scholars and activists on gender and developmental issues Presents a variety of perspectives by women from both industrialized and developing countries Summarizes the literature of established disciplines bringing together important material scattered in many sources Identifies new areas for research affecting gender and development in emerging fields such as legal rights Outlines strategies for action in such critical areas as ecology and urban issues An annotated bibliography and list of references at end of each chapter make it easy to expand your research Education, Poverty and Global Goals for Gender Equality Elaine Unterhalter, Amy North, 2017-08-07 Drawing on case study research that examined initiatives which engaged with global aspirations to advance gender equality in schooling in Kenya and South Africa this book looks at how global frameworks on gender education and poverty are interpreted in local settings and the politics of implementation It discusses the forms of global agreements in particular contexts and allows for an appraisal of how they have been understood by the people who implement them By using an innovative approach to comparative cross country research the book illuminates how ideas and actions connect and disconnect around particular meanings of poverty education and gender in large systems and different settings Its conclusions will allow assessments of the approach to the post 2015 agenda to be made taking account of how policy and practice relating to global social justice are negotiated sometimes negated the forms in which they are affirmed and the actions that might help enhance them This book will be valuable for students researchers academics senior teachers senior government and inter government officials and senior staff in NGOs working in the field of education and international development gender poverty reduction and social development Gender, Human Security and the United Nations Natalie Florea Hudson, 2009-09-22 This book examines the relationship between women gender and the international security agenda exploring the meaning of security in terms of discourse and practice as well as the larger goals and strategies of the global women s movement Today many complex global problems are being located within the security logic From the environment to HIV AIDS state and non state actors have made a practice out of securitizing issues that are not conventionally seen as such As most prominently demonstrated by the UN Security Council Resolution 1325 2001 activists for women s rights have increasingly framed women s rights and gender inequality as security issues in an attempt to gain access to the international security agenda particularly in the context of the United Nations This book explores the nature and implications of the use of security language as a political framework for women tracing and analyzing the organizational dynamics of women s activism in the United Nations system and how women have come to embrace and been impacted by the security framework globally and locally The book argues that from a feminist and human security perspective efforts to engender the security discourse have had both a broadening and limiting effect highlighting reasons to be sceptical of securitization as an inherently beneficial strategy Four cases studies are used to develop the core themes 1 the campaign to implement UN Security Council Resolution 1325 2 the strategies utilized by those advocating women s issues in the security arena compared to those advocating for children 3 the organizational development of the UN Development Fund for Women and how it has come to securitize women and 4 the activity of the UN Peacebuilding Commission and its challenges in gendering its security approach The work will be of interest to students of critical security gender studies international organizations and international relations in general

Natalie Florea Hudson received her PhD in Political Science from the University of Connecticut and is an Assistant Professor at the University of Dayton She specializes in gender and international relations human rights international security studies and international law and organization

The Oxford Handbook of Transnational Feminist Movements Daniel Beland, Christopher Howard, Kimberly J. Morgan, 2015-02-25 The American welfare state has long been a source of political contention and academic debate This Oxford Handbook pulls together much of our current knowledge about the origins development functions and challenges of American social policy After the Introduction the first substantive part of the handbook offers an historical overview of U S social policy from the colonial era to the present This is followed by a set of chapters on different theoretical perspectives available for understanding and explaining the development of U S social policy The three following parts of the volume focus on concrete social programs for the elderly the poor and near poor the disabled and workers and families Policy areas covered include health care pensions food assistance housing unemployment benefits disability benefits workers compensation family support and programs for soldiers and veterans The final part of the book focuses on some of the consequences of the U S welfare state for poverty inequality and citizenship Many of the chapters comprising this handbook emphasize the disjointed patterns of policy making inherent to U S policymaking and the public private mix of social provision in which the government helps certain groups of citizens directly e g social insurance or indirectly e g tax expenditures regulations The contributing authors are experts from political science sociology history economics and other social sciences

The Oxford Handbook of Transnational Feminist Movements Rawwida Baksh, Wendy Harcourt, 2015-03-25 The Oxford Handbook of Transnational Feminist Movements explores the historical political and economic context in which transnational feminist movements have emerged and spread and the contributions these movements have made to global knowledge policy and social change from the 1970s to the present As it includes contributions from scholars and practitioners from around the globe particularly from the Southern Hemisphere the chapters consider the interplay between the lived experience of transnational feminist movements and the way that women's rights and gender equality have been theorized in different locations and contexts

Agricultural Commercialization, Gender Equality and the Right to Food Joanna Bourke Martignoni, Christophe Gironde, Christophe Golay, Elisabeth Prügl, Dzodzi Tsikata, 2022-09-22 This volume explores agricultural commercialization from a gender equality and right to food perspective Agricultural commercialization involving not only the shift to selling crops and buying inputs but also the commodification of land and labour has always been controversial Strategies for commercialization have often reinforced and exacerbated inequalities been blind to gender differences and given rise to violations of the human rights to food land work and social security While there is a body of evidence to trace these developments globally impacts vary considerably in local contexts This book systematically considers these dynamics in two countries Cambodia and Ghana Profoundly different in terms of their history and location they provide the basis for fruitful comparisons because they both transitioned to democracy in the early 1990s made agricultural development a priority and adopted orthodox policies of commercialization to develop the sector Chapters illustrate how commercialization processes are gendered highlighting distinctive gender ethnic and class dynamics in rural Ghana and Cambodia and the different outcomes these generate They also show the ways in which food cultures are changing and the often problematic impact of these changes on the safety and quality of food Specific policies and legal norms are examined with chapters addressing the development and implementation of frameworks on the right to food and land administration Overall the volume brings into relief multiple dimensions shaping the outcomes of processes of commercialization including gender orders food cultures policy translation national and sub national policies corporate investments and programmes and formal and informal legal norms In doing so it offers insight not only on our case countries but also provides proposals to advance rights based research on food security This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of food security agricultural development and economics gender human rights and sustainable development

Diverting the Flow Margreet Zwarteveen, Sara Ahmed, Suman Rimal Gautam, 2014-03-11 Across the South Asian region water determines livelihoods and in some cases even survival However water also creates exclusions Access to water and its social organisation are intimately tied up with power relations This book provides an overview of gender equity and water issues relevant to South Asia The essays empirically illustrate and theoretically argue how gender intersects with other axes of social difference such as class caste ethnicity age and religion to shape water access use and management practices Divided into six thematic sections each of which starts with an introduction of relevant concepts debates and theories the book looks at laws and rights policies technologies and intervention strategies In all the book clearly shows how understanding and changing the use distribution and management of water is conditional upon understanding and accommodating gender relations Published by Zubaan
