

Food Laws & Regulations

- Food laws are statements of government policies that cover both the general and specific aspects of adulteration and misbranding of foods, while the food regulations deal with the enforcement of government policies that are embodied in the food laws.
- These food laws and regulations are intended to ensure that foods do not cause harm, illness, or injury; are not adulterated or misbranded; and are wholesome and fit for human consumption.

Perspectives and Guidelines on Food Legislation Jessica Vapnek, Melvin Spreij, 2005-01-01 The increasing globalization of food trade and the harmonization of food standards and food safety rules have led to significant changes in the international and national regulatory frameworks for food There is an increasing recognition of the need to integrate and improve coordination of regulatory activities among national and international bodies for better protection of human animal and plant life and health without creating unnecessary barriers to trade In addition catastrophic outbreaks of food borne disease have sparked increasing attention to the regulatory frameworks for food safety and food trade in the global arena These developments have given rise to new legislative needs National regulatory frameworks have to be adjusted to meet international and regional obligations while the distribution of responsibilities for the food sector requires rigorous review The present text draws on FAO's experience in providing technical assistance to governments developing new food laws and regulations setting out and examining the many elements of the national system which should be taken into account in a comprehensive review of national regulatory frameworks for food Towards that end the text offers concrete recommendations for the preparation of a basic national food law including three variants of a new model food law

Food Law Handbook Harold Schultz, 2012-12-06 Of all industries in the United States the food industry must in fact be the most regulated by law If it is not its competition for this distinction goes unnoticed All phases of the food industry are subjected to some control by law beginning with the land food is grown on and the oceans from which it is harvested Seed and plant stock are sometimes subjected to control such as to the nutritional value of the foods they produce Acreages of agricultural crops the quantities of foods to be produced are regulated As foods are produced whether from plants or animals the substances applied to increase yields or provide protection from pests are controlled to insure safe use As foods enter and pass through the huge marketing system they are scrutinized from beginning to end by regulatory agents operating under authority of food laws Those foods which are transformed through various technologies into today s thousands of consumer products are watched carefully to insure the appropriateness and safety of added ingredients not all of which are natural and the adequacy of processing packaging and storage Finally the representation of foods to consumers through labeling and advertising is controlled to make sure it is accurate and sufficiently informative Food Laws and Regulations Wendy Caroline Jackson,1999
