Food Colors:

Anthocyanins as Food Colors Pericles Markakis, 2012-12-02 Anthocyanins as Food Colors aims to assemble scattered information on anthocyanins pertinent to food coloration. Both basic and applied aspects of these pigments are discussed. Organized into nine chapters, this book begins with a discussion of the chemical structure of anthocyanins followed by its copigmentation and biosynthesis. It then discusses the distribution of anthocyanin in food plants as well as the compounds' stability in food. This work also looks into the analysis of anthocyanins and their presence in grapes and wine. Utilization of anthocyanins as food additives is addressed in the last chapter. This book will provide additional information in order to maximize the visual appeal of these pigments both in products in which they are naturally present and in products to which they may be added as colorants.

Food Colour and Appearance Hutchings, 2012-12-06 Much of man's behaviour is controlled by appearance, but the appearance of his food is of paramount importance to his health and well-being. In day-to-day survival and marketing situations, we can or not most foods are fit to eat from their optical tell whether properties. Although vision and colour perception are the means by which we appreciate our surroundings, visual acceptance depends on more than just colour. It depends on total appearance. In the recent past, the food technologist has been under pressure to increase his/her understanding of first the behaviour of raw materials under processing and second the behaviour and motivation of his/her customers in a growing more discriminating and worldwide market. The chapters which follow describe the philosophy of total appearance, the factors comprising it, and its application to the food industry. Included are considerations of the evolutionary, historical, and cultural aspects of food appearance; the physics and food chemistry of colour and appearance; the principles of sensory appearance assessment and appearance profile analysis; as well as instrumental measurement; the interaction of product appearance control and acceptance in the varied environments of the laboratory, production line, supermarket, home, and restaurant. A broad examination has been made in an attempt to get into perspective the importance of appearance to all sectors of the industry.
