little or no discussion and scant evidence Seulgi L Byun examines the ancient Greek version of Isaiah commonly referred to as LXX Septuagint Isaiah and examines a number of possible cases in depth in order to determine the degree to which semantic change within Hebrew as well as the spread of Aramaic already in the Second Temple period may have influenced the translator The book begins with an overview of key issues semantic change the development or non development of the Hebrew language previous scholarship issues in the study of LXX Isaiah and methodological considerations This is followed by four larger sections representing various categories of examples where post biblical Hebrew or Aramaic may have influenced renderings in the text each offering specific examples The first section contains examples where post biblical Hebrew may have influenced LXX Isaiah the second section offers examples of Aramaic influence the third section addresses examples where the influence is not clear possibly both post biblical Hebrew and Aramaic and the fourth section discusses the possibility of word manipulation cases where the translator of LXX Isaiah manipulated the Hebrew with a post biblical Hebrew or Aramaic meaning word in mind
