The accessible writing style of this resource and in-depth information and analyses make it appropriate for high school and undergraduate level students as well as scholars of military history and individuals who simply enjoy reading about military history.

North Atlantic Civilization at War Patrick Lloyd Hatcher, 2016-07-01. This book recounts the World War II journeys of a soldier, a ship, and a bottle of spirits through and around five great turning point battles. Those battles were influenced more by geography and climate than by generals and admirals. Properly titled, they would be known as the Battles of the Sky, Britain, the Sand, El Alamein, the Snow, Stalingrad, the Sea, North Atlantic, and the Shore, Normandy. Slogging their way through this quintet are an eighteen-year-old G.I. from Missouri, as seen through his letters home; an ugly duckling of a Liberty ship, as seen through its Armed Guard reports; and a bottle of rum, as traced by those who after the war made money in selling war souvenirs. It is the history of the North Atlantic sea basin and its extensions at war: the story of the lulls between battles when America's teenage warriors often watched war movies Humphrey Bogart made and Warner Brothers released; seven during the war sang or listened to popular tunes by songsmiths like Irving Berlin and drank rum and Coke while listening to Dick Haymes sing the hit "Rum, Coca-Cola." While accessible and vastly entertaining, this is a serious work of history. By treating World War II in Europe much as Fernand Braudel treated the origins of Western civilization in his masterpiece The Mediterranean and the Mediterranean World in the Age of Philip II, Hatcher brings Braudelian detachment to his narrative.

Black Tulip Erik Schmidt, 2023-02-15. The story of the top scoring ace in history, a Luftwaffe pilot named Erich Hartmann, who totaled 352 kills. Black Tulip is the dramatic story of history's top fighter ace, Luftwaffe pilot Erich Hartmann. It's also the story of how his service under Hitler was simplified and elevated to Western mythology during the Cold War. Over 1,404 wartime missions, Hartmann claimed a staggering 352 airborne kills, and his career contains all the dramas you would expect: There were the frostbitten fighter sweeps over the Eastern Front, drunken forays to Hitler's Eagle's Nest, a decade of imprisonment in the wretched Soviet POW camps, and further military service during the Cold War that ended with conflict and angst. Just when Hartmann's second career was faltering, he was adopted by a network of writers and commentators personally invested in his welfare and reputation. These men, mostly Americans, published elaborate celebratory stories about Hartmann and his elite fraternity of Luftwaffe pilots. With each dogfight tale put into print, Hartmann's legacy became loftier and more secure, and his complicated service in support of Nazism faded away. A simplified, one-dimensional account of his life, devoid of the harder questions about allegiance and service under Hitler, has gone unchallenged for almost a generation. Black Tulip locates the ambiguous truth about Hartmann and so much of the German Wehrmacht in general that many of these men were neither full-blown Nazis nor impeccable knights They were complex contradictory and elusive This book portrays a complex human rather than the heroic caricature we re used to and it argues that the tidy polished hero stories we ve inherited about men like Hartmann say as much about those who ve crafted them as they do about the heroes themselves
