The Archaeology of Human Ancestry Stephen Shennan, James Steele, 2005-08-15 Human social life is constrained and defined by our cognitive and emotional dispositions which are the legacy of our foraging ancestors But how difficult is it to reconstruct the social systems and cultural traditions of those ancestors The Archaeology of Human Ancestry provides a stimulating and provocative answer in which archaeologists and biological anthropologists set out and demonstrate their reconstructive methods Contributors use observations of primates and modern hunter gatherers to illuminate the fossil and artefactual records Thematic treatment covers the evolution of group size group composition and the emotional structure of social bonds sexual dimorphism and the sexual division of labour and the origins of human cultural traditions The Archaeology of Human Ancestry is an essential introduction to the subject for advanced undergraduates and researchers in archaeology and biological anthropology It will also be used by workers in psychology sociology and feminist studies as a resource for understanding human social origins

Food Research Janet Chrzan, John Brett, 2017-01-01 Biocultural and archaeological research on food past and present often relies on very specific precise methods for data collection and analysis These are presented here in a broad based review Individual chapters provide opportunities to think through the adoption of methods by reviewing the history of their use along with a discussion of research conducted using those methods A case study from the author s own work is included in each chapter to illustrate why the methods were adopted in that particular case along with abundant additional resources to further develop and explore those methods

Causes and Consequences of Human Migration Michael H. Crawford, Benjamin C. Campbell, 2012-11-08 Migration is a widespread human activity dating back to the origin of our species Advances in genetic sequencing have greatly increased our ability to track prehistoric and historic population movements and allowed migration to be described both as a biological and socioeconomic process Presenting the latest research Causes and Consequences of Human Migration provides an evolutionary perspective on human migration past and present Crawford and Campbell have brought together leading thinkers who provide examples from different world regions using historical demographic and genetic methodologies and integrating archaeological genetic and historical evidence to reconstruct large scale population movements in each region Other chapters discuss established questions such as the Basque origins and the Caribbean slave trade More recent evidence on migration in ancient and present day Mexico is also presented Pitched at a graduate audience this book will appeal to anyone with an interest in human population movements

Rowland, Anaya Mitra, 2019-11-14 The Psychology of Eating is the essential multi disciplinary introduction to the psychology of eating looking at the biological genetic developmental and social determinants of how humans find and assimilate food Thoroughly revised and updated the new edition brings multi faceted expertise to the topic of normal and dysfunctional food intake juxtaposing normal eating eating in environments of food scarcity and the phenomenon of abnormal eating prevalent in many modern day developed societies Eating disorders are not a focus but also emerge from this approach Key features include A new expanded section considering the roles of business and government in creating and potentially solving the issue of abnormal eating Learning objectives talking points and end of chapter glossaries Chapter by chapter self assessment questions With questions of food production food choice and environmental sustainability becoming more critical in an increasingly populated world this is crucial reading for undergraduate courses in Psychology and other disciplines with a holistic and critical thinking approach to the psychology of food intake

Foods of the Gods Gary Westfahl, George Edgar Slusser, Eric S. Rabkin, 1996 Gluttony and starvation pleasure and pain growth and decay These and other extremes of our condition related to food though all but banned from the civilized tables of mainstream fiction are ideal topics for the undomesticated free roaming modes of fantasy As acts and ideas food and eating are fundamental to all that makes us human and dominate our symbolic realms of art literature and cuisine These essays show us the power of speculative modes of fiction to help us look anew at prehistorical and psychomylthical attitudes toward food and eating historical Western cultural attitudes toward the material fact of food and the necessity of eating and the relationship between attitudes toward food and how how much when and where we eat The contributors come from a variety of backgrounds including anthropology film and French Russian English and medieval literature Ranging in their focus from shamans to cannibals utopias to social Darwinism muscle magazines to supermarket tabloids the contributors discuss the theory and practice of science fictional eating the dialectic at the level of eating between individual needs and collective norms and the ways that eating habits and the availability and choice of food serve to contextualize and demarcate modern fictional genres In addition to discussing such writers as C S Lewis Stephen King Octavia Butler Jonathan Swift and Anne Rice the contributors also consider such films as Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom and Cocteau s Beauty and the Beast

Spectacles of Death in Ancient Rome Donald G. Kyle, 1998 Rome killed many thousands of people animals in elaborate public spectacles This provocative book asks not only who the victims were and why they were killed in such a brutal fashion but what happened to their bodies

Risk And Uncertainty In Tribal And Peasant Economies Elizabeth Cashdan, 2019-09-05 This book is concerned with how people respond to unpredictable variation in environmental and economic conditions risk and lack of information uncertainty about those risks The papers focus on tribal and peasant societies These societies lack many of the formal institutions that we in the industrialized West rely on to buffer us against unpredictable resource fluctuations As the papers in this volume show people in these societies are directly and profoundly affected by such risks The contributors to this volume are primarily ecological and economic anthropologists who have in common a familiarity with both the formal theory of behavioral ecology and or economics and the anthropological literature on tribal and peasant societies

A Cultural Theory of International Relations Richard Ned Lebow, 2008-12-11 An original theory of politics and international relations based on ancient Greek ideas of human motivation

Routledge Handbook of Development Ethics Jay Drydyk, Lori Keleher, 2018-07-16 The Routledge Handbook of Development Ethics provides readers with insight into the central questions of development ethics the main approaches to answering them and areas for future research Over the past seventy years it has been argued and increasingly accepted that worthwhile development cannot be reduced to economic growth Rather a number of other goals must be realised Enhancement of people s well being Equitable sharing in benefits of development Empowerment to participate freely in development Environmental sustainability Promotion of human rights Promotion of cultural freedom consistent with human rights Responsible conduct including integrity over corruption Agreement that these are essential goals has also been accompanied by disagreements about how to conceptualize or apply them in different cases or contexts Using these seven goals as an organizing principle this handbook presents different approaches to achieving each one drawing on academic literature policy documents and practitioner experience This international and multi disciplinary handbook will be of great interest to development policy makers and program workers students and scholars in development studies public policy international studies applied ethics and other related disciplines

Research Methods for Anthropological Studies of Food and Nutrition Janet Chrzan, John Brett, 2017-02-01 The dramatic increase in all things food in popular and academic fields during the last two decades has generated a diverse and dynamic set of approaches for understanding the complex relationships and interactions that determine how people eat and how diet affects culture These volumes offer a comprehensive reference for students and established scholars interested in food and nutrition research in Nutritional and Biological Anthropology Archaeology Socio Cultural and Linguistic Anthropology Food Studies and Applied Public Health

Changing Rice Bowl: Economic Development and Diet in China Elizabeth J. Leppman, 2005-03-01 The book deals with a topic of perennial interest to Chinese and non Chinese alike Chinese food Chinese culture is exceptionally food oriented and non Chinese are curious about what Chinese people in China actually eat as contrasted with meals in ever popular Chinese restaurants Furthermore foreigners have long received the impression that Chinese people are inadequately fed but the picture today is considerably more complex At its best the Chinese diet is among the world s healthiest and access to adequate nutritious food has made enormous progress in recent years The content of the Chinese diet and its nutritional adequacy vary over space not only in the vastness of China but even within one province All these strands examined after the end of food rationing opened new choices to Chinese consumers are portrayed in a text that is easily accessible to the general public and that is supplemented with maps graphs and photographs Beginning with background concepts in nutrition culture and economic development the book proceeds to describe foods that Chinese traditionally eat and the farming system that has produced them for hundreds of years It then gives an overview of rural urban contrasts at the national level A summary geography of Liaoning Province in China s northeast provides background for the detailed study of the dietary regime in a sample of households at five sites within the province The book concludes with some suggestions of possible future implications of the findings

Public Health and the Risk Factor William G. Rothstein, 2003 A risk factor is anything that increases the risk of disease in an individual

Companion Encyclopaedia of Anthropology Tim Ingold, 2021-12-24 This comprehensive survey of contemporary thought in biological social and cultural anthropology sets the foundation for their future development and integration The principal rationale behind the Encyclopedia is to overcome the division and fragmentation within the approaches of the humanities and natural sciences to anthropology It emphasizes interconnections between perspectives and sub disciplines producing a complete perspective on what it means to be human The work consists of three parts Humanity Culture and Social Life and 40 major contributions Part One emphasizes human beings as members of a species how that species differs from others how it has evolved and how human populations have adapted to and in turn transformed their environments Part Two deals with the origin and structure of human culture and on the role of culture in action perception and cognition Part Three examines the various aspects of the relationships and processes that are carried on by persons and groups in the course of social life Useful features such as cross references within the text full biographical references suggestions for further reading and carefully illustrated line drawings make this an indispensable resource for all students of anthropology or sociology
