environmental hazards are explored within the comprehensive context of diverse natural hazards and disasters. In addition to scientific explanations of disastrous occurrences, people and governments of hazard-prone countries often have their own interpretations for why natural disasters occur. In such interpretations, they often either blame others in order to conceal their inability to protect themselves or they blame themselves, attributing the events to either real or imagined misdeeds. The book contains a chapter devoted to the neglected topic of such reactions and explanations. Includes chapters on key topics such as the application of GIS in hazard studies, resiliency, disasters and poverty, climate change and sustainability and development. This book is designed as a primary text for an interdisciplinary course on hazards for upper-level undergraduate and Graduate students. Although not targeted for an introductory hazards course, students in such a course may find it very useful as well. Additionally, emergency managers, planners, and both public and private organizations involved in disaster response and mitigation could benefit from this book, along with hazard researchers. It not only includes traditional and popular hazard topics, e.g., disaster cycles, disaster relief, and risk and vulnerability, it also includes neglected topics such as the positive impacts of disasters, disaster myths, and different accounts of disasters and disasters and gender.

Evolving Approaches to Understanding Natural Hazards Burrell E. Montz, Graham A. Tobin, 2015-10-05

The 21st century presents many challenges to the hazard manager: dynamic climatic conditions combined with population growth, rapid urbanization, and changing socio-economic relationships are reshaping disaster impacts, community responses, and social safety mechanisms. Indeed, human vulnerability is constantly restructured by the ongoing interplay of physical, social, economic, and political forces. At the same time, reducing vulnerability and enhancing community resilience require policies aimed at mitigating the consequences of disasters as they affect different locations and different groups, requiring sound, scientifically based research to further an understanding of the forces at play and to devise appropriate means to counter them. It is within this context that this book examines evolving approaches to natural hazards. Research into natural hazards has a long tradition, beginning with a focus on physical processes and evolving into an interdisciplinary agenda that incorporates interactions between the physical and human environments, embracing initiatives ranging from the physical to the socio-economic and political. It utilises various methodological approaches and technological advances, employing both quantitative and qualitative procedures. The papers included in this book offer insights into the development of applied hazards research as they build on previous work, evolving technologies, improved understandings of the factors involved, and increased awareness of the needs of those who manage hazards. This volume shows an appreciation for the foundation that has been set and will inspire future researchers as they look to address these very pressing social issues.

Teaching Secondary Geography Malcolm McInerney, Susan Caldis, John Butler, Stephen Cranby, Susanne Jones, Alaric Maude, Michael Patrick Law, Rebecca Nicholas, 2021-12-13

Guided by the Australian Curriculum and the Professional Standards for Teaching School Geography, GEOGstandards Teaching Secondary Geography provides a comprehensive introduction to both the theory and practice of teaching Geography      Geography in America at the Dawn of the 21st Century Gary L. Gaile, Cort J. Willmott, 2005 Geography in America at the Dawn of the 21st Century surveys American geographers current research in their specialty areas and tracks trends and innovations in the many subfields of geography As such it is both a state of the discipline assessment and a topical reference It includes an introduction by the editors and 47 chapters each on a specific specialty The authors of each chapter were chosen by their specialty group of the American Association of Geographers AAG Based on a process of review and revision the chapters in this volume have become truly representative of the recent scholarship of American geographers While it focuses on work since 1990 it additionally includes related prior work and work by non American geographers The initial Geography in America was published in 1989 and has become a benchmark reference of American geographical research during the 1980s This latest volume is completely new and features a preface written by the eminent geographer Gilbert White      Modern Geography Gary S. Dunbar, 2016-02-05 This book charts the developments in the discipline of geography from the 1950s to the 1980s examining how geography now connects with urban regional and national planning and impacts on areas such as medicine transport agricultural development and electoral reform The book also discusses how technical and theoretical advancements have generated a renewed sense of philosophic reflection a concern closely linked with the critical examination and development of social theory      The Geographical Sciences During 1986—2015 Shuying Leng, Xizhang Gao, Tao Pei, Guoyou Zhang, Liangfu Chen, Xi Chen, Canfei He, Daming He, Xiaoyan Li, Chunye Lin, Hongyan Liu, Weidong Liu, Yihe Lü, Shilong Piao, Qihong Tang, Fulu Tao, Lide Tian, Xiaohua Tong, Cunde Xiao, Desheng Xue, Linsheng Yang, Linwang Yuan, Yuanming Zheng, Huiyi Zhu, Liping Zhu, 2016-07-28 In four chapters and an introduction this book systematically helps readers understand the development of the Geographical Sciences both in China and in the world during the past 30 years Through data analysis of methodologies including CiteSpace TDA qualitative analysis questionnaires data mining and mathematical statistics the book explains the evolution of research topics and their driving factors in the Geographical Sciences and its four branches namely Physical Geography Human Geography Geographical Information Science and Environmental Geography It also identifies the role of the Geographical Sciences in the analysis of strategic issues such as global change and terrestrial ecosystems terrestrial water cycle and water resources land change global cryosphere evolution and land surface processes on the Tibetan Plateau economic globalization and local responses regional sustainable development remote sensing modelling and parameter inversion spatial analysis and simulation and tempo spatial processes and modelling of environmental pollutants It then discusses research development and inadequacy of Chinese Geographical Sciences in the above mentioned topics as well as in the fields including Geomorphology and Quaternary environmental change Ecohydrology ecosystem services the urbanization process and mechanism medical and health geography international rivers and transboundary environment and resources detection and attribution of changes in land surface sensitive components and uncertainty of spatial information encyclopedia does full justice to the enormous growth of social and cultural geography in recent years. Leading international academics from ten countries and four continents have contributed ensuring that differing traditions in geography around the world are represented. In addition to references the essays also have recommendations for further reading. As with the original work the new Companion Encyclopedia of Geography provides a state of the art survey of the discipline and is an indispensable addition to the reference shelves of libraries supporting research and teaching in geography.

Teaching Humanities & Social Sciences Rob Gilbert, Libby Tudball, Peter Brett, 2019-10-17. Teaching Humanities and Social Sciences 7e prepares teachers to develop and implement programs in the humanities and social sciences learning area from F 10. It successfully blends theory with practical approaches to provide a basis for teaching that is engaging, inquiry based and relevant to students' lives. Using Version 8.1 of the Australian Curriculum the text discusses the new structure of the humanities and social sciences learning area. Chapters on history, geography, civics and citizenship and economics and business discuss the nature of these subjects and how to teach them to achieve the greatest benefit for students both as sub strands within the Year F 6-7 HASS subject and as distinct Year 7-10 subjects. Throughout the book maintains its highly respected philosophical and practical orientation including a commitment to deep learning in a context of critical inquiry. With the aid of this valuable text teachers can assist primary, middle and secondary students to become active and informed citizens who contribute to a just, democratic and sustainable future.

A Companion to Environmental Geography Noel Castree, David Demeritt, Diana Liverman, Bruce Rhoads, 2016-10-03. A Companion to Environmental Geography is the first book to comprehensively and systematically map the research frontier of human environment geography in an accessible and comprehensive way. Cross cuts several areas of a discipline which has traditionally been seen as divided, presenting work by human and physical geographers in the same volume. Presents both the current state of the art research and charts future possibilities for the discipline. Extends the term environmental geography beyond its traditional meanings to include new work on nature and environment by human and physical geographers not just hazards, resources and conservation geographers. Contains essays from an outstanding group of international contributors from among established scholars and rising stars in geography.

Managing Adaptation to Climate Risk Geoff O'Brien, Phil O'Keefe, 2013-07-24. Climate change is the single largest threat to the attainment of the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) and sustainable development. Addressing climate risk is a challenge for all. This book calls for greater collaboration between climate communities and disaster development communities. In discussing this the book will evaluate the approaches used by each community to reduce the adverse effects of climate change. One area that offers some promise for bringing together these communities is through the concept of resilience. This term is increasingly used in each community to describe a process that embeds capacity to respond to and cope with disruptive events. This emphasizes an approach that is more focused on pre event planning and using strategies to build resilience to hazards in an adaptation framework. The book will conclude by evaluating the scope for a holistic approach where these communities can effectively contribute to building communities that are resilient to climate driven risks
