and a book of fairy tales These conversations with Douglas reveal her earthy frankness and her disdain for portentous declaration In them just as in her fiction she expresses her love of people language and stories her constant moral values her inclusive compassion her deeply felt obligations to others and her keen sense of humor She explains that comedy is as serious as tragedy it's just funnier Because she is an excellent candid conversationalist her light touch with portentous matters makes these interviews both dead serious and very funny The first is with Hodding Carter III who in 1971 was a young journalist and family friend from Greenville Mississippi the town where Douglas was living and rearing three sons Carter is among her early interviewers who explore the mystique of the southern writer and the southern climate for literature Douglas's string of new novels took her work forward into civil rights women's roles and questions about the institutions of family and marriage The conversations illuminate this shift from southern tradition to concern over contemporary issues Arranged chronologically the interviews testify to the growth of Douglas's narrative sensibility and to the profound use of allusions in her work As she discusses A Family's Affairs Black Cloud White Cloud Where the Dreams Cross Apostles of Light The Rock Cried Out A Lifetime Burning The Magic Carpet and Other Tales Can't Quit You Baby and Truth her remarks exhibit a consistent concern with technique and craftsmanship for which she is much admired Of these sixteen interviews ten originally appeared in print between 1971 and 1999 Six have never before been published Resurrecting lost material and exploring new insights this collection offers the only comprehensive introduction to Douglas's lasting body of powerful work It also provides the tools for the in depth studies of her art which are sure to follow So when I went down to ask my aunts if it would be all right to publish A Family's Affairs they said it was okay so long as they didn't have to read it and if I would use a pen name This collection of interviews from three decades features one of the South's most prominent contemporary writers one of America's most dazzling practitioners of postmodern fiction From the early sixties when she published the award winning A Family's Affairs to the late nineties and the publication of Truth Four Stories I Am Finally Old Enough to Tell Ellen Douglas has written novels short stories essays and a book of fairy tales These conversations with Douglas reveal her earthy frankness and her disdain for portentous declaration In them just as in her fiction she expresses her love of people language and stories her constant moral values her inclusive compassion her deeply felt obligations to others and her keen sense of humor She explains that comedy is as serious as tragedy it's just funnier Because she is an excellent candid conversationalist her light touch with portentous matters makes these interviews both dead serious and very funny The first is with Hodding Carter III who in 1971 was a young journalist and family friend from Greenville Mississippi the town where Douglas was living and rearing three sons Carter is among her early interviewers who explore the mystique of the southern writer and the southern climate for literature Douglas's string of new novels took her work forward into civil rights women's roles and questions about the institutions of family and marriage The conversations illuminate this shift from southern tradition to concern over contemporary issues Arranged chronologically the interviews testify to the growth of Douglas's narrative sensibility and to the profound use of allusions in her work. As she discusses A Family's Affairs, Black Cloud White Cloud, Where the Dreams Cross, Apostles of Light, The Rock Cried Out, A Lifetime Burning, The Magic Carpet, and Other Tales, Can't Quit You Baby and Truth, her remarks exhibit a consistent concern with technique and craftsmanship for which she is much admired. Of these sixteen interviews, ten originally appeared in print between 1971 and 1999. Six have never before been published. Resurrecting lost material and exploring new insights, this collection offers the only comprehensive introduction to Douglas's lasting body of powerful work. It also provides the tools for the in-depth studies of her art which are sure to follow.

Policing the Open Road Sarah A. Seo, 2019-04-08 Sarah Seo shows that the rise of the car, the symbol of American personal freedom, led to ever more intrusive policing with devastating consequences for racial equality in our criminal justice system. Criminal procedures designed to safeguard us on the road undermined the nation's commitment to equal protection before the law.
