On Subject and Theme Ruqaiya Hasan, Peter H. Fries, 1995-11-23 The ten papers in this volume focus on Subject and Theme Theme began its life as a semantic notion in the work of Vil m Mathesius while Subject has traditionally been seen as just a syntactic entity More recently two related perspectives on these concepts have attracted linguists attention the formal criteria for their recognition and the relations between the two concepts Using the systemic functional model as their point of departure the papers in the present volume consider the two notions in a wider context by relating them to the interpersonal and textual metafunctions of language By contrast with the current linguistic approaches the primary focus here is neither simply on formal recognition criteria nor on the relation of these elements to each other instead the notions of Subject and Theme are examined from the point of view of their function in the economy of discourse with studies of their significance in English and French as well as in a range of non Indo European languages Definitions of the concepts are offered on the basis of their discourse functions which are also important in selecting the formal recognition criteria and in understanding their mutually supportive role vis vis each other Most of the papers in the volume are a selection from presentations made at the 19th International Systemic Functional Congress at Macquarie University

Through Language in Early Childhood Clare Painter, 2005-03-01 Language is a child's major tool for learning about the world Through the taken for granted interactions of everyday conversation a child not only learns the mother tongue but uses it as a resource for thinking and reasoning This book presents a rich naturalistic case study of one child's use of language from two and a half to five years drawing on systemic functional theory to argue that cognitive development is essentially a linguistic process and offering a new description and interpretation of linguistic and cognitive developments during this period The case study examines the child's changing language in terms of its role in interpreting four key domains of experience the world of things the world of events the world of semiosis including the inner world of cognition and the construal of cause and effect It shows how new linguistic possibilities constitute developments in cognitive resources and prepare the child for later learning in school Pedagogy and the Shaping of Consciousness Frances Christie, 2005-03-01

Basil Bernstein began to develop his theory of social structure and power relations during the 1950s and 1960s Early in the 1960s he met M A K Halliday and Ruqaiya Hasan who were developing the first formulations of what would become known as systemic functional SF linguistic theory A far reaching dialogue began Bernstein recognized the significant role that language plays in the construction of social experience and social inequality Halliday and Hasan were actively seeking a theory of language that would explain the nature of the social In different ways they acknowledged the powerful role of language in the social construction of experience Their resulting enquiries brought both theories and scholars into dialogue Contributors to this volume including Hasan and Bernstein continue this dialogue in a range of papers that draw on both SF linguistic theory with special reference to genre and Bernstein's sociological theory particularly with reference to his later work on pedagogic device and pedagogic discourse Several authors describe the influence of these theories on classroom practice including English and mathematics and literacy teaching in indigenous schools Pedagogy and the Shaping of Consciousness is an important contribution to the explication of the two theories the dialogue which they continue to provoke and their contribution to the provision of more equal access to education
