Hamilton, 1991 Hamilton examines the farm problem of the 1920s and 1930s focusing on how the Hoover administration and the early New Deal responded to the farm crisis of the Great Depression and to the debate over a long range farm policy He argues that Hoover s farm plan failed because of the inherent flaws and limitations of Hoover s associational prescriptions and his simplistic conceptions about agriculture Originally published 1991 A UNC Press Enduring Edition UNC Press Enduring Editions use the latest in digital technology to make available again books from our distinguished backlist that were previously out of print These editions are published unaltered from the original and are presented in affordable paperback formats bringing readers both historical and cultural value From New Day to New Deal David E. Hamilton, 1991 Hamilton history U of Kentucky argues that the farm policies of both Hoover and Roosevelt in the 1920 s and 1930 s were attempting to create cooperative self governing and planning institutions for agriculture that Hoover s was defeated by the depression and his own simplistic misconceptions and that Roosevelt s came closer but still failed Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR The FDR Years William D. Catoctin Mountain Park: An Historic Resource Study, March 2000 , 2007 Delta Empire Jeannie Whayne, 2011-12-05 In Delta Empire Lee Wilson and the Transformation of Agriculture in the New South Jeannie Whayne employs the fascinating history of a powerful plantation owner in the Arkansas delta to recount the evolution of southern agriculture from the late nineteenth century through World War II After his father s death in 1870 Robert E Lee Wilson inherited 400 acres of land in Mississippi County Arkansas Over his lifetime he transformed that inheritance into a 50 000 acre lumber operation and cotton plantation Early on Wilson saw an opportunity in the swampy local terrain which sold for as little as fifty cents an acre to satisfy an expanding national market for Arkansas forest reserves He also led the fundamental transformation of the landscape involving the drainage of tens of thousands of acres of land in order to create the vast agricultural empire he envisioned A consummate manager Wilson employed the tenancy and sharecropping system to his advantage while earning a reputation for fair treatment of laborers a reputation Whayne suggests not entirely deserved He cultivated a cadre of relatives and employees from whom he expected absolute devotion Leveraging every asset during his life and often deeply in debt Wilson saved his company from bankruptcy several times leaving it to the next generation to successfully steer the business through the challenges of the 1930s and World War II Delta Empire traces the transition from the labor intensive sharecropping and tenancy system to the capital intensive neo plantations of the post World War II era to the portfolio plantation model Through Wilson s story Whayne provides a compelling case study of strategic innovation and the changing economy of the South in the late nineteenth century

Westerners were at the forefront of the debate over electric power development even before the construction of large federally owned dams in the 1930s At the heart of this debate was a conflict between public power advocates and the private utility industry over control of the environment a struggle that was played out in the political arena In this book Jay Brigham describes that rivalry in the West in the years before the New Deal Focusing on the conservative city of Los Angeles and its liberal counterpart Seattle as well as on several small towns in the Midwest Brigham shows how fierce battles broke out as private and public systems competed for customers and how despite the differences between these two cities public power ultimately triumphed in each

Interpreting Science at Museums and Historic Sites Debra A. Reid, Karen-Beth G. Scholthof, David D. Vail, 2023-09-11 Ask not what science can do for you but what public history can do for science Interpreting Science in Museums and Historic Sites stresses the untapped potential of historical artifacts to inform our understanding of scientific topics It argues that science gains ground when contextualized in museums and historic sites Engaging audiences in conversations about hot topics such as health and medical sciences or climate change and responses to it mediated by a history museum can emphasize scientific rigor and the time lag between discovery and confirmation of societal benefit Interpreting Science emphasizes the urgency of this work provides a toolkit to start and sustain the work shares case studies that model best practice and resources useful to facilitate and sustain a science infused public history      The Dead Pledge Judge Earl Glock, 2021-04-06 The American government today supports a financial system based on mortgage lending and it often bails out the financial institutions making these mortgages The Dead Pledge reveals the surprising origins of American mortgages and American bailouts in policies dating back to the early twentieth century Judge Glock shows that the federal government began subsidizing mortgages in order to help lagging sectors of the economy such as farming and construction In order to encourage mortgage lending the government also extended unprecedented assistance to banks During the Great Depression the federal government made new mortgage lending and bank bailouts the centerpiece of its recovery program Both the Herbert Hoover and Franklin Roosevelt administrations created semipublic financial institutions such as Fannie Mae to provide cheap tradable mortgages and they extended guarantees to more banks and financiers Ultimately Glock argues the desire to protect the financial system took precedence over the desire to help lagging parts of the economy and the government became ever more tied into the financial world The Dead Pledge recasts twentieth century economic financial and political history and demonstrates why the greatest safety net created in this era was the one supporting finance
