From East And West Rethinking Christian Mission For Today:

From East and West D (Daniel)preman Niles,2004-04-01 Taking into account that all religions are missionary Niles challenges Christians to rethink mission in a way that reflects the realities of our present world including the reality of religious plurality He looks at three understandings of people from the point of view of Christian mission and how the three ought to interact Using three Greek words to distinguish and relate these concepts of people Niles explores the ways in which the laos the Christian community could relate with reciprocity to the ochlos the multitudes the marginalized and deprived and to the ethne religio cultural entities so that the laos could be a blessing to the peoples He argues that only churches that manage these relationships in a reconciled and creative way within themselves can respond to this new missionary challenge Evangelical Review of Theology, Volume 46, Number 3, August 2022 Thomas

Burning Center, Porous Borders Eleazar S. Fernandez, 2011-10-17 Burning Center Porous Borders articulates what the church is and is called to be about in the world a world now globalized to the point that the local is lived globally and the global is lived locally The church must respond creatively and prophetically to the challenges economic disparity war and terrorism diaspora ecological threat health crisis religious diversity and so on posed by our highly globalized world It can do so only if the church's spiritual center burns mightily Conversely it can burn mightily in the spirit of Christ only if its borders are porous and allows the fresh air spirit of change to blow in and out While there is much rhetoric about change the most common response to change is to continue doing business as usual This is particularly the case in the face of perceived global threats In spite of the hoopla and euphoria of the global village walls of division and exclusion are rising hearts are constricting and moral imagination shrinking In response to this context Burning Center Porous Borders proposes alternative ways or images of being a church burning center and porous borders wall buster and bridge builder translocal glocal mending healer radical hospitality community of the earth spirit household of life abundant dialogians of life and community of hope In Burning Center Porous Borders congregational vitality and progressive praxis kiss and embrace Missions Gailyn Van Rhee, 2014-07-22 In a rapidly changing world the central missionary vision of the church must be constantly renewed lest its foundations become lost in the confusion of change or its practices trapped in missionary models of the past In this second edition of Missions long time missionary Gailyn Van Rhee revises and updates his classic text on Christian missions laying sound theological and strategic foundations for the missionary of today and tomorrow Van Rhee helps renew the missionary vision by discussing areas such as The history of Christian mission and how it affects where we are today Spiritual formation for God's mission The missionary cycle Cross cultural communication The character and calling of missionaries Types of missionaries Church maturation Selecting mission fields The role of money in missions Four levels of involvement in missions But Missions is more than blackboard theory Written by a long time missionary it carries the conviction and insights of one who has lived his subject Accessible to students practitioners and laypeople alike Missions provides a primary go to resource for understanding and becoming involved in the dynamic activity of world missions A Promised Life Elizabeth Paige Maxwell McRight, 2018-08-22 Robert Maxwell was promised for ministry seven years before he was born and his life work would take him to British India in the half century leading up to its independence Maxwell spent his life keeping his father's promise to enter the ministry and he would be a formative part of the missionary movement that shaped the Presbyterian Church in today's Pakistan In A Promised Life author Elizabeth Paige Maxwell McRight tells the story of her grandfather Robert Maxwell and his role in the missionary movement all through the lens of her family's part in it and with many wonderful letters and correspondence left behind Tracing his life from a farm in Upstate New York to a world strange and new to him and his bride a world where he spent forty two years in mission service this chronicle both tells of the joy and the sacrifice in his family life as well as documents Maxwell's mission work in the first half of the twentieth century which would lead to the growth of the Presbyterian Church in Pakistan today The Maxwells felt a sense of duty to raise sons and daughters who would make their own contributions to their communities and their story is part of the larger tale of the spread of the gospel far beyond their own households They are not particularly remarkable on the world stage yet their story points beyond themselves to represent the countless others who devoted their lives to being Christ's witnesses

Making Sense of Religious Pluralism Alan Race, 2013-06-20 Is Christian faith the only or best route to relationship with God New relationships shared common action and dialogue between people whose experiences differ are changing the way Christian theologians are thinking about religious pluralism No longer objects of ridicule or condemnation world religions are genuine vehicles of spiritual vision capable of transforming human hearts and minds It has taken Christian theology many years to come to this point and there is no going back Alan Race is an outstanding expert in the interreligious field and has throughout his career and ministry built up a high reputation for understanding and dialogue between faith communities Here he deals with the use of Scripture inclusivism and exclusivism pluralism and particularism mission and dialogue The next phase of Christian thought he argues will be shaped by new appreciation and insight stemming from the fact that Christianity is one religion among many

Shaking the Fundamentals Jan van Lin, 2016-08-09 The issue central to this study can be considered one of the most pressing facing the World Council of Churches today and in the decades to come and is much greater than that which confronted the International Mission Council in the years 1910 to 1938 The question answered in this study is what significance can the theology of religions as it developed between 1910 Edinburgh and 1938 Tambaram have for present day endeavours to develop a more common understanding and vision within the ecumenical movement as regards the theological problem of religious plurality This significance becomes clear in the conclusions and suggestions in the final chapter One of these conclusions is that classic Trinitarian theology and Pneumatology will be incapable of drawing the theology of religions out of the present impasse as long as traditional Christological models continue to exist within them A commemoration of the Edinburgh meeting will undoubtedly be organized in 2010 and in view of this commemoration Dr van Lin suggests considering the possibility of starting a process of reflection on the World Council of Churches theology of religions similar to those on Baptism Eucharist and Ministry and Towards the Common Expression of the Apostolic Faith Today Given the fact that the study of religious plurality shakes the ecumenical movement to its foundations within the foreseeable futures serious thought has to be given to placing the study of the theology of religions on the agenda of Faith and Order within the World Council of Churches
