Bartlett, 1996-12-15 A resource by and for young people who are taking an activist lead in such areas as environmental protection and equal rights highlights the fundamentals of organizing from recruiting and prioritizing to fund raising and publicity Why Are All the Black Kids Sitting Together in the Cafeteria? Beverly Tatum, 2003-01-17 The classic bestselling book on the psychology of racism now fully revised and updated Walk into any racially mixed high school and you will see Black White and Latino youth clustered in their own groups Is this self segregation a problem to address or a coping strategy Beverly Daniel Tatum a renowned authority on the psychology of racism argues that straight talk about our racial identities is essential if we are serious about enabling communication across racial and ethnic divides These topics have only become more urgent as the national conversation about race is increasingly acrimonious This fully revised edition is essential reading for anyone seeking to understand the dynamics of race in America An unusually sensitive work about the racial barriers that still divide us in so many areas of life Jonathan Kozol Inciting Democracy Randy Schutt, 2001-09-10

Inciting Democracy offers a vision of what a good society might look like and explores how we can overcome five key obstacles to creating such a society. It offers a practical way to develop a large decentralized education and support program that can increase the skills, knowledge, and strength of hundreds of thousands of goodhearted people so they can democratically and nonviolently transform society through grassroots change movements. It also provides a realistic long-term vision of success, a vision that can encourage and inspire people working for positive change, thus making success more likely.

Critique for What? Joel Pfister, 2016-01-08. Students want to know: What does one do with critique? Fortunately, some of the most provocative self-critical intellectuals from the postwar period to the postmodern present have wrestled with this. Joel Pfister in Critique for What criss-crosses the Atlantic to take stock of exciting British and US cultural studies, American studies, and Left studies that challenge the academic critique for critique's sake and career's sake. Business and ask: Critique for what and for whom? Historicizing for what and for whom? Politicizing for what and for whom? America for what and for whom? Here, New Left revisionary socialists, members of the unpartied Left, cultural studies theorists, American studies scholars, radical historians, progressive literary critics, and early proponents of transnational analysis interact in what amounts to a lively book-length strategy seminar. British political intellectuals including Raymond Williams, E. P. Thompson, Stuart Hall, and Raphael Samuel, and Americans including F. O. Matthiessen, Robert Lynd, C. Wright Mills, and Richard Ohmann reconsider the critical project as social transformation studies, activism studies, organizing studies. Eager to prevent cultural studies from becoming cynicism studies, Critique for What thinks creatively about the possibilities of using as well as developing critique in our new millennium.

Why Are All The Black Kids Sitting Together In The Cafeteria? Beverly Daniel Tatum, 1999-06-24. Walk into any racially mixed high school and you will see Black youth seated together in the cafeteria. Of course, it's not just the Black kids sitting together; the White, Latino, Asian, Pacific, and in some regions, American Indian youth are clustered in their own groups, too. The same phenomenon can be observed in college dining halls, faculty lounges, and in corporate cafeterias. What is going on here? Is this self-segregation a problem we should try to fix, or a coping strategy we should support? How can we get past our reluctance to talk about racial issues, to even discuss it? And what about the other questions we and our children have about race? Beverly Daniel Tatum is a renowned authority on the psychology of racism She asserts that we do not know how to talk about our racial differences Whites are afraid of using the wrong words and being perceived as racist Parents of color are afraid of exposing their children to painful racial realities too soon Tatum understands that the vocabulary of race is loaded and that embarrassment and awkwardness often stymie conversations about this subject yet she believes that these obstacles can and must be overcome if we are to bring about change In Why Are All the Black Kids Sitting Together in the Cafeteria And Other Conversations About Race Dr Tatum provides us with a new way of thinking and talking about race through the lens of racial identity She explains that all of us have a racial identity and must strive to affirm it For people of color the development of a constructive racial identity requires being able to recognize and reject the bombardment of negative stereotypes and to embrace a history of resistance and empowerment rather than passive victimization For Whites the challenge is to engage in a process of racial identity development which leads to an awareness of White privilege and a determination to actively work against injustice and this requires the strength to reject a system that awards them and to reclaim the legacy of White allies For many this is uncharted territory This book provides a road map for those who want to make the journey and better understand the racial dynamics of their daily lives Tatum extends her ideas about racial identity development beyond the usual Black White paradigm to embrace the unique circumstances of Latinos American Indians Asians as well as biracial youth Also included is a list of resources for further reading as well as a list of books for parents and teachers to recommend to children of all ages Using real life examples and the latest research Tatum presents strong evidence that straight talk about our racial identities whatever they may be is essential if we are serious about facilitating communication across racial and ethnic divides We have waited far too long to begin our conversations about race This remarkable book infused with great wisdom and humanity tells us where to start
