Hazardous Decisions The Netherlands And Hazardous Waste Siting In The U K:

Hazardous Decisions D. Huitema, 2005-12-15 where Jeremy Richardson Albert Weale and Hugh Ward were excellent hosts at the Department of Government and Thomas Christiansen a very good roommate Having included the UK as a country where decision processes were far less participatory and thus worse in my own view than those in the Netherlands I started doing my first interviews there which were mainly intended to identify suitable case studies for research But then I read a highly critical review of a book that had a similar topic as my study The critique was that cases of hazardous waste siting cannot adequately be studied without understanding their national context This made me decide to devote some attention to the legal context of hazardous waste siting in the three countries of interest which is of course only a part of the national context and its development through the years The study of the UK system of environmental regulation and land use planning was not a simple issue and I was warned various times for instance by Andrew Blowers at the Open University that the legislation was highly complex and easily misinterpreted I felt personally touched by such warnings and decided that I should perhaps approach the UK system a bit less as an evil empire and maybe be a bit more objective in my appraisals

Public Participation and Better Environmental Decisions Frans H. J. M. Coenen, 2008-12-12 Public Participation and Better Environmental Decisions is about a specific promise that participation holds for environmental decision making Many of the arguments for public participation in international environmental policy documents are functional that is to say they see public participation as a means to an end Sound solutions to environmental problems require participation beyond experts and political elites Neglecting information from the public leads to legitimacy questions and potential conflicts There is a discourse in the literature and in policy practice as to whether decision making improves in quality as additional relevant information by the public is considered The promise that public participation holds has to be weighed against the limitations of public participation in terms of costs and interest conflicts The question that Public Participation and Better Environmental Decisions seeks to answer for academics planners and civil servants in all environmental relevant policy fields is What restricts and what enables information to hold the promise that public participation lead to better environmental decision making and better outcomes The Distributional Effects of Environmental Policy Johnstone Nick, Serret

Ysé, 2006-02-23 This book builds upon existing literature to simultaneously examine disparities in the distribution of environmental impacts of environmental policy and in the distribution of financial effects among households Ethics,

Design and Planning of the Built Environment Claudia Basta, Stefano Moroni, 2013-06-24 The book proposes a set of original contributions in research areas shared by planning theory architectural research design and ethical inquiry The contributors gathered in 2010 at the Ethics of the Built Environment seminar organized by the editors at Delft University of Technology Both prominent and emerging scholars presented their researches in the areas of aesthetics technological risks planning theory and architecture The scope of the seminar was highlighting shared lines of ethical inquiry among the themes discussed in order to identify perspectives of innovative interdisciplinary research After the seminar all seminar participants have elaborated their proposed contributions Some of the most prominent international authors in the field were subsequently invited to join in with this inquiry Claudia Basta teaches Network Infrastructures and Mobility at Wageningen University Between 2009 and 2011 she worked as Coordinator of the 3TU Centre of Excellence for Ethics and Technology of Delft University where she completed her post doc research on the shared areas of investigation between risk theories planning theories and ethical inquiry Her main research interests concern the matter of assessing and governing technological risks in relation to sustainable land use planning She wrote a number of journal articles and contributions to collective books on these themes Stefano Moroni teaches Land use ethics and the law at Milan Politecnico His main research interests concern planning theory and ethics He is the author of a number of books and journal articles Recent publications as co author Contractual Communities in the Self Organizing City Springer 2012      The International Yearbook of Environmental and Resource Economics 2005/2006 Henk Folmer, Thomas H. Tietenberg, 2005-01-01 The International Yearbook of Environmental and Resource Economics presents articles which are surveys of current issues in this research area where literature is abundant As every year we recommend the present yearbook to keep up with the developments of this literature Michel Griffon Quarterly Journal of International Agriculture The Yearbook provides a comprehensive overview of cutting edge issues in environmental and resource economics The expert contributors address some of today s most pressing environmental topics including issues in water pricing reforms spatial environmental policy environmental equity and the siting of hazardous waste facilities strategies to conserve biodiversity corporate sustainability the double dividend hypothesis of environmental taxes valuing environmental changes in the presence of risk The Yearbook will provide economists scholars and practitioners working in environmental and resource economics with a comprehensive overview of the cutting edge issues in the field      Water Policy in the Netherlands Stijn Reinhard, Henk Folmer, 2011 As a low lying delta region with a high population density the Netherlands has long focused on the prevention of flooding catastrophes and the reclamation of valuable land The evolution of Dutch water governance beginning with the creation of local water boards in the Middle Ages and growing into a complex infrastructure of polders dams and controlled waterways offers a compelling study of pitfalls and successes within one of the world s most challenging regions for water management Water Policy in the Netherlands traces the arc of water governance in the country from technological in      The Rise of Interactive Governance and Quasi-Markets S.A. Denters, Oscar van Heffen, J. Huisman, P.J. Klok, 2013-06-29 It has taken a long time to make this book Many initial drafts of the chapters published in this book were presented in November 2000 during a two day conference on Interactive governance towards a post parliamentary democracy held in Enschede The Netherlands The Netherlands Institute of Governance NIG sponsored the conference After this conference the organisers discussed the possibility of making a book on the basis of papers presented at this event In the end it was agreed that such a publication would indeed be worthwhile provided the initial papers were fundamentally revised Moreover it was agreed that also supplementary chapters should be included in order to strengthen the international comparative perspective On this basis authors of the conference papers chapters and envisioned new chapters were invited to re submit drafts The completion of the book however was unexpectedly halted by the tragic sudden death of our co editor and dear friend Oscar van Heffen In his lifetime he was the driving force behind this project Without his efforts insightful comments and helpful suggestions this book in its present form would never have been published As such we dedicate this volume to his memory the completion of the book being an honorary debt to our friend and his wife Mirjan

Water V I Grover,2016-04-19 Water is one of the most essential element for the survival of living beings With the increase in demand and decreasing quality and quantity water has become one of the major issues and problems in the world today It is unevenly distributed geographically and temporally resulting in surpluses for some people and a threat for others This book c

Handbook of Risk Theory Rafaela Hillerbrand,Per Sandin,Martin Peterson,2012-01-12 Risk has become one of the main topics in fields as diverse as engineering medicine and economics and it is also studied by social scientists psychologists and legal scholars But the topic of risk also leads to more fundamental questions such as What is risk What can decision theory contribute to the analysis of risk What does the human perception of risk mean for society How should we judge whether a risk is morally acceptable or not Over the last couple of decades questions like these have attracted interest from philosophers and other scholars into risk theory This handbook provides for an overview into key topics in a major new field of research It addresses a wide range of topics ranging from decision theory risk perception to ethics and social implications of risk and it also addresses specific case studies It aims to promote communication and information among all those who are interested in theoetical issues concerning risk and uncertainty This handbook brings together internationally leading philosophers and scholars from other disciplines who work on risk theory The contributions are accessibly written and highly relevant to issues that are studied by risk scholars We hope that the Handbook of Risk Theory will be a helpful starting point for all risk scholars who are interested in broadening and deepening their current perspectives

Coping with Water Deficiency Phoebe Koundouri,2007-11-28 Research results discussed in this book demonstrate that effective water management tools and decision making practices are needed to support interventions to increase availability and manage demand for scarce water supplies Furthermore the book bridges the gap between ideas and actions endorsed in the research oriented environmental debate and their translation into policymaking structures and programs in developed and developing countries

Ambiguous Ambitions in the Meuse Theatre Leo Santbergen,2013

The Routledge Handbook of Research Methods for Social-Ecological Systems Reinette Biggs,Alta de Vos,Rika Preiser,Hayley Clements,Kristine Maciejewski,Maja Schlüter,2021-07-29 The Routledge Handbook of Research Methods for Social Ecological Systems provides a synthetic guide to the range of methods that can be employed in social ecological systems SES research The book is primarily targeted at graduate students lecturers and researchers working on SES and has been written in a style that is accessible to readers entering the field from a variety of different disciplinary backgrounds Each chapter discusses the types of SES questions to which the particular methods are suited and the potential resources and skills required for their implementation and provides practical examples of the application of the methods In addition the book contains a conceptual and practical introduction to SES research a discussion of key gaps and frontiers in SES research methods and a glossary of key terms in SES research Contributions from 97 different authors situated at SES research hubs in 16 countries around the world including South Africa Sweden Germany and Australia bring a wealth of expertise and experience to this book The first book to provide a guide and introduction specifically focused on methods for studying SES this book will be of great interest to students and scholars of sustainability science environmental management global environmental change studies and environmental governance The book will also be of interest to upper level undergraduates and professionals working at the science policy interface in the environmental arena

Participation and the Quality of Environmental Decision Making F. Coenen, D. Huitema, Laurence J. O'Toole Jr., 2012-12-06 It is clear that our society must become a more sustainable one To that end we must change both our production and our consumption patterns Some argue that this implies the abolition of democratic processes and thus of citizens participation in environmental policy Others argue the opposite the only way to avoid impending environmental disaster is by engaging in common deliberation and contemplation Is participation then a negative force or not This volume is one of the first coordinated attempts to study the relationship between democratic participatory forms of decision making and the quality of environmental decisions The central question is how can the normatively desirable practice of participatory decision making be combined with an effective approach to environmental issues Guided by a theoretical introduction by the editors the 15 chapters deal with topics ranging from the scale of environmental problems local agenda 21 infrastructural decisions strategic planning to environmental policy in developing countries Three chapters are devoted to each of these broad themes Each presents either a theoretical or an empirical argument about the central research question shedding light on such issues as the measurement of decision quality participation techniques and the link between participation and decision quality drawing on experience gained in Europe North and South America Asia and Africa The introductions to the individual parts of the book have been collectively written by the contributors who represent a range of professional disciplines including political science public policy and planning

Negotiating Environmental Change F. Berkhout, 2003-01-01 The ESRC GEC programme has made a major contribution in terms of environmental social science research The chapters in this book provide incisive detailed and reflective critiques of the development of knowledge over the last ten years and provide powerful and important messages about the challenges presented by the complex relationship between environmental and social change The book should be essential reading for all researchers and also for all policymakers who are grappling with questions about how to respond to environment society controversies Judith Petts Birmingham University UK and Member of the Royal Commission on Environmental Pollution Global environmental change will be with us forever But how it happens in the future and with what effect on the planet and its peoples depends to a large extent on how the international agreements national politics and local actions play out This collection provides the most comprehensive assessment yet of these critical interconnections and reveals how social scientists are making an invaluable contribution to the creation of more science and just livelihoods in a future world Tim O Riordan University of East Anglia UK An aphrodisiac to the tepid response of positivist social science People are not merely actors perpetrators and victims in an environmental drama The critical social theorists in this book constructively show us how people are improvising the stage and the script as we update our understanding of nature what constitutes a good life and our individual and collective options Richard B Norgaard University of California Berkeley US Negotiating Environmental Change is a child of the ESRCs Global Environmental Change Programme by far the biggest piece of work by social scientists in the United Kingdom during the 1990s At the beginning of the twenty first century the balance sheet needs to be drawn up what do our policies insights and values owe to the collaborative efforts of social scientists This book suggests that ideas and approaches that were conceived at a time when the Ozone Hole Global Warming and Biodiversity Losses were beginning to resonate in academic and policy circles have now entered the British and European psyche The challenge of forward thinking in the twenty first century in which the environment is central to most of the issues that concern social science is to demonstrate that the environment is not a separate territory Environmental thinking and practice affects us in various guises governance and democracy business and management risk and everyday consumption the substance of this book Negotiating Environmental Change makes clear the contribution that new thinking is making to problems that were not looked upon as environmental a decade ago but which we now see as being at the forefront of global research and policy agendas Michael Redclift King s College London UK Major advances have been made recently in environmental social science but the context and importance of this research has also changed Social and natural science studies of the environment have begun to interact more closely with each other and many analysts now agree that an understanding of environmental problems often depends on an understanding of the attitudes and behaviour of people and organisations Moreover policy and public debates have also shown that many assumptions that underpin arguments about sustainable development need to be reconsidered and re framed This book by leading researchers presents a critical review of debates in environmental social science over the past decade Three broad areas are covered in ten chapters the problems of scientific uncertainty and its role in shaping environmental policy and decisions the development of institutional frameworks for governing natural resources and the link between economic and technological change and the environment The book begins with an overview essay exam

The Evolution of National Water Regimes in Europe Stefan Kuks, Ingrid Kissling-Näf, 2013-06-05 All over the world countries struggle with water stress Problems vary from water scarcity and a degrading water quality to floods and a rising sea level due to climate change The European Union adopted a Water Framework Directive to improve the sustainability of water management in its member states Water management should be coordinated at the level of river basins as a whole Interests of various user groups should be better represented River basin visions should take into account the impact of all human activities on the status of the resource Water legislation needs streamlining and more focus on its implementation The European Union advocates regulating water prices by charging the costs of water services on the basis of full cost recovery and the polluter pays principle This book examines the development of water management in the Netherlands Belgium France Spain Italy and Switzerland It is based on the European research project EUWARENESS The authors apply a theoretical framework for the analysis of institutional regimes water governance and property rights The evolution of national water resource regimes is described over a period of almost 200 years 1800 2000 The long term perspective enables the reader to see the conditions under which regime transformation and paradigm change are made possible The book also includes a critical analysis of policy making by the European Union and a comparative review and analysis of regime development in the six countries involved This book is followed by another volume published with Kluwer Academic Publishers on Integrated Governance and Water Basin Management edited by Hans Bressers and Stefan Kuks Environmental and Technology Policy in Europe G.J. Schrama, S. Sedlacek, 2013-03-09 This book contains six studies on various national environmental policies and environment oriented technology policy systems in Austria Denmark Germany the Netherlands Spain and the United Kingdom sandwiched between this introductory and a concluding chapter These studies were conducted as part of the ENVINNO research project Towards an Integration of Environmental and Ecology Oriented Technology Policy Stimulus and Response in Environment Related Innovation Networks which formed part of the Targeted Social and Economic Research TSER Programme of Directorate General XII of the European Commission now 1 Directorate General for Research We like to thank Mrs Genevieve Zdrojewski of GD Directorate General Research for her kind support of our research project The project was carried out between 1998 and 2001 by research teams from the six countries The co ordinating institute was the Department of Environmental Economics and Management at the Vienna University of 2 Economics and Business Administration At this place we want to mention all researchers involved in the ENVINNO project and we want to thank them all for their contributions to this book and the project and for the good time we have had performing the project and meeting each other at regular intervals in Vienna A Enschede NL Berlin D and Sevilla E Department of Environmental Economics and Management at the Vienna University of Economics and Business Administration in Austria Univ Prof Dr Uwe Schubert Mag Judith Kock Mag Jiirgen Mellitzer 1 Under contract number SOEI CT98 110S 2 The project website is <http://www.wu.wien.ac.at/iuwwwu/institute/iuIENVINNO> International Environmental Law and Policy in Africa B. Chaytor, K.R. Gray, 2013-11-11 C O OKID11 I welcome the opportunity to prepare a Foreword to the book on Environmental Policy and Law in Africa edited by Kevin R Gray and Beatrice Chaytor It is a pleasure to do that because the book is a contribution to the cause of capacity building for development and implementation of environmental law in Africa a goal towards which I have had an undivided focus over the last two decades There is still some belief in and outside Africa that for developing countries in general and Africa in particular development and implementation of environmental law is not a priority This belief prevails strongly in many quarters of the industrialised countries In fact the view is held either out of blatant ignorance or by some renegade industrialists who fail to appreciate Michael Royston s 1979 thesis that Pollution Prevention Pays 2 That group for obvious reasons must have their correspondent counterparts in Africa to provide hope that industries rejected as derelict in the West or inoperable due to rigorous environmental regulation can find homes to which they can escape and dump their polluting industries

An Institutional Basis for Environmental Stewardship D.A. Fuchs,2013-03-09 What is the role of government in environmental politics and policy The answer to this question used to be relatively clear Government was to regulate the environmental performance of state and non state actors to set standards impose charges and establish more or less stringent criteria of acceptable behavior With the increasing appearance of the issues of globalization and global governance in the political science literature however the focus has turned to the role of non state actors Academic research and the popular debate have identified business non governmental organizations NGOs and civil society as such as increasingly important and potentially powerful actors in the political arena At the same time some observers have proclaimed the influence of government to be declining Others have argued that the role of government primarily is changing rather than declining Those who adopt the latter perspective postulate that the new role for government in this changing political and socio economic context is to set the framework for action In this perspective government is still of fundamental importance for the functioning of the society the economy and political decision making but its role is different in that government merely provides the institutional framework facilitating desired outcomes

Integrated Governance and Water Basin Management Stefan Kuks,Hans Bressers,2012-11-03 This book examines water management integration in the Netherlands Belgium France Spain Italy and Switzerland based on the European research project EUWARENESS Coverage includes 12 country specific case studies examining theory on water governance institutional regimes and property rights resulting in a tool for monitoring the progress of integrated water management at the basin level in EU member states or other countries

Governance of Water-Related Conflicts in Agriculture F.M. Brouwer,I. Heinz,T. Zabel,2013-03-14 This book deals with voluntary approaches between farmers and water suppliers as an instrument to meet environmental standards impacted by agricultural activities more economically efficient and environmentally effective than by exclusive application of alternative instruments including command and control approaches The book is based largely on the results of the research project Co operative Agreements in Agriculture as an Instrument to Improve the Economic Efficiency and Economic Effectiveness of the European Water Policy which was supplemented for specific issues by key experts The research was partly funded by the European Commission under the Specific RTD Programme in the Field of Environment and Climate

Contract No ENV4 CT98 0782 and partly by the Ministry of Agriculture Nature Management and Fisheries in the Netherlands the Environment Agency in England and Wales the UK Ministry of Agriculture Fisheries and Food and the Government of the German Bundesland North Rhine Westphalia Additional funds for preparing the book were obtained from the Ministry of Agriculture Nature Management and Fisheries in the Netherlands The financial and technical support received from the different organisations is gratefully acknowledged The editors appreciate very much the efforts the authors have made in preparing their contributions for the book and for the secretarial assistance provided by Mrs Tessa van Dongen from LEI who took responsibility for guiding the publication process and preparing the chapters of the book We also appreciate the support given by Mrs Henny Hoogervorst and Mrs Gloria Verhey Kluwer Academic Publishers
