Modern globalization has been a recognized force around the world for at least three decades. Academic journals, newspapers, television specials and political discourse are conquered by globalization events and their impact seems to be everywhere. For most it is a good force but for a very angry minority it appears to be a bad force. One would have thought that the terms of a force so important would be well defined, its impact understood and its historical evolution appreciated. This fifth volume explores the interaction of globalization and contemporary issues among economic, business, social, politics, cultural, etc. With its global implications, this book will be invaluable for students and scholars from all disciplines who are concerned with the contemporary issues in economics, business and globalization. This volume will make sense of contemporary issues in economics, business and globalization by conveying its complexity, importance and contentiousness from diverse vantage points. With its broad coverage of political, economic, business, cultural, social and individual dimensions, this volume provides readers with a comprehensive introduction to contemporary issues in economics, business and globalization. Also, this book will aim to provide relevant theoretical frameworks and the latest empirical research findings in the areas. It will be written for professionals who want to improve their understanding of the contemporary issues in economics, business, globalization and dimensions such as economical, managerial, political, cultural, social, etc.
