Health And Global Environment:

Global Environmental Change: The Threat to Human Health Samuel S. Myers, 2009-11 Over the past two to three hundred years humanity's ecological footprint has ballooned to such an extent that we are now fundamentally altering the planet. We have transformed the Earth's land surface and altered the function of its ecosystems and we are triggering the rapid loss of both terrestrial and marine life. We are also profoundly changing our planet's climate. It is increasingly apparent that the breadth and depth of the changes we are wreaking on the environment are imperiling not only many of the other species with which we share the ecological stage but the health and wellbeing of our own species as well. Global climate change threatens human health in numerous and profound ways. Large segments of the population will experience more heat waves, altered exposure to infectious disease and more frequent natural disasters. Most significantly, climatic disruption threatens the adequacy of the core building blocks of health for large populations around the globe: sufficient food and nutrition, safe water for drinking and sanitation, fresh air to breathe and secure homes to live in. As climate change dismantles these central elements of healthy societies, people with fewer resources will be forced to migrate in large numbers to lands where they may not be welcome. A likely result of all of these processes will be increased civic instability and strife. Our Global Environment Anne Nadakavukaren, Jack Caravanos, 2020-01-23 Our Global Environment regarded for decades as the quintessential introduction to environmental health for its authoritative coverage and cogent prose provides a richly detailed survey of current environmental issues. In compelling language, Anne Nadakavukaren and new coauthor Jack Caravanos describe the crucial interdependence between humans and their environment, exploring the varied ways in which human activities have impacted, degraded or altered the environment and the consequences to both natural ecosystems and human health and wellbeing. The eighth edition features a new chapter on climate change and the public health impacts of global warming, incorporating the latest assessments of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change with regard to the physical science basis, mitigation efforts and adaptation strategies. Extensive revisions and updates throughout the volume reflect current topics of concern, including the magnitude of global hunger and malnutrition, outbreaks of the Zika virus, vaping and the incidence of serious lung injury, MTBE contamination of groundwater, recycling of lead acid batteries in developing countries, mercury exposure among artisanal gold miners and lead-contaminated drinking water in Flint, Michigan and other communities. Readers will appreciate the addition of 16 pages of color images as well as the authors' emphasis on opportunities for public participation in the decision-making processes that profoundly influence health and environmental quality. Study Guide to Our Global Environment Anne Nadakavukaren, Jack Caravanos, 2020-01-31 The perfect companion volume to Our Global Environment: A Health Perspective, Eighth Edition, this Study Guide is designed with the student in mind. The exercises are presented in a variety of formats, including true/false, matching, short answer, discussion and essay, providing students with the tools they need to review the material and reinforce their understanding of the topics in each chapter. Krummenacher, 2009-06-04 The year 2007 could perhaps accurately be described as the year when climate change finally received the attention that this challenge deserves globally Much of the information and knowledge that was created in this field during the year was the result of the findings of the Fourth sessment Report AR4 of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC which were disseminated on a large scale and reported extensively by the media This was the result not only of a heightened interest on the part of the public on various aspects of climate change but also because the IPCC itself proactively attempted to spread the findings of its AR4 to the public at large The interest generated on the scientific realities of climate change was further enhanced by the award of the Nobel Peace Prize to the IPCC and former Vice President of the US Al Gore By taking this decision in favour of a leader who has done a great deal to create awareness on c mate change and a body that assesses all scientific aspects of climate change and disseminates the result of its findings the Norwegian Nobel Committee has clearly drawn the link between climate change and peace in the world
