Herrera, 2009 Peace is a phrase that is often used but vaguely understood Conventional thought considers peace as a condition that shares a dialectical relationship with war albeit devoid of a separate nature of its own Upon closer examination peace has a pragmatic quality and the potential to be a separate element of statecraft not simply the absence termination or continuation of war This paper examines peace at the individual collective and inter collective levels It does so by addressing three central questions First how is peace defined and what is its nature Is it a natural condition or an artificially constructed one Second does it differ at the individual collective and inter collective levels And third can peace stand on its own as a means of policy relative to diplomacy and war In essence can peace be waged Research reveals that a complex paradigmatic change in statecraft must occur in order to employ peace as a shaping and sustaining action Further inquiry is required to fully understand its potential as a tool one similar to soft power This paper contains recommendations for the continued development of this concept Page v
