Winzeler,2004-01-01 Present day travelers visiting Borneo to see the marvelous buildings pictured in books are liable to wonder if they somehow ended up in the wrong place Much of the architecture of Borneo and other areas of the humid tropics was never intended to last and built as it is of wood and other organic materials last it has not Among Borneo s spectacular indigenous buildings the longhouses mortuary monuments and other architectural forms of the interior are some of the most outstanding and much of the renewed interest in indigenous architecture has focused on the rapidly vanishing or now extinct traditional forms of a small number of surviving examples or recreations Drawing on the author s extensive research and travel in Borneo this impressive and original study offers a more comprehensive account of this architecture than any previous work Organized into two sections the book first documents and explains traditional built forms in terms of tools and materials the environmental context village organization and social arrangements This section includes a full discussion of architecture designs and symbolism especially those dealing with life and death The author next look Home in the Islands Jan

Conversion, Identity, and Power Sue A. Russell, 1999-07-08 The introduction of Christianity into traditional societies has been the subject of numerous studies Few of these studies however have adequately examined the way that this introduction affects power relationships in a community In this the third volume in the American Society of Missiology's dissertation series A Sue Russell attempts to advance the discourse on Christianity and social change by showing how a new social institution the local church both influences and is influenced by existing sociocultural power relationships Building on her extensive research into the Tagal Murut Dr Russell clearly demonstrates that the introduction of Christianity created a dynamic that produced new social relations and power structures in Tagal society With its unique insights into this crucial dynamic Conversion Identity and Power stands as an important contribution to the sociological and missiological literature exploring the impact of Christianity on traditional societies Book jacket The Life of the Longhouse

Peter Metcalf, 2009-12-14 For two centuries travellers were amazed at the massive buildings found along the rivers that flow from the mountainous interior of Borneo They concentrated hundreds of people under one roof in the middle of empty rainforests There was no practical necessity for this arrangement and it remains a mystery In this book Peter Metcalf provides an answer by showing the historical context using both oral histories and colonial records The key factor was a pre modern trading system that funneled rare and exotic jungle products to China via the ancient coastal city of Brunei Meanwhile the elite manufactured goods traded upriver shaped the political and religious institutions of longhouse society However the apparent permanence of longhouses was an illusion In historical terms longhouse communities were both mobile and labile and the patterns of ethnicity they created more closely resemble the contemporary world than any stereotype of tribal societies

Indonesian Houses, 2022-06-20 The traditional houses and settlements of the several hundred ethnic groups of Indonesia are extremely varied and all have their own unique history Underlying this rich diversity are fundamental similarities rooted in the ancient heritage that is shared by all the peoples in the Indonesian field of study The multiplicity of ways in which this heritage is given shape in each local situation bears witness to an amazing creativity in adapting to regional circumstances and social changes Inter ethnic comparison of the architectural structures is a way to arrive at a better understanding of both the shared traditions and the diverging developments In many cases the variety of house forms will reflect successful attempts at one group s making distinct its buildings from those of neighbouring groups in an ongoing ethnic process of what could be called mutual contrasting although sometimes by means of pseudo traditions which have little to do with indigenous customs of the past The contributions to this volume are grouped in four sections The first consists of essays describing approaches to the transformation and variation of houses The second set presents applications of these approaches in case studies of specific Sumatran cultures The third group widens the perspective through the inclusion of a number of cultures from outside Sumatra namely from Flores Sulawesi Kalimantan Palu and Roti The final set deals not so much with houses as with settlements In their pursuit of the cultural dimension of houses the contributions focus on villages and towns exploring their cosmological and symbolic organization The Prehistory of Home
